HANNA ADMITS PREDICTION OF UNIFIEDSAVING

Traction Head Reaffirms Opinion Given House Committee.

CHAIRMAN PATRICK PRESSES QUESTION

Trolley Company Counsel Seeks to Sidetrack Merger Issue.

OPERATING EXPENSE ADDED TO VALUATION

Statistics Are Introduced to Show Volume of Travel on Which Fare Raise Asked

The street car companies and the public utilities commission came to direct grips over the question of unified operation of the car lines at the fare increase hearing at the commission offices in the District Building yesterday.

The issue was joined with surprising suddenness when Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired, chairman of the commission, turned the job of presiding over to Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman, and forced John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., to say that material savings and economies would result from unified operation of the car lines.

Hanna's admission was made only after a determined though futile battle on the part of G. Thomas Dunlop and George A. Hamilton, counsel for the company, to sidetrack Gen. Patrick's line of inquiry.

J. E. Heberle, accounting chief of the company, had been a joint witness with Hanna throughout the day, as during the first two days of the hearing. Hartman suddenly concluded "for the time being" his examination into the first company exhibit containing the company's claim for a valuation of $26,080,144.72, as of December 31, 1926, as the basis for its claim for a 10-cent cash fare with four tokens for 30 cents for itself and its competitor and subsidiaries of both lines.

Quiet Precedes Storm.

The company thereupon offered in evidence in rapid succession statements showing the number of passengers carried, revenues earned and the rate of return it had earned on its claimed valuation for 1926 and subsequent years. Heberle had explained each statement without interruption and there was an absence of tension among company attorneys and officers who had found Hartman's series of questions dealing with valuation and accounting extremely unpalatable. But it was the quiet before the storm.

On the conclusion of Heberle's explanation of the rate of return statement, Gen. Patrick said he would like to ask a few questions. Heretofore the general has played the role of chairman, sitting attentive but quiet most of the time except to rule on various motions and objections.

"Assuming the figures used in your exhibit, Mr. Heberle, are correct, the amount your company would have available for return on valuation would be changed by an increase in operating revenues or by an increase or decrease in expenses, would it not?" Gen. Patrick began.

"That is correct," replied Heberle.

"Assuming the operating revenues remained practically the same, the amount available for return would be increased if there were a decrease in expenses?" Gen. Patrick continued.

"That is true," replied Heberle, while company lawyers and officers sat relaxed, apparently expecting the general to ask nothing of any extreme importance.

Objections Are Overruled.

But they jerked upright when Gen. Patrick referred to the street car merger hearings before the House committee and quoted from the record of that hearing statements made by Hanna to the effect that extraordinary economies and benefits to the public would result from the merger. "Do you agree with Mr. Hanna?" Gen. Patrick asked.

Dunlop was on his feet by that time, Hamilton had left his place by the window and was at Dunlop's side. S. R. Bowen, vice president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., also advanced.

"We must object to any consideration being given to such problematical matters as unified operations," Dunlop said. "We object first, on the grounds that unified operation is now legally impossible; second, there is no such unified operation; and, third, that any evidence with respect to the effect of unified operation would be speculative and problematical, even if unified operation were possible

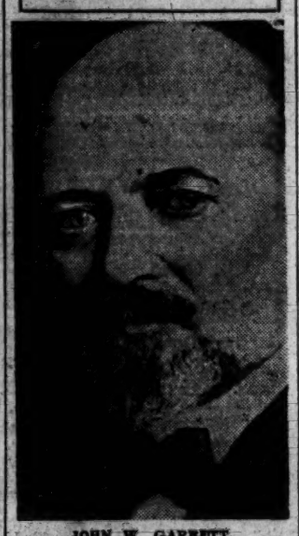
CHOSEN ENVOY



JOHN W. GARRETT.

GARRETT IS NAMED ROME AMBASSADOR

DIPLOMAT FOR 20 YEARS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

John W. Garrett, Baltimore banker, yesterday was named as Ambassador to Italy. He succeeds Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, who retired voluntarily and who, it is generally believed, is returning to Pennsylvania to run for the Senate.

Mr. Garrett's appointment was expected, since it had been known for several days that his name had been presented to the Italian government.

He has had 20 years' experience in the Diplomatic Corps, and foreign service generally. He served as first secretary of the embassy at Rome, he served as minister to The Netherlands, Venezuela, the Argentine, and he was secretary general of the Washington Arms Conference.

During the World War he inspected French prison camps in Germany at the request of the French government and helped negotiate a treaty with Germany on the treatment of prisoners of war.

His appointment to the Italian post leaves only Paris, Berlin and Madrid as major European posts to be filled by Mr. Hoover in his policy of gradually bringing his own men into the service.

The appointment of Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, to the Paris post is expected at any time, though it may not come before fall. With Ambassador Dawes at London, Edge at Paris and Garrett at Rome, Mr. Hoover will have a financial triumvirate that should be able to deal with the vexing financial relations between those countries and the United States.

The name of Irwin O. Loughlin, of Pittsburgh, frequently has been associated with some major European post. It would not be surprising if he landed at Berlin or Madrid.

Aside from the European field there are expected to be replacements in

ROTARY TURN PILES UP BIG VOTE MARGIN

Autoists Are Apparently Determined Against Uniform Rule.

PRESENT PLAN LEADS WITH 1,693 BALLOTS

ONLY TWO DAYS LEFT TO VOICE PREFERENCE

Result of Canvass Seems Surprise to Many Who Study Referendum.

Rotary Turn Still Leads; Polls to Close Saturday

Those who want to vote in The Post's left turn referendum, and as yet have not done so, have only two days remaining in which to thus express their preference, for the polls will close promptly next Saturday noon. To date 3,018 votes have been cast, divided as follows:

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Apparently, as the votes pile up in The Post's left turn referendum, the Washington public has recognized the price as surrender of the rotary left turn and decided definitely that it is one which it is unwilling to pay.

There remain only two days upon which residents may express their preference with regard to the method of making left turns, a preference by which Traffic Director William H. Harland has said he will largely be guided in the future. Each day of the showdown campaign, which followed months of agitation based upon the desire of the forces of uniformity to see Washington in step with the rest of the country, has found the present rotary left turn piling up an increasingly large margin over the "inside" turns, Nos. 2 and 3.

Saturday which saw 577 new ballots push the total vote to 3,018 found the outside, or rotary turn, in the lead with 1,693 votes. The Hoover code turn, No. 3, kept the relative position it has held throughout the campaign with 1,134, while the No. 2 turn had 191 votes.

Trend Surprises Many.

While representing only a small percentage of The Post's circulation, the vote is large enough to be regarded as a sufficiently representative cross section of Washington thought with regard to the left turn issue. The same proportions continuing until the end of the referendum at noon Saturday will find Washington residents on record against uniformity. The result will surprise a great many close followers of the trend in traffic legislation not only in Washington, but elsewhere. This group, with millions of motorists constantly using their cars for intercity travel, had assumed that the feeling "whatever the regulation, let us make it uniform everywhere," was virtually unanimous among those who had made long motor tours.

An observer who sat through all of the sessions of the Hoover conference

LINER BREMEN SETS MARK ON EASTWARD RUN

TIME OF MAURETANIA LOWERED ONCE MORE

Home Crossing Is Made in 4 Days 14 Hours and 30 Minutes.

27.9 KNOTS AVERAGED TRAVERSING ATLANTIC

Records in London Differ as to the Actual Time Made Previously.

Plymouth, England, Thursday, Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen arrived here at 2:25 a. m. today, making her maiden eastward trip across the Atlantic in 4 days 14 hours and 30 minutes. She averaged 27.9 knots from Ambrose Channel Lightship to Eddystone Light.

The liner Bremen apparently clipped 5 hours and 25 minutes from the record in the eastward crossing from Ambrose Light to Plymouth.

London, Aug. 1 (Thursday) (A.P.). Conflicting reports were received in London early today respecting the time of the first eastward crossing of the liner Bremen. A message to the Associated Press gave the ship credit for crossing in 4 days 14 hours and 30 minutes. This was easily a new record.

Figures on Time Differ.

The Plymouth correspondent of the London Express said the time was 4 days 17 hours and 15 minutes, while the report to the London Mail placed the figures at 4 days 22 hours and 14 minutes.

There also was a question as to the standing record for the eastward passage. The Express said the Mauretania came across in 4 days 19 hours 55 minutes last January, while the Mail said the Mauretania's record was 4 days 21 hours 57 seconds, made in September, 1924. American records credit the Maurentania with the same record quoted by the London Express.

It was the second transatlantic record to fall to the new German ship on her maiden round trip, and in each instance the previous record had been held by the Cunard Liner Mauretania.

Last Record in January.

The Mauretania's best time for the eastward crossing to Plymouth was 4 days 19 hours 55 minutes, made in January of this year. Incidentally, that mark lowered by 2 hours 2 minutes the Mauretania's previous record for the trip.

On her voyage from Cherbourg to New York the Bremen made the run in 4 days 17 hours 42 minutes, which was 8 hours 42 minutes les sthan the record run of the Mauretania last year.

U. S. Rum Sleuth Slain in Ambush

Deputy Marshal's Son and Assailant May Die of Wounds.

Harlan, Ky., July 31 (A.P.).—Adren Metcalf, 58, United States deputy marshal, was killed; his son, Roy, 22, was seriously wounded, and Willie Johnson, 21, was shot, probably fatally, on Four-Mile Creek late today when Johnson ambushed a prohibition raiding party by the Elder Metcalf.

Roy Metcalf said Johnson's first shot struck his father's heart. Other shots struck Roy in the face and breast. Bill Metcalf, another son of the deputy, and Bud Metcalf, his brother, then opened fire on Johnson who fled.

Johnson was found later lying some distance from the scene of the ambuscade with a bullet wound through the abdomen.

50 Wounded in China During Religious Riot

Bangalore, Mysore State, India, July 31 (A.P.).—Fifty persons were injured by gunshot wounds here today in riots during which police fired on unruly crowds. Many of the victims are not expected to recover.

The trouble was started by the alleged refusal of the police to admit former students to worship at the Ganiathi idol, St. Sultanpet School. The students were insistent, crowds gathered and brickbats were thrown. It is alleged the police continued to fire intermittently for an hour. Mounted patrols are traversing the city, which is seething with excitement. Arrests are expected.

STOWAWAY IS FOUND AS SHIP TAKES OFF

Friedrichshafen, Germany (Thursday) Aug. 1 (A.P.).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin took off on her flight to the United States at 3:20 a. m. today.

The last arrival among the passengers was Joachim Rickard, an international lawyer and economist of Boston and Madrid. He arrived at midnight, just about in time to leave for the field.

A big wreath of shasta daisies, baby's breath and asters was suspended from the bow of the gondola. It was presented to Dr. Eckener by Anna May Wong, Chinese-American actress, who had been denied a place on the passenger list. She explained that the wreath was an emblem of good luck in Honolulu.

Leaves One Minute Early.

The big ship got away one minute ahead of her schedule, which had been set for 3:30 a. m. (9:30 p. m. Wednesday, eastern standard time). She described one circle over Friedrichshafen, then rapidly disappeared in the West, her new motors, taking the place of those which had failed on the last previous attempt to reach America, making a steady hum.

The ground crew started to drag the huge airship from her hangar shortly after 2:30 a. m. At that hour the flight crew and passengers were ready to go aboard and they entered their quarters as soon as the bow was in the clear.

It was 3:25 a. m. before the dirigible was entirely clear of the hangar. As the ship was dragged out a stowaway was seen to jump from a beam to the top of the Zeppelin and to disappear through a ventilator into the interior of the big airship. A shout was raised and the crew quickly found him, but the Zeppelin was not halted to eject him and it sailed with the interloper aboard.

Weather Is Menace.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, before entering the gondola, told the Associated Press the first part of the journey promised to be difficult because of weather conditions. Early Wednesday evening he was informed of a low pressure area over Ireland and shortly before midnight learned it had moved to the English Channel.

"Our latest advices," he said, "are that there are clouds and rain over northwestern France all the way as far as Strasbourg, so we shall have a hard time flying low under those clouds. Later, however, we expect to meet better weather."

Gas was pumped into the balloons of the Zeppelin until the last few minutes before the getaway.

The Graf Zeppelin's route will be by Besancon, Lyons, Marseilles and Gibraltar, where Commander Eckener expects to strike favorable winds which will quickly push him to the Azores. After that the decision will be made whether to fly on a northerly or a southerly line for America.

Otto Manz, the Zeppelin chef, announced the first day's menu for the Zeppelin's voyage consists of three hearty meals. Breakfast includes tea or coffee, fruit, bread and butter, and cold meats. Luncheon will consist of bouillon with marrow, Rhine salmon, filet of venison, celery, caramel

RUM STILL RAIDER SLAIN IN GUN FIGHT

HUGE OUTFIT CAPTURED

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 31.—A gun battle between five Frederick county deputy sheriffs and about six moonshiners in the heart of the mountains of western Maryland, 25 miles from here, cost the life of one deputy sheriff late today. The fight, carried on amid the thickest undergrowth in which neither side could see the other, lasted for a half hour. About 30 shots were exchanged before the blockaders retreated.

Clyde Hauber, 30 years old, who died in the Frederick city hospital early tonight from a wound in the head, was the only deputy sheriff shot. It is believed one of the blockaders was injured in the affray.

A posse of between 30 and 40 State and city police, deputy sheriffs and civilians immediately formed and began searching the mountain section.

Two suspects were arrested and lodged in the county jail by the deputies immediately after the raid. Their names were not obtained.

The still, which was confiscated, was one of the largest ever found in western Maryland. It was said to have about a 10,000 gallon capacity. Approximately 3,000 pounds of mash were found beside the burner.

Deputy sheriffs expressed the belief that the still was the fountain head for bootlegging activities in western Maryland.

SENATORS APPROVE NAVY PARLEY PLAN

Hoover Desire to Include Capital Ships Enlists Borah's Support.

JAPAN IS AGREEABLE

President Hoover's plan to include capital ships in the agenda of the naval disarmament conference now scheduled for early next year has the approval of senators who are interested in the problem, including Senator Borah, who yesterday was a White House luncheon guest.

The Idaho senator would like to have freedom of the seas considered at the conference and is not particularly happy over the fact that it is not now scheduled for discussion. However, he is deeply interested in having all naval questions disposed of at the same time rather than hold a separate conference to discuss reduction of cruisers and submarines, to be followed by reconsideration of the Washington naval treaty at a later gathering.

Other senators feel that since all categories of ships are necessary to round out a fleet, there is sure to be more or less discussion of capital craft and airplane carriers at any conference called primarily to consider auxiliary surface vessels and submarines. Therefore they think it would be well to prepare for discussion of the entire naval disarmament problem at the forthcoming conference.

Prime Minister MacDonald is understood to have approved in principle the holding of a full-fledged naval conference and preliminary work is now understood to be directed toward that end.

Japan is understood to be agreeable to the proposal, the Tokyo authorities having repeatedly declared their readiness to resume the discussion of

Judge Sellers Denounces Board of Public Welfare

Mrs. Ruby Miller, Assistant Supervisor, Also Censured for Ignoring Juvenile Court's Order on Custody of Two Children; Threatens Drastic Action.

Judge Kathryn Sellers, in Juvenile Court yesterday, denounced the Board of Public Welfare and Mrs. Ruby R. Miller, assistant supervisor, in particular, for high-handed tactics in disregarding the order of the court relative to the disposition of two children.

The denunciation came after a hearing on a petition presented to the court by Attorney Philip W. Austin in behalf of Samuel William Brasse, father of five minor children, and followed action of the court on July 10 committing four of the children to the Board of Public Welfare for the period of one year, and one to the keeping of a sister of Brasse.

At the hearing held on July 10 the mother, Mrs. Allie E. Walker Brasse, had petitioned the court for the two youngest children, Rosie Lois Brasse and Anna May Brasse. Mrs. Miller supported Mrs. Brasse in this petition.

Judge Sellers, at the conclusion of the hearing, however, held that Mrs. Brasse was not the proper person to be entrusted with the care and rearing of the children, and denied her application, and ordered the children committed to the Board of Public Welfare for one year. This decision was based on evidence of derelictions on Mrs. Brasse's part.

Notwithstanding the court's decision, a week later, on July 17, Mrs. Miller, in her capacity as assistant supervisor of the Board of Public Welfare, gave the two children in controversy to Mrs. Brasse, who resides in Capitol Heights, Md.

In his address to the court yesterday Attorney Austin charged that Mrs. Miller was not a fit person to be employed by the Board of Public Welfare in her present capacity, stating that she lacked the impartial and

Edison to Name Successor But Never Expects to Quit

Will Keep Working to Last, Electrical Genius Asserts, in Answering Questions While Greeting 49 Boys Competing to Be His Protege.

West Orange, N. J., July 31 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Thomas A. Edison will choose one of 49 boys to be trained at his expense and possibly be his successor, but the inventor has no idea of retiring and never will.

In recent years Edison has made few public statements and it was only on the occasion today of his greeting to the boys, youngsters who have as yet only experimented with home made radios, amateur stage lighting, photography and other phases of mechanical science, that the genius of electrical invention answered ten questions.

The boys, from every state, tomorrow will take a five-hour examination prepared by Mr. Edison, and will be judged by Henry Ford, Charles A. Lindberg, George Eastman, President S. W. Stratton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Dr. Lewis Perry of Phillips Exeter Academy.

At a ceremony at the Edison laboratories in West Orange, before the boys listened to a welcome from the judges, Thomas Edison answered the questions that were put to him.

The man who was once bearish about motion pictures projected on a screen was today rather doubtful about the "talkies." He was less critical than he has been of a university eduction.

"What do you think about the future of talking pictures?" he was asked.

"Without great improvements people will tire of them. Talking is no substitute for good acting we have had in silent films," said Edison.

"Is the introduction of younger men into your organization, as a result of this contest, an indication of your retirement, and if so, when will it take place?"

"No. I'll never retire. It's unhealthy."

"Is there not a danger of serious unemployment if so much weight is

Frederick W. von Meister, American representative for the Graf Zeppelin, yesterday completed arrangements with the Navy Department for cooperating with the Zeppelin on its round-the-world trip, which will begin from Lakehurst, N. J., next Wednesday or Thursday.

Without the cooperation of the United States Navy Department the flight would be impossible, Mr. von Meister said yesterday before leaving for Lakehurst, where he will be on hand to meet the ship when it arrives from Friedrichshafen. The Navy has placed at the Zeppelin's disposal the mooring masts at Lakehurst and Los Angeles and the masts at Camp Lewis, Wash., and Honolulu, for emergency landings.

The Navy Department will keep in touch with the Zeppelin throughout the globe-circling trip through the Navy's radio stations and ships. The Graf Zeppelin will take the northern route over Finland and northern Siberia to Japan.

Winds Will Aid.

The reasons for this route, Von Meister explained, were that it is the shorter course, that the Zeppelin would have the trade winds to drive it along and that it would not have to negotiate any high mountains. Capt. Hugo Eckener, who will command the ship, expects to take some aerial photographs over Siberia. Soviet representatives will be aboard.

The Zeppelin will use several different kinds of gas, including blau gas in Germany, ethane gas at Lakehurst, a mixture of pyrofax and hydrogen at Tokyo, and a mixture of equal parts of pyrofax and illuminating gas from the Los Angeles wells. The nast-named combination is said to be the best yet discovered by the Zeppelin officials.

Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle, who recently made the return trip with the Graf Zeppelin on its first flight to America, will leave shortly for Los Angeles, together with two enlisted men to train the ground crew at that port in the handling of Zeppelins.

The Japanese government will furnish every assistance possible to make the Zeppelin's flight a success. Its ships and radio station will stand ready to furnish weather reports and other necessary data while the airship is in the vicinity of that country.

Auto Accident Seriously Injures Maryland Man

Frederick Crone, 65 years old, of Jessup, Md., was critically injured yesterday when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile on the Baltimore boulevard at Waterloo, Md. The automobile was driven by Charles Cardoza, colored, 2506 M street northwest, according to Maryland State police.

The elderly man was knocked down while he was crossing the road. He was taken to St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, in a passing auto. His condition was declared critical by hospital physicians. Cardoza was placed under bond of $1,000 pending the outcome of Crone's injuries. State Policeman Fred Buchanan, of the Laurel substation, is investigating.

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

NEW CITY MANAGER IS LUNCHEON GUEST

ASSUMES DUTIES TODAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Wallace Lawrence, who will become city manager of Alexandria today, was welcomed to the city yesterday at an informal luncheon given in his honor at the George Mason Hotel by Mayor William Albert Smoot. Members of the city council, heads of the various city departments, and newspaper men made up the luncheon guests, and met the new city official for the first time.

Mayor Smoot delivered a short address of welcome and gave the new manager his assurance of the support of the officials and citizens of Alexandria. He stressed the fact that Alexandria is now facing the greatest period of prosperity in its long history, and expressed the hope that Mr. Lawrence and other young men, as well as the young women of the city, would join with the older men and women who have worked for many years for the welfare of the city, in taking advantage of these outstanding opportunities.

Manager Lawrence made a brief response, in which he expressed his appreciation of the welcome given him, and the opportunity afforded by this "get together" meeting. He spoke of the rapid strides made by Virginia in recent years, and of the fact that officials of other States have come to Virginia to study the methods of the Old Dominion. The annexation of new territory, which will become effective January 1 next, he said would bring added responsibilities and added work to all city employes, and expressed his willingness to give all assistance in his power when needed.

Judge Howard W. Smith indorsed the mayor's remarks in regard to the present and future prosperity of the city, and added that the people of the city would gladly cooperate with the new manager. Although only briefly acquainted, he said, he felt that the people of Alexandria would like their new manager, and that he would reciptrocate that liking.

Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court, spoke of the loyalty of the city officials and employees, and pledged their cooperation to make the administration of the new manager a success.

Mr. Lawrence, who for the last few years has been city manager of Salem, Va., is 32 years old, and has had a varied and rather wide experience in municipal engineering work as well as city administration. He succeeds Paul Morton, who resigned to become city manager of Petersburg.

Mayor Smoot's guests at the luncheon were Councilmen T. J. Fannon, E. F. Tiffany and J. E. W. Timberman; City Engineer E. C. Dunn, Judge Howard J. Smith, of the circuit court; Judge William P. Wools, of the corporation court; Justice W. S. Snow, of the civil and police court; Robert H. Cox, Michael T. Dwyer, Jack Allen, Charles M. Shepperson, John W. Brookfield, jr., E. E. Lawler, jr., Roger C. Sullivan, Charles H. Callahan, Purvis Taylor, Charles H. Jett, Elliott F. Hoffman, Albert V. Bryan, Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, Carl L. Budwesky, Capt. W. W. Campbell, J. M. Duncan, jr., Louis N. Dixon, Dr. James J. Garvey and Ray S. Cleveland.

Policeman Linwood Brown yesterday was suspended from duty for 10 days by Capt. W. W. Campbell, pending further investigation of alleged rough treatment of J. E. Sampson when arresting the latter for a traffic violation.

Sampson was arraigned in police court Tuesday and charged by the officer with resisting arrest and assaulting the officer. The young man appeared in court with a bandaged head and claimed that the officer had struck him twice with his revolver, without provocation. Justice W. S. Snow, presiding, acquitted Sampson of the charges against him.

Capt. Campbell stated the suspension of the officer was made because he used his revolver unnecessarily and in violation of the instructions issued by the captain, which permit the use of a revolver as a means of self-defense, "to shoot a felon or a vicious animal," and then only when the life of disinterested bystanders is not endangered by such use of a weapon, and on the target range at the command of the instructor. There is apparently nothing in the police captain's instructions covering the use of a revolver as a club, as was done in this case, it was said. The incident is understood to have arisen from a violation of parking regulations by Sampson, followed by a discussion when the officer attempted to place him under arrest.

Police Capt. Campbell received a letter yesterday from William H. Zeller, of Baltimore, to whom he had written after discovering among the effects of Miss Sybil Means, the woman found unconscious on the Richmond-Washington highway, as the result of an alleged assault by an unidentified motorist, an envelope addressed to the woman with the return address of Zeller thereon.

Zeller stated that Miss Means was found, during a rainstorm, in a strip of woods across Curtis Creek, Baltimore, where she had been camping for a week without tent or other shelter, and that her condition was such that she was taken to the city hospital in Baltimore for treatment; that he read newspaper accounts of her difficulties and wrote to her, purely from sympathy, offering her employment, but that he had not received a reply. He knows nothing, he stated, of her previous condition, and would not recognize her if he saw her.

The Alexandria hospital authorities state that the woman is rapidly recovering from her injuries, which consisted of several cuts and bruises about the head. She has never been able to give a coherent account of the alleged assault, or an accurate description of her assailant.

The Kiwanis Club today at its weekly luncheon at the George Mason Hotel will hold a special welcome meeting in compliment to the new city manager, Wallace Lawrence, and the program will be in charge of City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan.

George E. Warfield, of the First National Bank, has been designated as a delegate from this city to the Institute of Public Affairs to be held at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, on August 14-17. The appointment is made by Gov. Harry Flood Byrd.

Police Capt. W. W. Campbell announced yesterday that a campaign to have yards cleared of weeds will begin at once, the police to inspect lots and notify property owners to have same cleared of weeds, and in cases of vacant property where the owners fail to respond the city employes will proceed to do the work and the property owner be charged.

City Engineer E. C. Dunn, who has been acting City manager since June 25, when former City Manager Paul Morton left for his new duties at Petersburg, Va., retired from his temporary office yesterday in favor of the new official, City Manager Wallace Lawrence, and the employes in the city hall presented him with a handsome onyx desk pen and pencil set as evidence of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow workmen. The speech of presentation was made by Charles H. Callahan, commissioner of revenue.

James J. Kelley, 57 years old, who has been in business in this city for the past 36 years, and recently conducting a grocery store at 1401 King street, died yesterday at his home over the store building. Besides his wife, Mrs. Alice M. Kelley, he is survived by the following children: Mrs. E. W. Downey, Mrs. J. A. Fegan, T. E. Kelley, John J. Kelley, R. E. Kelley, D. F. Kelley, Miss B. Agnes Kelley, Miss Julia Kelley, James L. Kelley, and Miss Florence C. Kelley. He was a member of Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, B. P. O. Elks, Alva Aerie No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church. The funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Church, and burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Charles T. Underwood, aged 60 years, died Tuesday night at his home, 310 North Royal street. He had been employed as a salesman by the Standard Oil Co. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the funeral home, 809 Cameron street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. William J. Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemtery.

COUNTY'S FIREMEN TO HOLD CARNIVALS

Hose Hook-Up Contests Will Be Features at Three Montgomery Fetes.

DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Fire hose hook-up contests will be the chief features of programs prepared for carnivals to be held next week by the volunteer fire departments of Silver Spring and Bethesda. The Silver Spring carnival will open Saturday at the carnival grounds on Georgia avenue, near the National Guard Armory. The Bethesda carnival will open Monday at the Bethesda carnival grounds.

The Silver Spring carnival will begin with hook-up contests by both men's and women's teams from nearby communities. Another feature will be a beauty contest on the closing Saturday.

The Silver Spring Woman's Team has been practicing every night for the hook-up competition, and is hopeful of winning the silver cup offered by the Griffith-Consumers Co. Miss Isabelle Hewitt is captain of the team, with John T. Crawford, president of the fire department, as coach.

Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the training school of the Washington Fire Department, has been selected chief judge and will name his own assistants.

The following schedule of special contests has been announced by the committee: Saturday, engine hook-up contests, 5:30 o'clock; Monday, horseshoe tournament; Tuesday, to be announced later; Wednesday, rolling-pin throw for women, 7 p. m.; Thursday, prize waltz, 10:30 p. m.; Friday, athletic events, featured by a novel boot race for women, 7 p. m. Saturday, beauty contest, 10:30 p. m.

Dancing and other amusements also will be provided.

The Bethesda carnival will open Monday night and continue until the following Saturday. A street parade will be held in which floats will be entered by the business men, and fire apparatus from the 38 fire companies of Maryland and Virginia. The fire companies then will compete in a hook-up contest.

The parade will begin at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon and will be followed at 3:15 o'clock by a running hookup contest, and at 4:45 o'clock by a standing hookup contest. Each team is allowed not more than ten members.

The parade, with the exception of the volunteer fire companies, is limited to Bethesda merchants. The judges will be Capt. C. C. Calhoun, Rossel E. Mitchell and Edward H. Jones. The judges for the fire contests will be Capt. Chester Wells, of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce; Battalion Chief Stanton and Sergt. Bargagni, of the Washington Fire Department.

The special subcommittee of the Montgomery County courthouse committee, appointed at the meeting of the larger group Tuesday, this afternoon will confer with the owners of the properties on the block west of the circuit-courthouse at Rockville in an effort to reach an agreement on acceptable prices to be paid without having to resort to condemnation proceedings. The property is wanted by the county commissioners for the site of the proposed new courthouse.

The larger committee fixed a series of prices, which will be offered to the owners and which are believed to be fair, being based on assessment figures plus the knowledge of the value of Rockville real estate possessed by the members of the committee.

Those who fail to accept the prices will leave no other recourse except condemnation suits by the county. It was in an effort to avoid these suits and at the same time make the condemnation suits "tighter" by making the price offers. Members of the subcommittee are Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board of county commissioners; Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court, and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioner. Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, member of counsel to the county commissioners, also will be present.

Three suits for divorce were filed in circuit court at Rockville yesterday. Through Attorney Vivian V. Simpson, of Rockville, Mrs. Catherine Catloth, of Woodmont, asks an absolute divorce from Paul P. Catloth, whose address is given as 314 Four-and-a-Half street southwest, Washington. The wife charges nonsupport of herself and their minor child and alleges misconduct. The couple was married April 30, 1927, and have one child.

Mrs. Rose Nestes, of Potomac, Md., asks an absolute divorce from Harry Nestes, of Youngstown, Ohio, alleging cruelty and mistreatment. The couple was married April 5, 1926. The wife's petition was filed by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville.

Petition for absolute divorce, charging desertion, was filed by Attorney F. Barnard Welsh on behalf of William H. McCrossin, of Montgomery County, against Mrs. Grace McCrossin, of Bethesda, alleging desertion. The couple was married in April, 1903, and have five children. An answer to the petition was filed at the same time by Attorney Harold C. Smith, in which the wife neither admits nor denies the allegation of the husband and declares that the plaintiff has satisfactorily paid toward the support of the child. The petition asks that the suit be dismissed.

A garden party will be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Cissel, Georgia avenue and Oak street, Silver Spring, Md., tomorrow evening under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary of Cissel-Saxon Post. In addition to the usual booths there will be dancing and card games indoors. The party is in charge of Mrs. Lauman Fauleoner and Mrs. James Richards.

PRISONER ESCAPES AT COURT HEARING

FACED EIGHT CHARGES

While his guard turned his head to watch the court proceedings, James Watson, colored, of Hyattsville, rose from his seat in the Hyattsville Branch of the Prince Georges County Police Court and calmly stomped his way from the courtroom. Watson's peg leg did not make enough noise to attract the policeman's attention.

The negro had been arrested on eight charges by County Policeman Claude Reese and Town Bailiff Clifford Proctor, of Hyattsville. He was charged with reckless driving, leaving after colliding, running a disorderly house, disorderly conduct and several minor charges.

Watson was brought to the court by Policeman Reese from the Bladensburg Jail, where he had been placed following his arrest Tuesday. Reese and Proctor and several other policemen were seated close to the prisoner, who was not regarded as desperate. All were intent on the case being tried by Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

The court was in an uproar when it was discovered that the prisoner had escaped, and the officers left in search of him, but he had not been found at a late hour last night.

James Albert Cale yesterday paid the price of "hospitality" in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County police court when he was fined a total of $58.90 on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor and failing to have lights on his car. Cale was arrested by County Policeman Claude Reese, when he failed to have lights showing on his car near Berwyn on the Baltimore boulevard. Inspection of the car revealed twelve pints of alleged beer, the policeman told Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

Cale said that he recently came to Washington from Florida and that he was driving a friend's car. He went to Baltimore for a visit and thought it would be a good idea to bring back a little beer for his friends, he said.

John Suessin, of Seabrook, Md., was adjudged guilty of assault and a fine of $25 was suspended when he was brought into court by his 17-year-old daughter, Alice, who charged that he had struck her with a rope. The daughter declared that her father had sided with her 15-year-old brother, Roland, when they were quarreling.

Mrs. Pearl Stanley, of Colmar Manor, was fined $25 for assault on Mrs. Milburn Conture in the course of a neighborly quarrel.

Elias Odieum, colored, charged with setting up a gaming table, was sentenced to serve twelve months in the House of Correction. Odieum was arrested by Town Bailiff Clifford Proctor, of Hyattsville, in a raid on his home where an alleged crap game was in progress. Bernard Morton, colored, was fined $25 for speeding and $5 for reckless driving. He was arrested by State Policeman Harry Freedy, who declared that Morton was driving his car at 55 miles an hour.

TRIAL OF STRIKERS SET FOR AUGUST 26

Alleged Slayers Will Face Judge in Mecklenburg in Venue Change.

PROTEST CALL ISSUED

Raleigh, N. C., July 31 (A.P.).—The sixteen men and women charged with murdering Police Chief O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia, and the seven others charged with assault will be tried in Mecklenburg superior court at a special session beginning August 26, it was announced from Gov. Gardner's office here today.

The special term of court will be ordered by Executive Counsel Nat Townsend, it was said. Judge M. V. Barnhill will preside. The case was adjourned in Gaston superior court yesterday when Judge Barnhill, who also presided there, granted a change of venue.

Gastonia, N. C., July 31 (A.P.).—Trial of 23 members of the National Workers Union for the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, chief of police, begun here Monday, was adjourned to Mecklenburg County late yesterday by Judge M. V. Barnhill, who granted a motion for a change of venue lodged by the defense with the plea that a fair trial could not be obtained in this county. Charlotte is the county seat of Mecklenburg County.

Shot at Strikers' Camp.

Aderholt was wounded fatally when he went to the tent encampment of the Loray mill strikers the night of June 7 to investigate reported disorders there. The strikers set up the tent camp when they were ejected from the houses owned by the Manville-Jenckes Co., operators of the Loray mill.

Charlotte, N. C., July 31 (A.P.).—Call for a general conference of all organized and unorganized Southern textile workers to meet here October 12 and 13 was issued today by a provisional executive committee named at a preliminary conference held in Bessemer City last Sunday under auspices of the National Textile Workers Union.

The call invited all Southern textile workers to send delegates to the meeting and gave its purpose as to prepare the demands of the textile workers of the South.

These were named as "to end the stretch-out system, to secure substantial wage increases, to establish the eight-hour day and to stop child labor."

More Work, Same Pay.

The term "stretch-out" is applied by the workers to so-called efficiency systems installed in Southern mills. The workers contend they demand increased work without increases in wages.

"Conditions in the textile industry of the South," the call declared, "have become unbearable and impossible. The stretch-out and speed-up system has been carried to the point of physically destroying the workers. Wages are at starvation levels. Pellagra, that foul disease of malnutrition, is widespread. The 60 to 70-hour week is a crime against the workers. Child labor is a deadly menace. These evils, with the other terrible conditions in the mills, constitute an altogether intolerable situation."

Trial of Chirparctors Postponed in Danville

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 31.—The trial of three Danville chiropractors again has been postponed owing to the absence of the Commonwealth's attorney, who is attending the State Bar Association meeting at Hot Spring. The charges will be aired next week, according to Charles K. Carter, magistrate.

Proceedings were instituted three weeks ago against E. F. Graham, D. L. Ragland and T. J. Oakes for engaging in the practice of the art in violation of the new State law, which requires chiropractors to take an examination before the State medical examining board. The chiropractors claim they can not be compelled to take this examination.

An Open Book on Banking

A lot of things are taken into consideration by the banker when people want to borrow money. Credit is the ability to buy with a promise to pay.

Therefore a banker wants to know something of the "Character" of the borrower—will he keep his word?

The banker wants to know something of the "capacity" of the borrower—is he capable of earning money—has he the capacity to pay?

And the banker wants to know something of the "capital" of the borrower—has he spent all he has earned or has he kept some as his nest egg—his capital?

When a man is believed to be honest—industrious and thrifty—he possesses those qualities which constitute a good credit risk.

HUSTON IS RUMORED WORK'S SUCCESSOR

New York Hears He Has Been Chosen to Head G. O. P. Committee.

SELECTION IS HOOVER'S

New York, July 31.—A Washington dispatch to the New York World says:

Claudius H. Huston, Tennessee manufacturer, until lately chairman of the board of the Transcontinental Oil Co., has been chosen by President Hoover to be chairman of the Republican National Committee succeeding Dr. Hubert Work, whose resignation takes effect in September.

Mr. Hoover, it was learned today, has eliminated other candidates, including George Woodruff, Chicago banker, and made up his mind to have Mr. Huston as the head of the national party organization. Hence Mr. Huston's selection by the Republican national committeemen, some five or six weeks from now, is a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Huston served under Mr. Hoover as Assistant Secretary of Commerce from 1921 to 1923. He has been chairman of the ways and means committee, otherwise the cash-raising adjunct, of the Republican National Committee.

Record in Last Campaign.

His record in the last campaign is said to have bettered $500,000 figures considerably. Among other things he was the source of the funds which Col. Horace Mann employed in the Hoover drive in the South. Mr. Huston represents himself, in fact, as the first to break the Solid South. He lists it in his biography incidental to his chairmanship of the Republican State Committee of Tennessee in 1920 when Harding took the State away from Cox.

Mr. Hoover's reasons for choosing Mr. Huston are largely the reasons why Dr. Work quit. Mr. Huston is regarded as having the instinct for politics, as well as the ability to tap the cash boxes of important contributors. Mr. Huston is well known to most of the national committeemen and well liked. He has the affability that Dr. Work lacked. The doctor was in hot water with the national committeemen from the time he left the Coolidge cabinet to take charge of the Hoover campaign until the day he tendered his resignation. Mr. Huston, it is thought, will be able to keep harmony. Recently Mr. Huston, according to reports, divested himself of his oil holdings in preparation for taking the party chairmanship.

Is Native of Indiana.

Though he is accredited to Chattanooga, Tenn., where he entered manufacturing in 1901, he hails from Indiana. He is head of the Associated Bond & Share Corporation, vice president of the Athens Table & Manufacturing Co. and Chattanooga Wheelbarrow Co., and is a director or officer in numerous banks, including the Germanic Trust Co., New York. He had charge of the fifth Liberty Loan drive in Chattanooga.

It has several times been rumored that Mr. Huston and Mr. Hoover were closely identified in personal business interests, and that Mr. Huston had advised Mr. Hoover about investments, but these rumors have never been confirmed. That the two men have been closely associated since both were in the Department of Commerce is well known.

According to reliable sources of information from within the Republican national committee the succession of Mr. Huston is now cut and dried and remains only to be ratified some five or six weeks hence when the committee gets together upon Dr. Work's retirement.

Apartment hunting is far from a pleasant task. Why not look in the classified columns of The Washington Post. Perhaps the very place you are looking for is advertised today.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE report of the interdepartmental Board recommending an increase in pay for the Army and Navy has certainly struck a severe blow at President Hoover's commission form of government. It emphasizes the danger of having these boards and commissions lying around, hidden and forgotten. They have a way of bobbing up at the most embarrassing time.

Of course, it is for the experts to determine whether the Army and Navy fellows deserve an increase, but it does seem that the board could not have selected a more inappropriate, unpropitious time to make its report.

It made it at the very time that Mr. Hoover was telling the Army it had to economize, and just because he did not say "positively" no one, not even Secretary of War Good, seemed to take him seriously.

* * * *

JUST what the interdepartmental board thought of the President's warning is, of course, problematical, but to come right out in the face of it with a recommendation for wholesale pay increases which would add several million dollars to the annual budget, is to say the least, audacious.

If there is anything to the adage that "the burnt child fears the fire," it would seem that Mr. Hoover will view commissions and boards somewhat warily in the future. He is a great hand to set them up. In fact, only a few days ago he made known that commissions were his weakness. There was nothing like turning a troublesome object over to one of them, he said.

As Secretary of Commerce he set them up right and left. It is not unlikely that they will be reporting for the next five years. And he has created additional ones since he became President.

* * * *

OF COURSE, he was not responsible for the interdepartmental board. It was set up by the various departments concerned. But there is a lesson to be learned from its report and that is that like a talkative child, commissioners are liable to appear in company and embarrass you.

Mr. Hoover, as a matter of fact, had a close call while he was in Florida last winter, biding his time until inauguration. As Secretary of Commerce he had appointed a commission for the study of economic trends, or something of the kind. Economic trends are, of course, pretty close to the tariff.

Probably forgotten about, in the many things that had happened since the appointment of the commission, it bobbed up just when he was enjoying his vacation prior to taking over the Presidency. Fortunately, Mr. Hoover got hold of it, had part of the commission come to Florida and he helped it make its report.

Had he not done this, there is no telling what the commission may have reported about the economic trends.

* * * *

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE set up a commission once to study the farm problem. For weeks and weeks before it reported he dismissed all inquiries about his attitude on farm legislation by saying that he was waiting for the report of the Nagle commission. That commission would have wholesome recommendations, he was confident.

It did. It recommended a drastic tariff reduction, whereupon the Nagle commission's report was filed away, never to be mentioned again.

Once there was a commission to find out what was wrong with the coal industry. There were such conservative influences on it as John Hays Hammond. There was no apparent reason why any one should worry about this commission embarrassing any one.

Yet after months and months of labor it suggested that the Government under certain conditions might take over and operate the coal mines. The administration had a dickens of a time shaking that report out of its hands. The best regulated commissions, of course, go off and lose themselves.

UNIFIED OPERATION ECONOMY ADMITTED

QUESTIONS IRK COUNSEL

thought such is not the case. We object on the grounds that the question is immaterial and irrelevant. We are entitled to and must have a known basis."

Acting Chairman Hartman overruled the objection. All of the companies parties to the proceedings noted objections and all noted exceptions, both to apply to all questions along the same line. Hartman smilingly agreed and said "the witness may answer" but Dunlop said "wait a minute, don't answer yet," and there was a huddle of company officials. Out of it came Dunlop with the objection that Heberle was "not qualified to answer." It was finally agreed that Hanna should answer the question.

"I agree with Mr. Hanna," the traction president said, with a smile and there was a laugh.

Former Testimony Read.

Gen. Patrick then quoted Hanna's testimony before the House committee praising the estimate made by J. Rowland Bibbins, engineer, of the effect of the merger. At that time Hanna quoted Bibbins as estimating after a careful study that the revenues of the merged companies would be sufficient to pay 7 per cent on the $50,000,000 valuation asked for without increasing fares.

"Do you still believe the same way, Mr. Hanna?" Gen. Patrick asked.

"I have no reason to alter the position I expressed before the House committee," Hanna replied, adding "with the exception that I did not then and do not now give my own approval to his (Bibbins') savings estimates."

But Hanna found fault with the statement he had made before the House committee and began qualifying and hedging under Gen. Patrick's continued questioning as to whether he believed now as he believed when he was urging the merger as a public benefit. He admitted that he had said that the advantages of unified operation were "universally admitted," but added that he believed there must "be a complete unification of the three transportation companies then under consideration."

That amendment was directed at the commission's announced purpose to consider joint operation of the two street car lines, toward which Gen. Patrick was directing his questioning. Gen. Patrick went on to quote Bibbins' testimony before the House committee, but withdrew his question before Hartman had ruled on an objection by Dunlop. Bibbins said that there would be a 16 per cent saving on car miles resulting from unified car line operation.

Hanna Balks at Question.

Answering a subsequent question, Hanna said he would have to study the proposed unification to determine what savings would result from it, adding that it was possible that "none whatever" might result. There would be a reduction in overhead and there would be lesser costs for operation, he said, but the amount would depend on the form of unification and probably almost "entirely on the form of service given the public."

"There can be some savings without a merger merely by joint operations, can there not?" Gen. Patrick persisted.

That was the signal for another barrage of objections from company counsel, Dunlop saying witnesses could not be expected to answer questions when no specific plan of joint operations was under discussion, and none could be put into effect.

"Do you mean that joint, or unified, operations cannot be legally done?" queried Acting Chairman Hartman.

"Yes."

"Overruled."

There was another conference between company representatives and another objection, phrased slightly differently, made by Dunlop, upon which Hartman said, "Let us get the record straight on your objections on legal grounds. Do you mean that the commission has no authority over the routing of street cars?"

Denies Board's Power.

"No," said Dunlop.

"Over joint use of facilities?"

"Among other things," Dunlop said, "it's impossible to tell, depending on what rerouting the commission ordered." There was another huddle of company officials and lawyers, and Dunlop straightened up again and broadened his objection, declaring there was no authority in law for the commission to order unified operation.

"Overruled," said Hartman. "Exception will be noted."

When Hanna undertook to answer the question he set forth the company's views on the legal question involved, declaring that he would have to know more definitely what form of unification was proposed before he could discuss savings.

"I know," he said, "of no form of joint operation enforceable under the law, or practicable, which could be put into effect which would result in any considerable savings."

When Gen. Patrick quoted him as telling the House committee that the advantages of the proposed merger were "so perfectly obvious" Hanna agreed that he still thought the same thing, whereupon the hearings were adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, when Gen Patrick will resume his questions.

Hartman Questions Irk.

When the hearings were resumed yesterday morning Heberle and Hanna again took the stand as sworn witnesses and Hartman resumed his questions about the accounts of the company, ranging all the way from items as small as $5.17 to as high as $140,000, with many items of more than $1,000, one amounting to $20,000 and another to $30,000. Most of the figures he cited from various accounts of the company were not sensational in amount, but were cited by the commissioner as illustrative of the practice of the company to put into capital—and thereby increase its valuation total, on which rates are based—many items which Hartman said ought to be charged to operating expenses. How much the total of such items are there was no one who could say.

The questions sorely irked company officers and they declared the "silly" amounts involved were too small to make any material difference one way or another, but others, pointing out that Hartman had taken only a few cases for examples, estimated that the total would be in the hundreds of thousands. Company representatives not only made no effort to challenge the commissioner's statement that the cases he cited were "illustrative" of a general practice, but admitted that was so, but Hana and others insisted that whatever fault there was in their accounts was the fault of the utilities commissions in the past, Hana declaring that his company's accounting system was regarded as much better than that employed by other companies and had been given the tacit aproval of former commissioners, if not the formal approval in writing.

One of the questions raised by Hartman dealt with the Washington, Maryland Railway Line, which was leased for ten years in 1917 by the Capital Traction Co. Two years ago the Capital Traction bought the securities of the line and made out a new agreement, under which it pays to the Washington-Maryland Line, for rent, the amount of interest due on its securities. This interest, of course, goes right back to the Capital Traction Co., because it owns the securities. Hanna admitted that repairs on the Maryland line totaling around $30,000 had been added to the valuation of the Capital Traction.

"I imagine, technically speaking," he said in defense, "we should not have charged this amount to our capital account. I'm not an accountant, but equitably, in all justice, we are entitled to a return on that money, for all of it was spent for service to the public."

Hartman developed that the company had added to its valuation amounts paid in special assessments for street paving, the cost of moving trolley poles and equipment from one spot to another; the laying of water mains along Connecticut avenue; replacements of existing tracks, both in the city and in Maryland; repair of barns, and that it had not charged off its valuation total all of the amounts, under various headings, properly belonging to items retired. He cited two examples of retirements. One of these was for some track, in the valuation at $113,949, and shown as retired at $95,020.61. But on this Heberle said the actual deduction for retirement had been at 192 per cent of the $95,000 figure. Hartman said he only sought to develop information for the commission showing the relation between retirement figures and valuation, and that information was promised.

Examination Criticized.

His examination was described as "cross-examination of the worst kind" by Hamilton subsequently, during a discussion of a legal point, but Hartman said he had not cross-examined any one, although, perhaps he had asked certain questions which might have been asked by some one else had there been some one other than a member of the commission to conduct the examination.

The number of passengers carried in the District by the Capital Traction for 8 cents cash increased from 17,247,935 in 1925 to 17,777,391 in 1928 and to 17,796,994 for the year ended April 30, 1929, according to figures offered in evidence by the company. The total number of cash and token passengers, however, decreased from 62,779,117 in 1925 to 56,513,358 in 1928 and 55,595,871 for the year ended last April 30.

The total passengers carried, including transfer, free, pass, bus and coach passengers numbered 85,514,614 in 1925, 79,836,146 in 1928, and 78,790,664 for the year ended April 30 last.

The total revenue for District passengers in 1925 was $4,495,285.58, as compared with $4,210,463.20 in 1928 and $4,151,611.26 for year ended April 30.

6 Per Cent Return.

Total operating revenues of the company amounted to $4,587,056.59 in 1925; $4,616,986.31 in 1926; $4,479,099.50 in 1927; $4,344,147.99 in 1928, and $4,292,627.30 for the year ended April 30, and Heberle said that all of the decrease this year was noted from January to April, inclusive, as compared with the same four months of the calendar year 1928.

District income available for return, together with the company's estimate of the rate of return on its claimed valuation, for the same years were shown by Heberle as follows: 1925, $1,079,004.51, or 4.25 per cent; 1926, $1,103,493.43, or 4.30 per cent; 1927, $1,001,161.70, or 3.92 per cent, 1928 $934,416.55, or 3.64 per cent; for year ended April 30, $913,812.32, or 3.56 per cent; for year ended June 30, 1929, $910,114.40, or 3.54 per cent.

The amount available for rate of return in the last twelve months ended June 30, Heberle said, would have been equal to a 6 per cent return on a valuation of only $15,393,194, instead of the $26,086,144.72 valuation claimed by the company as based on the Court of Appeals decree of 1925.

Crowds Attend Loudoun Meeting

Annual Bush Gathering Presents Programs of Varied Novelty.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., July 31.—Large crowds are attending the night entertainments of the fifty-second annual Loudoun County Bush meeting, which is being held this week in the large auditorium adjacent to town.

The programs, which have been given by the Artists' Ensemble of Philadelphia, with Dorothy Power, harpist; Velma Godshall, soprano soloist and banjo player; Florence Haenle, violinist, and Frances Leedom Hess, monologist, in connection with "Signor Alpigini," magician, have delighted the large audiences.

Tomorrow night, Princess Blue-Feather, the educated Aztec Indian, will entertain with songs, dances, legends and customs of the Indians. Friday night, the Radio Star Entertainers will present a program.

Sunday will be the closing day, and the Rev. Thomas K. Young, D. D., of Roanoke, will deliver two sermons and a lecture. The music will be in charge of the Higgins Sisters' quartet.

ARLINGTON BALLOT JUDGES APPOINTED

Officials for the Democratic Primary Are Named by Board's Secretary.

FIREMEN LET CONTRACT

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Claude O. Thomas, secretary to the Arlington County Electoral Board yesterday announced the appointment of the following Judges for the Democratic primary to be held next Tuesday.

Arlington precinct, E. M. Palmer, F. A. Coe, sr., and Mrs. Mary Moore McIntosh; Ballston precinct, O. J. Le Prevost, Mrs. E. E. Speer and Mrs. Jean Cummings; Carne precinct, Joseph B. Merritt, John Petty, and Edward Marcey; Cherrydale precinct, M. W. Thayer, Mrs. Amos Donaldson and Mrs. Ruth Starkweather; Clarendon precinct, Maj. F. H. Goff, W. O. Tolford and Mrs. N. Rex Hunt; East Falls Church precinct, Harry A. Fellows, T. A. Hodgson and Reginald B. Turner; Del Ray precinct, P. J. Conlon, sr., S. L. Devers and Mrs. E. D. File; Glen Carlyn precinct, John H. Bernd, J. D. Cushman and C. G. Davis; Lyon Park precinct, J. W. England, Ernest Zimmerman and Miss Addie E. Hawkins; Rosslyn precinct, W. O. Pickett, P. H. Starke, jr., and Mrs. P. P. Scott; Virginia Highlands precinct, Joseph L. Lash, Mrs. Pauline A. Smith and Mrs H. W. Wilson.

Disregarding offers of the county board of supervisors to assist in the building of the Clarendon Firemen's Hall, the department, at a special meeting last night, accepted the bid of $1,425 by Arthur J. Porter to build the first unit of the plant, according to the plans and specifications prepared by Noland D. Mitchell. The bid calls for a one-story building 24 feet 6 inches wide by 54 feet deep.

The building will be erected on the site purchased from Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kelley and son, located on Lorton avenue, between Washington and Taylor avenues.

Mr. Porter announced he will break ground at once and hurry the building to completion. The department has purchased a site 50 feet wide. Future plans provide for the erection of a modern two-story building to be used for club purposes.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, last night announced that the sudden outbreak of typhoid fever in Arlington County had been traced to a luncheon given by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union on July 6.

"There can be no doubt as to the source," said Dr. Chichester, "as eleven of the cases reported are all women who attended the luncheon."

Dr. Chichester further said that as soon as the cases began to appear, from reports that reached his office on Thursday, July 25, an immediate check was made of all milk supplies and the water which showed no trace of the fever germ.

Dr. Chichester said he saw no cause for any alarm; that all the cases were of a mild nature.

In refusing to make public the place where the luncheon was held or naming the victims, Dr. Chichester said he had been obliged to treat all information confidential in order to get statements from those affected, since all were reluctant to give out information that might cause embarrassment to themselves or those responsible for the luncheon. Of the eleven patients three live in Fairfax County.

C. W. Clever, of Lyon Village, was elected precinct committeeman of Clarendon precinct No. 2 at a meeting of the County Republican committee last night. Mrs. C. W. Harris, who was committeewoman in Clarendon precinct prior to the division and now lives in Clarendon precinct No. 2, becomes precinct committeewoman. A. B. Eaton has been chosen precinct committeeman for Clarendon precinct No. 1. A committeewoman for precinct No. 1 will be selected at the meeting of the Republican convention next Thursday night at the Lyon Park community house.

J. C. Spaulding, county chairman, announced that the special committee selected, of which he is chairman, to study legislative needs for the county, will make its report at the convention Thursday night. The committee outlined a tentative program for waging an aggressive campaign following the Democratic primary to be held next Tuesday.

Work of extending water mains along the Wilson boulevard from Wheeler avenue to York street in Fort Myer Heights will be begun in the next few days.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at its meeting today will consider the report and recommendations of the special committee of the five-year building and development program for the county. The committee will recommend as one of the major projects to be studied by the chamber the building of a modern county sewerage system. Another project will be that of development of the streets and highways in the county.

Wallace E. Horn, of East Falls Church, a student at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Myer, won the loving cup offered the C. M. T. C. candidate making the highest score in the pistol shoot just held at Camp Simms. His score, 179 out of a possible 200, was two points higher than his nearest competitor.

Horn is a captain of cadets at the Washington-Lee High School in Arlington County, and also a member of the 121st Engineers, District of Columbia National Guard.

MRS. BLAINE ELKINS ESTATE IS $273,839

MRS. HITT GETS GEMS

Mrs. Lucy Douglas Elkins, widow of Blaine Elkins and daughter-in-law of the former United States Senator, Stephen B. Elkins, left an estate valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars, according to her will, which was filed for probate in District Supreme Court yesterday. Mrs. Elkins died July 2 at Paris, France.

The estate consists of real estate at Battersea, Canada, valued at $5,000, and personal property estimated at $268,839.70. The personal property, according to the will, contains her interest in the estate of her husband.

Mrs. Elkins bequeathed all her jewelry to Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, sister of her husband, and gave $10,000 to Mildred Kay, her stepdaughter. The residue of the estate is left in trust to her parents, James S. and Sally Douglas, during the life of the survivor. Upon the death of the survivor, the will provides that the trust shall be distributed equally among her brother and two sisters. The National Savings & Trust Co. is named trustee and executor of the estate.

Mrs. Elkins is survived by her father, who resides in Alexandria, Va.; two sisters, Harriet D. Wallace, of Middleburg, Va., and Eliza D. Stevenson, of Alberta, Canada, and a brother, James S. Douglas, jr., of Alexandria.

Cannon Calls Loans In Campaign Personal

All loans to the Anti-Smith Democrats in Virginia during the 1928 campaign were made personally by Bishop James Canno, jr., he stated yesterday in replying to questions regarding the loans asked by Representative George H. Tinkham, of Massachusetts. Bishop Cannon's statement is as follows:

"All loans to the headquarters committee of the Anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia in connection with the campaign of 1928 were made by James Cannon, jr., personally and not as an officer of the Board of Temperance and Social Service. These loans were repaid to him from time to time as contributions were received for the work of the headquarters committee of the Anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia."

Small Hope Expressed For Wounded Virginian

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 31.—Small hope is expressed for Doc Johns, who was twice shot through the body with rifle bullets, it is alleged, by Luther Haley. The injured man, now in a hospital here, has developed pneumonia, with one bullet in the left lung and the other in the wall of the chest. Haley made his escape after the shooting.

Schoolfield police officers who made inquiry into the affair report reticence on the part of people in the Liberty Hill section to discuss it. Johns told the police that he was shot down in the public highway without provocation.

Byrd Welcome Planned By Danville Red Men

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 31.—Danville Red Men have completed their preparations to welcome Gov. Harry Flood Byrd when he comes to Danville tomorrow to participate in the seventeenth anniversary of Motega Tribe, which is made up largely of men identified with the local textile mills.

The exercises are to be held at the mill Y. M. C. A. and will include a number of speeches. Among those on the program are Mayor Harry Wooding, Dr. G. W. Johnson, Hugh T. Williams, Judge Harry Cuthriell, of Portsmouth, Great Incohonee of the Virginia tribesmen, and H. R. Fitzgerald, who will introduce the governor.

Mrs. Hansell Watt Dies At Thomasville, Ga.,

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., July 31.—Relatives here have been informed of the death in Thomasville, Ga., Monday evening of Mrs. Hansell Watt. She had been ill for six weeks and had undergone two operations. Mrs. Watt, a graduate of Mary Baldwin seminary, this city, married Mr. Watt in 1907. He and three children survive her.

Mrs. Watt also leaves three sisters, Misses Josephine and Elizabeth Timberlake, of Washington, and Mrs. Lee Dillon, wife of Capt. Dillon, United States Army, stationed in Detroit. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edgar Timberlake, of Staunton.

Chain Gang to Work On Petersburg Jobs

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 31.—For the first time in a number of years Petersburg is to have a chain gang. The order creating it was entered by Judge James M. Mullen in Hustings Court here today. It provides that all male prisoners over the age of 18 years and confined in jail for 30 days or longer, be put to work in whatever way the city may need their services.

Today the gang had not been organized, but it is probable that it will be organized within the next few days. There are said to be several jobs about the city that are awaiting the attention of the gang. The chain gang was created at the request of the city council and of City Manager Paul S. Morton.

Baby Girl Awaits Adoption.

Lynchburg, Va., July 31 (Special). A. H. Mason, chief probation officer here, has a six-month-old baby girl for adoption, which was abandoned recently in a boarding house by its parents. Ten such instances have come to the attention of the office here this year.

Leesburg to Open Annual Carnival

Funds of 10-Day Program to Buy Fire-Fighting Equipment.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., July 31.—Leesburg's annual firemen's carnival, when funds are raised for the improvement of equipment and for other necessary expenditures, will begin August 1, and continue for nine evenings, closing August 10. This event will be held on the high school athletic field in Leesburg and promises to surpass by far that of last year. The booths have been substantially erected and painted so that they may be stored away for the carnivals to come.

Dancing will be the feature each evening, with Dot Myers' Orchestra, of Washington, furnishing the music. Many new events and attractions have been added. A popularity contest will be held. Firemen will be in charge of the various stands.

Lynchburg Man Takes Bride.

Lynchburg, Va., July 31 (Special). Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Denny, of Greensboro, N. C., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Craig Denny, to John E. McGregor, of this city, which took place last Saturday at their home.

U. S. Commissioner At Clarksburg to Quit

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 31.—After serving eight years and part of a new four-year term to which he was recently appointed, George Harry Gordon today announced his retirement as United States Commissioner here and the probable suspension of the office in Clarksburg.

L. T. Eddy was recently appointed commissioner at Fairmont and it is stated that fees of the district do not warrant continuance of two offices. Mr. Gordon recently resigned to engage in the insurance business.

Lynchburg Detective Badly Hurt in Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 31.—R. W. Childress, 65, plain-clothes detective, the oldest man in the police department here, is in a critical condition as a result of an automobile accident early Monday when he was thrown from a side car of a motorcycle in Amherst County while coming back from a trip to aid in the rescue of a 15-year-old boy who had fractured an arm on a 1,000-foot elevation on Crabtree falls.

He suffered a fracture of his collar bone and a bit of the splintered bone penetrated his left lung. He is in Lynchburg hospital.

NEWS FROM MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ROSY OUTLOOK SEEN FOR VIRGINIA CROPS

Conditions Above Average on July 1, Asserts Report of Reserve Agent.

TOTAL ACREAGE IS LESS

Richmond, Va., July 31 (A.P.).—Virginia crop conditions were above the average on July 1, according to the monthly review of business and agricultural conditions released here by William W. Hoxton, chairman and Federal Reserve agent for the fifth Federal Reserve district.

"Hay crops and pastures were unusually good," the review stated, "but there was too much rain during June for cultivated crops such as corn, peanuts and tobacco. The total acreage in all crops is slightly less than last year. The corn acreage is estimated at 6 per cent less than last year. The stand of corn is very good, but growth has been retarded by excessive moisture and cool nights. However, early in July conditions were more favorable and corn made considerable progress, although fields became somewhat grassy. Virginia wheat prospects declined considerably during June, and early threshing reports indicate that the yield is very poor. The crop was badly injured by rust and other diseases which resulted from the unusually wet and cloudy weather during May and June. Wheat harvesting was considerably later this year than had been expected, but in most sections was completed by July 1."

Small Grains Also Hit.

"Other small grains such as oats, barley and rye are expected to yield slightly better than wheat, but not as well as the large growth of straw indicated. These crops did not fill as well as had been expected. The acreage of potatoes, both early and commercial, was reduced this year, largely because of low prices received for the 1928 crop. The commercial crops yielded poorly during the early part of the season, but after the middle of June yields improved considerably.

"This year's production of Irish potatoes is expected to be about 25 per cent less than last year's production, but prices during the latter part of June averaged around $3.75 per barrel in comparison with $1.25 per barrel in 1928. The sweet potato acreage is 6 per cent larger than last year, the increase being chiefly in commercial acreage on the Eastern Shore, where conditions were favorable for setting out the plants. The peanut acreage in Virginia, while 5 per cent larger than a year ago, is smaller than the farmers had intended to plant. The stand is unusually good, but weather conditions in June were unfavorable and grass was growing rapidly in the field on July 1. A considerable part of the acreage usually planted in the Spanish type nuts, has this year been shifted to the larger type.

Apple Crop Is Cut.

"The commercial apple crop of Virginia is expected to be smaller than a year ago, but above the five-year average. Weather conditions damaged the fruit somewhat in June, but apples have grown rapidly and the size is larger than usual at this season."

In summarizing the tobacco situation, the review stated: "In Virginia tobacco acreage is about 4 per cent less this year than in 1928, 174,000 acres now under cultivation comparing with 180,800 acres harvested last year. The reduction is in flue-cured, fire-cured and sun-cured types, burley acreage in southwest Virginia being approximately 50 per cent larger this year. The season was favorable for setting out tobacco and generally the stand is good, although in some sections plants are irregular, largely due to insect damage. Too cool nights during most of June retarded growth. However, in most districts the plants were slightly larger on July 1 than on the same date last year. Rains interfered with cultivation and fields are becoming grassy. The condition on July 1 was reported to be 76 per cent of normal, which is the same as reported last year.

North Carolina Burley Good.

"North Carolina tobacco acreage is 5 per cent larger than that of 1928, but the condition of 69 per cent on July 1 was 3 per cent below the July 1, 1928, condition. Burley tobacco in the extreme western counties shows the best condition. Curing of tobacco is well under way in many of the eastern counties, and the section included in the South Carolina best is ready for marketing.

"South Carolina tobacco is ready for market, and the condition of 70 per cent on July 1 in comparison with 65 per cent a year ago indicates a probable yield of 85,806,000 pounds, a record crop, although this year's acreage was 8 per cent below the acreage of 1928. South Carolina tobacco markets are opening at the end of July this year, a week ahead of last year's opening."

Professor Urges More Farmers

Increased Number of Rural Residents and Migration to City Favored.

Blacksburg, Va., July 31 (A.P.).—While suggesting that migration from farm to city be encouraged, "the national policy of our Government should be to encourage an increasing agricultural and rural population," according to Carle C. Zimmerman, University of Minnesota professor, in a speech prepared for delivery today before the institute of rural affairs in session here.

Other general suggestions which he suggests in his study of rural-urban migration as a factor in standards of living are vocational guidance for farm children and an effort to discourage any "widespread use of birth control measures among our farm population."

The basis for the speaker's argument for unhampered rural-urban migration, save for vocational training, is that such migration will aid in giving the foreign born a native American culture, characteristic of the spiritual, patriotic, substantial folk of interior United States. In routing arguments against "leaving the farm," he points out that birth control in cities is curbing overpopulation, and "a close study of the production of food indicates that the farmer the world over is producing more per acre and more per man with the increase of the proportions of the population in the cities."

TRAFFIC JAM STIRS ANNAPOLIS PROTEST

Congestion of Two Main Highways to Be Laid Before Board.

CIVIC CLUBS JOIN MOVE

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 31.—Stirred by the continual congestion of traffic on the Defense highway from Annapolis to Washington and the Annapolis-Baltimore Boulevard, and unsatisfactory methods of handling it, the municipal authorities of Annapolis have joined forces with the Chamber of Commerce to take the matter up directly with the State Roads Commission.

The Rotary and Civitan Clubs also are interested in the movement, and a committee representing the three civic organizations and the city council soon will get together and arrange a conference with the Roads Commission. Meanwhile, the roads officials are endeavoring to work out a plan to relieve conditions, especially as regards the great jam of traffic at the Glenburnie intersection of the Annapolis-Baltimore Boulevard, particularly on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, which occasions cause much of the complaint.

The Chamber of Commerce took the first move in the premises by communicating with H. D. Williar, jr., chief engineer of the roads commission, and was informed that the conditions complained of were a matter of police regulation.

In the meantime, the Commerce group conferred with Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt and also the Rotary and Civitan clubs, suggesting the appointment of committees to cooperate in the movement. It is pointed out that the result of congestion reaches out in many ways to the detriment of Annapolis and surrounding territory. It also urged that Col. E. Austin Baughman, commissioner of Motor Vehicles, be advised that with the limited force of 50 State police at his command, it is impossible to properly police the roads on Sundays and holidays.

Mayor Quenstedt is chairman of the committee named on the part of the Council, the other members being Alderman Arthur T. Elliott and Thomas Basil. The Commerce Chamber committee is headed by the organization's president, Clarence M. White, and his associates are Louis N. Phipps and Carey L. Meredith. The Rotary Club designated former Mayor Charles W. Smith, while the Civitan committee is headed by Charles E. Chance with Charles O. Dulin and Clarence M. Bassford as members.

Funeral of Drowned Youth Set for Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Bloomington, Md., July 31.—The funeral of Charles E. Moon, 19, an employe of the United States Geological Survey, building a weir in the Potomac here to measure the depth and velocity of the Potomac River, who was drowned last night, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal Church at Bloomington, and burial will be in Bloomington cemetery.

Moon, a furloughed Baltimore & Ohio trackman, was employed as a laborer by the Survey. He was swimming with companions when seized by cramps. His body was recovered in 15 minutes. Moon was a son of Joseph E. Moon, of Cumberland, Md. He lived with his uncle, George Moon, of Bloomington.

Baptist Churches Gather at Luray

Six Counties Send Large Delegations to Report Progress.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., July 31.—The Shenandoah Baptist Association, composed of churches in Page, Warren, Clarke and Frederick Counties, Va., and Jefferson and Berkeley Counties, W. Va., convened with the Stanley Baptist Church in this county today.

Large delegations are present from the six counties embraced within the association. The session will last three days, each day having three sessions — morning, afternoon and night. Roll call and reports from the churches representing the association—thirty or more — occupied most of today's session.

Some of the leading members of the denomination, representing the Shenandoah, Shiloh and Dover associations, are present. Statistical reports filed with the secretary show that all the churches are in a fine condition financially. The report of Main Street Baptist Church, Luray, shows that the membership has increased 30 within the past year, in which time approximately $9,000 was raised by the 508 members, in addition to $2,000 raised to pay church bonds. A church indebtedness of $25,000 incurred in 1924 shows that more than $4,000 has been paid off, leaving a present indebtedness of about $20,000. The church equipment represents an outlay of $25,000.

HANCOCK WILL SEND YEARLINGS TO SALE

CLARKE COUNTY JOINS

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 31.—Arthur B. Hancock, one of the leading breeders of America, will be a large contributor to the sale of thoroughbred colts to be held at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., August 5 to 25. On Friday of this week he will ship from the Ellerslie Stud, this county, 24 yearlings, while from his Claiborne Stud, in Kentucky, there will go between 90 and 100 yearlings—two carloads from Virginia and five carloads from Kentucky.

The yearlings to be shipped from the Ellerslie Farm Friday are sired by good horses, such as Wrack, Campfire, John P. Grier, Chatterton, Sweep, Stimulus, Jim Gaffney and Ladkin, and are out of the famous mares Star Spangle, Clara Belle, Cattleya, Ladora, Noon Time, Pay Girl, Trojan Belle, Anthony's Lass, Abbatassa, Sweepings, Merry Marion, Love Call, Flora Finch Robinetta, Celiva, Bramble Rose, Subterfuge, Honey Shuck, Sandwich, Munition, Roman Princess, Lady Chicksanda and Margie C.

The breeding of thoroughbreds began at Ellerslie over 60 years ago. Since that time many of the best race horses of modern times have been bred there.

Winchester, Va., July 31.—Thoroughbred yearlings from Clarke County horse-breeding establishments are being shipped by express this week to Saratoga, N. Y., where they will be sold at auction. The Clarke County yearlings usually bring among the highest prices paid at the Saratoga August sales. Several years ago one of the Clarke yearlings brought $50,500. The first shipment was made yesterday from Audley Farms for Bernard B. Jones, a consignment of ten being sent for auction August 7. Others making shipments this week included Capt. P. E. M. Walker, Reid Riley, Kenneth N. Gilpin, Herring Brothers, E. B. Jacobs and William Bell Watkins.

Valuable Horse Destroyed.

Leesburg, Va., July 31 (Special).—John Galleher, Leesburg, commonwealth's attorney for Loudoun County, lost a hunter horse valued at $1,000 this morning. In some way the horse broke its leg while in the paddock and had to be killed.

W. B. HARDY RITES WILL BE AT CHURCH

Services for Leader in Capital Affairs Will Be Held Tomorrow.

WAS INSURANCE OFFICER

Funeral services for William Baldwin Hardy, 65 years old, prominent in civic, business and fraternal circles, who died after a year's illness yesterday morning at his residence, 119 Fifth street northeast, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Waugh Methodist Episcopal Church.

Services also will be conducted later in the afternoon at the Abbey Mausoleum outside Arlington Cemetery by Masonic bodies of which Mr. Hardy had been an active member during the greater part of his residence in Washington since moving here 44 years ago from Richmond, Va.

At the time of his death Mr. Hardy was district agent of the Home Life Insurance Co. after a continuous service with the organization since 1911, following an affiliation with several other leading insurance companies.

Mr. Hardy held memberships in Federal Lodge, No. 1, of the Masonic Order; Columbia Commandery, Royal Arch Masons, serving on its drill team; Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine, serving as secretary of the Arab Patrol for many years; Amaranth Lodge of the Knights of Pythias, at one time being chancellor commander of the lodge, and also serving as grand master of the Pythian Grand Lodge at the time of his death, and Capitol Forest, No. 104, Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Born on Gospel Hill, in Staunton, Va., the son of John M. and Mary Virginia Bowles Hardy, he early became active in military affairs and was a member of the Walker Light Guards of the First Virginia Regiment, and later the Second Virginia Regiment, part of the old Stonewall Jackson Brigade. His military service brought about his attendance at the dedication of the Washington Monument and participation in the parade at the inauguration of President Cleveland.

In 1886 he was a member of the League of American Wheelmen of the District of Columbia and subsequently was a member of the Washington Cycle Club, the Columbia Athletic Club the Y. M. C. A. and several bowling teams. At various times he has been active in various other organizations, including the Gavel Club, of which he is a charter member; the Chamber of Commerce, which he served three times as a director; the Southern Society of Washington, the Stanton Park Citizens Association, the Martha Chapter of the Eastern Star, and the Friendship Temple of the Pythian Sisters.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Warren Shantz, and two sons, Samuel Walker Hardy, of the Department of Justice, and William Hardy, jr., a recent graduate of George Washington University.

leader. The actual vote of confidence was 324 to 196.

By the vote Premier Briand will lead the French delegation to the Hague conference with the assurance of the "three months' truce" on internal politics, for which he asked in order to face the paramount foreign issues which will absorb the government.

The opposition today produced no new argument against the government, dwelling simply on the viewpoint that the ministry does not represent the political aspirations of the country.

Premier Briand reminded the chamber the greatest aspirations of France today are for a final and durable peace. That was what the government under Poincare had worked for and what it will continue to strive for during the negotiations at The Hague, he said.

The special session of parliament, which had been called only to vote on the government's declaration, was closed today after the chamber had voted a cut of 520,000,000 francs in taxation for the second half of this year. Parliament will meet again early in November.

unbiased temperament necessary to a fair investigation. He declared that once having sifted with one of the parties in a controversy she was not open to reason or change and held herself above the court and the court's orders.

Judge Sellers scored the board and Mrs. Miller in plain language, charging from the bench that the board has consistently disobeyed the orders of the Juvenile Court. The judge indicated that any future violations of her orders would be met with prompt and drastic action by her.

In conclusion, Judge Sellers withdrew Anna May Brasse from the custody of the board and awarded her to the father. The judge left the other children in the keeping of the board, warning officials of that organization that on no account were they to be turned over to the mother.

All of the children, including Anna May and Rosie Lois, were in court during the hearing.

SENATORS APPROVE NAVAL PARLEY PLAN

naval disarmament whenever the other powers are prepared to do so.

Some doubt exists concerning the attitude of the French and Italian governments. Neither France nor Italy accepted with good grace the low capital ship radio allowed them in the Washington naval treaty. Whenever that treaty comes up for revision both are expected to demand an increased ratio, even though neither ever builds up to it in capital craft. They have always resented being classed as second-rate naval powers in so far as capital ships, are concerned.

How important the time element may be considered by the French and Italian governments has not yet been disclosed. Both are being kept fully advised concerning the discussions that are going on between Washington and London and between Ambassadors Dawes and Gibson and Prime Minister MacDonald.

Up to date, however, no official intimation has been received here as to whether France and Italy are disposed to advance the reconsideration of the capital ship and aircraft carrier question, which under the Washington treaty would be handled in a conference to be called in 1931.

If France and Italy, or either of them, should object to taking up the entire naval problem at the conference now in the making, it is not at all probable that the President would insist on including capital ships or attempt to reach a three-power agreement with regard to that type of fighting craft.

Official Washington, however, is hopeful that all the leading naval powers will find it possible to tackle the entire problem in a single conference.

Exchanges between London and Washington continue from day to day. At the State Department it was indicated yesterday that these exchanges are no more definitive or important now than they have been for some time past, but deal with first one point and then another.

Secretary of State Stimson, in reply to questions, said no definite statement could be made concerning the London report that a preliminary conference will be held there in November. This point remains to be settled.

Dawes and MacDonald Hold Final Conference

London, July 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes held their last naval conference for at least three weeks today at No. 10 Downing street.

MacDonald will fly 500 miles northward tomorrow to Lossiemouth, his birthplace, in the Scotch highlands, for a holiday, leaving Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson to defend British interests at the impending international diplomatic conference at The Hague to implement the Young reparations plan.

There has as yet been no discussion between Dawes and MacDonald as to a naval conference in London. It is emphasized here that Washington dispatches are ahead of the facts and that the questions of principle and procedure, while well-advanced, are not yet settled and that there is yet some ground to be explored as well as other naval powers to consult, before the question of whether the naval conference can be held next year, and if so, where, is discussed.

What has happened in informed opinion here, is that MacDonald's remark in his speech before the House of Commons last week that he hoped President Hoover would be allowed to name the place for the conference in recognition of his leadership in naval negotiations has led to a corresponding American gesture of courtesy.

The suggestion in high quarters in Washington in reply to this that London would be the best place for the conference is accepted as meaning that President Hoover is in favor of London when the time comes. This suggestion is welcomed here, but it is felt that these courtesies have led to the assumption that matters are further advanced than is the case.

STATE BUYS TRACT FOR FISH HATCHERY

West Virginia Will Grow Trout and Bass Near Berkeley Springs.

DEFENDS RECENT FIRING

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., July 31.—The West Virginia Game, Fish and Forestry Commission has completed negotiations for a main fish hatchery at Burch Grove, on the Morgan-Hampshire line, in the Eastern Panhandle, 14 miles from here, to cost $500, Vernon E. Johnson, chairman of the commission, said today. The tract includes 30 acres. Work will be started at once on construction of the hatchery. A small one will probably be located in Mingo County in the southern part of the State, he said.

The main site has three huge never-failing springs of cold mountian water, running 800 gallons to the minute. Ten acres of nice timber is included in the tract. This will be made into a park, he said. The spot is 6 miles off United States Route No. 50. Both trout and bass will be hatched in the troughs. Trout will be spawned and reared in the first series, where the water is cooler. The lower and warmer troughs will be given over to bass.

Commissioner Johnson, in his announcement, took occasion to defend the action of the commission some months ago in dismissing Ernest Angelo, chief game warden, with the statement that Angelo, a professor at West Virginia University before appointment, had usurped all powers and authority of the commission, and that the ouster was due primarily to this. The commission had become mere figureheads, Mr. Johnson said, although holding the responsibility. His appointment to membership on the commission gave him the opportunity, he said, to show that the commission was a power in itself, which forced retirement of the game warden.

Records show, he said, the work is being adequately done. In the first half of 1928, he said, under the Angelo administration, 502 arrests were made for game law violations with 464 convictions. For the first half of 1929, under the commission, 574 arrests were made with convictions in all but a score of cases. Under Angelo, he charged, it was costing $4.37 to produce a pheasant and 36 cents for each pheasant egg, which he believed entirely too high. The State farm near Buckhannon will be changed from a "menagerie" to a place for propagation of game that can thrive in the State, he said.

The South Branch Valley of the Potomac, running through Romney to Franklin, will be encouraged as a trout section, he said. There is a trout hatchery at Petersburg now, in the valley, at which improvements will be made. About 100,000 young trout will be distributed to the South Branch this fall.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF HELD AFTER CHASE

TRAPPED IN 'BLIND' ROAD

The suspicions of a Prince Georges County justice of the peace and the quick work of a Maryland State policeman yesterday placed Victor Ellacott, 27 years old, of Stamford, Conn., in the Howard County Jail, and may be the means of clearing up a number of automobile thefts in the Eastern section of the United States.

Justice of the Peace George Phillips, of Berwyn, was approached by a well-dressed young man who asked if he could leave an expensive jack in collateral for gasoline. The judge accepted the collateral, and the young man drove his expensive machine away. After he left, the judge pondered the situation and began wondering why a man with such an expensive machine should have to worry over the cash for a few gallons of gas. He called the Laurel substation of the Maryland State Police and told Corporal Joseph Deutsch about the incident.

Deutsch waited until the car approached and hailed the driver, who stepped on the gas and tried to escape. The corporal gave chase on his motorcycle. The fugitive turned into a side road, not knowing it was a "blind" road. When he discovered he was trapped he tried an old bootlegging trick and backed his car rapidly at the pursuing policeman, but the policeman was an old hand at ducking and captured the man without further trouble.

Two pistols of a small caliber were found on the prisoner. The car was found to have been listed as stolen from the Alexandria Hudson-Essex dealers, in Alexandria, Va.

Ellacott was taken to the Howard County Jail at Ellicott City, and is being held on a charge of investigation while police look into his history. It is expected that he will be released to Federal authorities.

SPOLIATIONS THREAT TO FARMS IS KEEN

CITES DIRE FORECAST

Clarksburg, Va., July 31 (A.P.).—The South and West "are making a fight not only to save our farms and firesides from legalized spoliation, but as well a fight for the soul of America," Carl Vrooman, publicist, author, scientific farmer and assistant Secretary of Agriculture under the Wilson administration, said in a speech prepared for delivery today before the Institute of Rural Affairs. Mr. Vrooman's home is in Bloomington, Ill.

"Can this country achieve a permanent, material prosperity built upon the ashes of the farmers legitimate hopes and demands?" the speaker questioned. "Can the East remain permanently prosperous if the West and South are to remain in a permanent state of financial depression? Will not the moral fibre of the Nation rot if we knowingly and cold-bloodedly continue to permit the Federal Government to foster and promote the predatory policies of the industrial East at the expense of the agricultural West and South? Such a policy would be morally destructive to the East as it has proven financially destructive to the West and South. It would undermine all that is best in our civilization. It would speed up artificially that industrialization and urbanization of our population which it is difficult enough, even at a normal rate of development, to prevent from degenerating into a morally pathological progress of national decay.

"Macaulay prophesied that American civilization eventually would be destroyed, not by Huns and vandals from without her borders, but by Huns and vandals from the sidewalks of New York and our other great urban industrial centers. Unless country life can be made reasonably profitable, enjoyable and exhilarating, that dire prophecy seems likely to come true in no distant future.

"In making a fight for economic justice to agriculture, we farmers, business and professional men of the West and South are making a fight not only to save our farms and firesides from legalized spoliation, but as well a fight for the soul of America."

Speaking from the subject, "Farm Relief at Minimum Cost," Mr. Vrooman commented in discussing the several plans proposed for farm relief, "Surely it is worthy of note that whereas the equalization fee plan might cost the farmer tens of millions of dollars and the export debenture plan presumably would cost as much or more, the crop acreage limitation plan, the export credit plan and the reforestation plan, in the long run, could be counted on to pay their own way."

Concessions Operator Gave Bad Check, Claim

Detective Sergt. Bernard W Thompson paid a visit to a carnival playing in Middleburg, Va., yesterday and when he departed, Harry Patterson Colfelt, 34 years old, operator of the show, of 515 Sixth street northwest, accompanied him.

The detective held a warrant, sworn out by William E. Atkinson official of the Mavis Candies, Inc., of 1321 L street northwest, charging the showman with violation of the bad check law. According to Thompson, Colfelt gave the complainant a $189 check in payment for a large order of candy, to be used on a paddle wheel stand at the carnival. The check, the detective said, turned out to be worthless. Colfelt gained his liberty from the First Precinct by posting $300 bail.

STATE BOARD TAKES OVER HISTORIC ROAD

AFFORDS SCENIC VIEWS

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 31.—The Allegheny County road directors were advised that the State roads commission has taken over the historic Cumberland road, erroneously known as the "Braddock road," and will maintain it, following its reconditioning by the county at a cost of $12,000. This is the original route out of Cumberland west, the Cumberland road, built by act of Congress. It extends from Green street, Cumberland, over Haystack Mountain to the Six-Mile House, and is 2.8 miles in length. The improvements were made in accordance with specifications supplied by the State.

The national highway route from Cumberland, through the Narrows, was built later, although Gen. Edward Braddock blazed a trail through the Narrows on his disastrous expedition to Fort Duequesne during the French and Indian War. When this became the route out of the city to the West, the Cumberland road fell into disuse, but in recent years it has been reopened and modernized and its use relieves congestion on the national highway. Aside from this it affords several scenic panoramas, not obtained on the national highway, one of the City of Cumberland and another of the LaVale Valley section traversed by the national highway.

The Allegany County road directors are in the midst of much new construction, the largest project being the relocation of Oldtown Road, south of Oldtown and extending to Picardy. The grading of the new road will be completed about August 15. Tentative plans are being made for the relocation of Oldtown road from the end of the concrete at Spring Gap to Oldtown, by which it is hoped to eliminate steep grades, two grade crossings of the Western Maryland Railway, and to provide a shorter route to Oldtown, which is across the Potomac from Green Spring, W. Va., a station on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The Oldtown route, when completed, will be another out of Cumberland east by the Potomac valley, avoiding the grades of the National Highway.

County workmen will macadamize one mile of the Vale Summit-Midland road late next month. One mile of the road was macadamized last year. This is the short route from Cumberland to Lonaconing and Midland by way of Clarysville.

Bridgeport Bond Issue Loses by Four Votes

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 31.—A check-up today of the ballots cast at a special election yesterday in the town of Bridgeport near here on a waterworks bond issue proposal showed the measure lost by four votes, although a majority favored the idea. The ayes were four votes short of the 60 per cent margin required by the State constitution.

The bonds aggregated $12,000 and were to be issued for substitution of concrete reservers for wooden ones.

Staunton Asks for Bids Remodeling City Hall

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., July 31.—The city council is advertising for bids for remodeling the present Beverley Theater building, which also houses the municipal offices and corporation court. Council has voted to remodel the structure on such a scale that except for the walls, the building will hardly resemble itself.

Store rooms are to be provided on the ground floor, upper floors to take care of the various offices, elevator service being made available. About $75,000 is to be spent. Bids will be closed Wednesday, August 21, at 3 p. m.

SCHOOLS' GUIDANCE TOPIC OF TEACHERS

Virginia Committee for Research to Discuss Program Next Week.

DR. PHIPPINS TO PRESIRE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 31.—A guidance program for Virginia high schools will be considered when the Virginia Committee for Research in Secondary Education holds its annual session at the University of Virginia on Thursday and Friday, August 8 and 9.

An explanation of guidance, its nature and function, will be given by Dr. William R. Smithey, professor of secondary education in the University of Virginia and chairman of the research committee.

Dr. William T. Hodges, professor of education, William and Mary College, will speak on types of guidance; B. H. Payne, principal of the Robert E. Lee high school of Staunton, on the need and demand for guidance, and A. M. Jarman, assistant professor of secondary education in the university, on the guidance movement in the junior high school.

Available means for guidance in secondary schools will be the subject of E. E. Windes, associate professor of education in the university, who speaks at the afternoon session. S. J. McCallie, headmaster of the McCallie School of Chattanooga, Tenn., will talk on guidance problems in private secondary schools. C. H. Phippins, of the university department of education, will preside.

The annual banquet of the research committee will be served early Thursday evening in the ballroom of the Monticello Hotel, giving time for the educators to return to the university for the evening session of the Institute of Public Affairs.

Friday morning's program will open with the outlining of a suggested program for guidance in Virginia high schools by Edward Alvey, jr., instructor in secondary education in the university.

The details of organization and administration of a guidance program will be the subject of Mr. Phippins, after which there will be a general discussion of the problem of guidance.

66,000 Volts Fail To Kill Engineer

Young Radio Worker Hurt as Wire Falls on High-Tension Line.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., July 31.—Washington Lent, young radio engineer, felt 66,000 volts of electricity in his body this afternoon and is still living, though badly burned. He was rendered unconscious by the shock, but was taken to Mary Washington Hospital, where he was revived a few hours later. He is burned about the hands, chest and feet, but it is believed that he will recover.

Mr. Lent has been engaged here for some months doing experimental radio work for the Continental Broadcasting Co., of New York, which operates stations at Fredericksburg, Alexandria and Richmond for testing new principles and devices in radio broadcasting.

This afternoon Mr. Lent undertook to use a kite from which to suspend an antenna, holding the wire in his hand while the kite was being sent up. The wire fell across the high-tension line of the Virginia Electric & Power Co. carrying 66,000 volts, and Mr. Lent fell to the ground unconscious. The small antenna wire was quickly melted by the heavy flow of current and but for this fact it is believed Lent would have been killed. The injured man, who is 26 years old, is married and makes his home in Richfield Park, N. J.

A. A. A. MEN IN ROW OVER AUTO EDITOR

CAMPAIGN IS DESCRIBED

William Ullman automobile editor of The Washington Post, who has been writing a series of articles on the three methods of left turns for traffic in the Capital, was the man over whom two American Automobile Association employes fell out last night during a meeting of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association in the Sherwood Presbyterian Church hall.

Representing himself as a member of the citizens' association rather than of the A. A. A., Emmett Rudd, from the floor of the meeting, declared:

"The man who is writing the series of articles in The Washington Post on left turns is a former employe of the A. A. A., and I believe his campaign is based on personal feeling against the association."

Kenelpp Makes Defense.

George E. Kenelpp, District of Columbia manager of the A. A. A., speaker of the evening, immediately went to Mr. Ullman's defense with the statement: "I believe thoroughly in Mr. Ullman's honesty of purpose in his series of articles. I know him personally and have the greatest respect for his judgment on traffic problems. I think the American Automobile Association owes Mr. Ullman a vote of thanks for his articles, which have brought us 3,200 members during the month of July."

Mr. Kenelpp, speaking on the subject "Left Turns," told of the A. A. A. campaign for uniformity in traffic regulations over the entire country as well as in Washington, describing the meetings of the Hoover conference on traffic and telling of its recommendations. He explained the three methods of left turning now under discussion in the Capital and pointed out the reasons which the A. A. A. has advanced for adoption of the Hoover turn over the present rotary system.

Letters Favor Hoover Turn.

Announcement was made by Kenelpp that of all the letters received from visiting motorists by the A. A. A. here 300 favored the Hoover turn, while only 3 opposed it. He declared also that A. A. A. members had never been asked to vote on the left turn, but that those interested were permitted to express their sentiments.

A report was made to the Citizens Association that a branch library in the area of 2206 Rhode Island avenue is being prepared and will be open by November 1. Several matters in connection with zoning were referred to the committee on that subject.

Six new members were elected. They are Z. T. Hamilton, Edwin A. Thomas, M. W. Fowler, Mrs. A. F. Williams, H. L. Barnstead and O. L. Blackwell.

Prisoner to Be Taken To Trial by Airplane

Chicago, July 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The law has found a new use for airplanes.

Ralph E. Fleagle, wanted on a murder and bank robbery charge in Lamar, Colo., will board a plane for that town tomorrow, guarded by a Colorado sheriff. He is said to be leader of the gang responsible for the Lamar Bank holdup fifteen months ago, when two bank officials were killed and two others lost their lives in the pursuit. Fleagle was arrested in Kankakee.

Waving extradition, Fleagle will be rushed by plane to Garden City, Kans., a rifle squad of deputy sheriffs taking him to Lamar for immediate trial. The heavy guard is to forestall an attempt at lynching.

U.S. AGENT DENIED BAIL IN DRY KILLING

WIDOW ACCUSES HIM

Oklahoma City, July 31 (A.P.).—Expressing doubt of the self-defense explanation offered by Jeff D. Harris, member of a Federal liquor raiding squad charged with the murder of two Tecumseh, Okla., farmers Judge Edgar S. Vaught, of United States District Court, declined today to admit bail for Harris.

At the same time, Judge Vaught set bail of $15,000 for W. W. Thomason, Federal prohibition enforcement agent who was in charge of the raiding party. Thomason was expected to arrange the bond.

Testimony in the bond hearing for the two men yesterday and at their preliminary trial before a justice of the peace at Tecumseh was that Harris was the actual slayer of James Harris and Oscar Lowery, who were killed July 4 at the James Harris home near Tecumseh.

Thomason himself testified that he heard a shot which presumably mortally wounded James Harris after he had dropped a shotgun with which he had shot Jeff Harris in the face. Mrs. James Harris, the widow, had testified at the preliminary hearing that her husband was killed after she had persuaded him to surrender and obtained a promise from the raiders that he would not be hurt.

"The question of whether Jeff Harris shot in self-defense in the killing of James Harris is one on which the court has his doubts," Judge Vaught said.

The judge said there was no evidence that Thomason fired a single shot. Testimony showed he was not on the premises when Lowery was fatally injured and he was not charged in connection with Lowery's death.

ROTARY LEFT TURN STILL INCREASING BALLOT LEAD

on street and highway safety and who can be regarded as a spokesman for the forces of uniformity, yesterday commented upon the indicated final result of The Post's referendum:

"Your referendum to date has been amazingly interesting in that it has upset an absolute conviction that motor car users were unanimously behind uniform motor vehicle legislation. I have noticed in your articles the point made by the traffic office and others that 'Washington has the best left turn and, while uniformity is desirable, if the rest of the country wants it, it should adopt the rotary turn as used here.'

Rejected By Conference.

"That statement could hardly stand the test of logic. In the first place, the best traffic minds of the country, who have dealt with infinitely [illegible] volumes of traffic than Washington Atlanta ever had, do not agree that Washington's turn is the best. They rejected several it without bias as against year or more turn and rejected it. Only midshipmen and Cleveland use it and Washington constantly reducing the a ball at the intersections at which it Ambassado all due respect to Washing- The Mific officials and the enthu- Samy Pol their supporters in The York freferendum, the rest of the Mme. never will agree that the ro- Charoun is the best. That being the them hey never will adopt it. To come that the country would follow The ington's lead is futile. The ro- per turn simply is not the Moses Pa it will lead America's dense metro- litan traffic out of the left turn wilderness. That already has been settled so far as the rest of the country is concerned. Washington, of course, may do as it pleases, as The Post has insisted in its referendum, but it always will be out of step with the rest of the country if it keeps its rotary left turn."

With this statement, which can be regarded as authoritative, Washington motorists do not entirely agree unless those who do have delayed until the last few days the marking of their ballots. That may be the case, as confident followers of the Hoover turn insist, but, at the same time, proponents of the rotary turn scout the possibility of being overtaken in the last days of the showdown campaign.

With but two days remaining, they insist that if uniformity were a vital consideration with its professed advocates, they would not be inclined to procrastinate in getting into the referendum.

By way of proving that they are not procrastinating nor showing any apathy, those behind the No. 1 turn cite the fact that yesterday they more than doubled the vote of those for the Hoover turn. Of the total of the day's ballots, they turned in 388 to 165.

It was the first time during the referendum that this result was so pronounced, and it is cited as showing the keener interest in the question on the part of those who would keep the present method for Washington.

Ever since the first day of the campaign, Turn No. 1 has drawn consistently away from the Hoover turn in the balloting.

On the first day it polled a total of 290 votes against 251. The second day the result was still closer, with only 28 votes separating the two rival factions, the rotary turn leading, 266 to 238. The third day found both polling their largest single day's vote, No. 1 with 413 votes, No. 3 with 335. Both dropped on the following day, but No. 3 showed by far the greater plunge, with only 165 ballots in its favor as against 334 for the rotary turn. Yesterday's vote, as previously mentioned, showed the No. 1 turn 223 votes ahead for the day, the respective totals being 388 to 165.

The No. 2 turn never has been a serious competitor.

The figures, as the showdown enters its final stages, reveal a widening margin against the uniform turn. That the forces of uniformity can not marshal sufficient strength to change the tide is the confident belief of those who favor the present method.

The next two days will tell how right they are.

Motor Visitors Reported Favoring Hoover Turn

Motorist voting in the American Automobile Association's poll on what left turn is favored in Washington, continue to show a preference for the standard or Hoover turn according to a statement issued by Charles P. Clark, general manager of the association.

With 1,960 votes cast, 70.4 per cent favor the standard turn according to Clark. He added that of 283 visiting motorists polled 74.9 per cent favor the standard turn.

Fugitive 28 Years, Convict Is Nabbed

Jaco May Face Trial for Killing of Guard in Prison Break.

Topeka, Kans., July 31 (A.P.).—After 28 years' freedom following his escape along with a score of other convicts from the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Neal Jaco may go to trial for the slaying of a guard killed in attempting to frustrate the wholesale prison delivery.

At the request of Warden T. B. White, Marlin S. Casey, assistant United States district attorney, today began an investigation to determine if there are witnesses alive and sufficient evidence to make a case against Jaco.

Located at Fort Worth, Tex., Jaco was returned to the Federal penitentiary. All the other convicts who participated in the sensational delivery are believed to have been recaptured.

Petition Charges Husband's Abuse

Mother With Six Children Asks Court for Limited Divorce.

Declaring she can no longer stand her husband's conduct and treatment of her, Mrs. Mary Barrett, of Camp Good Will, mother of six children, petitioned the District Supreme Court yesterday to grant her a limited divorce from Dangerfield Barrett, of 462 N street southeast.

The woman, in her petition, filed through Attorney John J. O'Brien, tells the court that her husband has faced trial in Police Court on three different occasions on charges of assaulting her and that on May 18 last he was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail. She declares that he was released about three weks ago and that since that time has contributed only $20 to the support of herself and their six minor children, who range from 16 to 1½ years.

She declares that almost during the whole of their 20 years of married life her husband has mistreated her and accused her of improper relations with other men. She seeks custody of the children and asks for adequate alimony for herself and children, asserting that she has not income except assistance which she receives from the Catholic Charities.

Dentist Vanishes Fishing; Police Alarm Sent Out

Police have been asked to aid in the search for Dr. Albert V. McGlone, 40 years old, dental surgeon, of the LeDroit building, Eighth and F streets northwest, following his failure to return from a fishing trip to the Tidal Basin Tuesday.

Formerly a resident of Washington, when he lived in the 3900 block Georgia avenue northwest, Dr. McGlone has been in New York City for the last three years following separation from his wife. He returned to the Capital about a month ago and obtained employment with Hugh D. McDonald, who operates a dental laboratory in the LeDroit building.

Dr. McGlone left his room about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon according to McDonald, and was due to return before midnight. He was often subject to fits of melancholy, his employer said.

When last seen the dentist was dressed in a blue serge suit, with a tan hat, tan shoes, and tan socks. He was carrying a Hamilton watch but had no money.

Dr. McGlone is a native of Natick, Mass., a suburb of Boston.

Italian Farmer's Wife Mother of Quadruplets

Ballante, Italy, July 31 (A.P.).—As a mother of quadruplets, Signora Giuseppa Lucci, wife of a peasant farmer, is the record-holder thus far in Premier Mussolini's 1929 campaign for more and better babies.

Signora Lucci yesterday gave birth to two husky boys and two fine girls. She already had six boys in her family, and her joyful expression today entirely belied her maiden name of Moroal, which means "morose."

Tonsils Removed For Entire Family

Mother and Six Children Act on Dying Request of Father.

New York, July 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Acting on the dying request of Arthur Cromwell, his widow and six children rattled into New York today in an antiquated touring car and had their tonsils removed at Flower Hospital. Coming to the city for the first time, the seven drove 65 miles from Big Cedar Swamp, 7 miles southwest of Goshen, N. Y., to make themselves less susceptible to sore throats, from which they all suffer. It was from a quincy sore throat that led to toxemia that the father died last week.

Dr. John W. Draper, of the Flower Hospital staff has a summer place at Goshen, near the squatter's farm on an island in the swamp where the Cromwells live. Today, when all the seven developed sore throats, he telephoned the hospital and arranged for the operations.

Because the income of the family was only $20 a month paid by Dr. Draper to Cromwell for caring for his lawns, the operations were free.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and in children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

PACKARD STANDARD EIGHT PRICES REDUCED

$290

THE Packard Motor Car Company has just advised us by telegram that effective August 1, prices of all models of the Standard Eight have been reduced $290. The new prices are as follows:

126' Wheelbase Models

5-Passenger Sedan	$1985
2-Passenger Coupe	2060
2-Passenger Convertible Coupe	2135

133' Wheelbase Models

4-Passenger Coupe	$2285
5-Passenger Club Sedan	2285
7-Passenger Sedan	2285
7-Passenger Sedan Limousine	2385
7-Passenger Touring	2185
2-Passenger Runabout	2085
5-Passenger Phaeton	2085

(Prices f. o. b. Detroit)

These reductions have been made because the factory expects to announce in the Fall new cars which though the same in size and of characteristic Packard appearance, will have enough changes to classify them as new models.

Many of these improvements and refinements have been in production for some time on current models. This, together with the fact that the new cars will be priced higher than the present cars were before the reduction, gives today's purchasers a very great price advantage. And also, immediate use of the largest selling and most popular car in the fine car field.

Two-thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight give up other makes of cars. Thousands prefer to buy out of income. Your used car will be accepted as cash and if of average value will more than make the down payment on a new car.

MR. HOOVER'S LETTER.

President Hoover's letter to Col. Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, on the subject of parity, encourages frank discussion of the naval limitation problem. But it contains statements which Mr. Hoover never would have made if he had been given all the facts on the parity question before dispatching the letter.

The following paragraph, taken in conjunction with information previously given out by Secretary Stimson, clearly shows a defective source of information:

> The first step of the renewed consideration of reduction of the excessive world naval armament has been acceptance of that principle (of parity) as a preliminary to discussion between Great Britain and the United States.
> This is a forward step of first importance.

Mr. Stimson used this latter sentence the day after Premier MacDonald's announcement of willingness to accept parity, except that the Secretary of State added the word "tremendous," making it read "tremendous step forward." The British government, he said, had conceded parity on capital ships at the Washington conference but had never conceded parity on any other type and the announcement, therefore, that MacDonald did not oppose parity was a new and forward move of tremendous significance.

When asked if the British had objected to the principle of parity at the Geneva conference of 1927, Mr. Stimson said he had been informed that the British had never conceded the principle of parity at Geneva.

Whether Ambassador Gibson informed Mr. Stimson to this effect or whether Mr. Gibson was understood to have told some one else who informed Mr. Stimson directly or indirectly that the British never went on record at Geneva on the parity question is not altogether clear. But it was hearsay evidence at best, and it is obvious that this is the evidence communicated to President Hoover and made the basis for the President's statement in his letter to Col. McNutt.

No one will deny that if the British had always gone on record as opposing parity or had remained noncommital on that score, the statement in the House of Commons by Premier MacDonald would have been a forward step of first importance, as stated in Mr. Hoover's letter.

But the official record of the Geneva conference of 1927 wipes out the value of the hearsay evidence and if Mr. Stimson had examined the record he would at once have seen his mistake. The official record of the Geneva conference for the limitation of the naval armament has been printed as Senate Document No. 55, Seventieth Congress, first session. Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee, presented the record to the Senate on January 17, 1928, and it was ordered printed.

To count the times the British officially concede parity with the United States may be unnecessary in view of specific instances which may be cited. If Secretary Stimson had turned to page 40 of this document he would have found the text of the speech which the Right Honorable W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, made at the second plenary session held on July 14, 1927.

Following are some of the extracts of the first lord's speech:

> In our original proposal we offered to agree to a ratio similar to the Washington ratio for capital ships being applied to cruisers carrying 8-inch guns, and we are prepared to refrain from laying down any new cruisers of this size until that ratio is reached, and to stop building any more of these large cruisers after that stage has been reached.
> In smaller cruisers we have not disputed the claim of the United States of America to an equal number to ours or of Japan to such a number as are necessary for her defense; but we desire to limit their size and their armament of 6-inch guns, so that they may be defensive and not offensive weapons.

A little later, the head of the British delegation says, in discussing the relative value of large and small cruisers:

> The proposal therefore puts us in the position of accepting not parity but definite inferiority in offensive power, unless we abandon the number of cruisers we regard as essential for the protection of our imperial communications.

A few lines later, the first lord continues:

> It is not parity with America that is troubling us. We have not raised any objection to that.

As a matter of fact, the principle of parity, as stated by MacDonald, was conceded from the very start of the Geneva conference, even in the opening statements, and remained a concession in principle from beginning to end. It was only when the principle of parity began to be applied that differences arose. The MacDonald statement is therefore merely a repetition of the Bridgeman statements at Geneva and the forward step reverts back to June 20, 1927, the date when the Geneva conference convened.

Even MacDonald's welcome statement about war being unthinkable between Great Britain and the United States had its counterpart in a statement made by Ambassador Gibson at the final session of the Geneva conference. He said:

> The American delegation was greatly impressed by a statement recently made by the British foreign secretary to the effect that war between the British Empire and the United States was already outlawed in the hearts of both nations.

Premier MacDonald's statement puts the situation precisely where it was at the time of the Geneva conference in 1927. The statement may be welcomed as removing misgivings since that time and thus being a fortunate step backward to the Bridgeman admissions of parity and good will. But the reference to parity can hardly be described as anything new.

COST OF SUGAR PROTECTION.

Speculation as to what the proposed tariff on sugar will cost the consumer has been one of the most interesting pastimes of mathematicians and economists since the House bill was written. Three professors at the University of Wisconsin came to the conclusion that under a duty of 2.40 cents per pound the sugar bill of the country would amount to $384,000,000 more each year than if Cuban sugar were admitted free. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democratic member of the Senate finance committee, has a slightly different estimate. The Republicans, he says, intend to write a tariff bill that will impose a tax of $300,000,000 per year upon American consumers of sugar. If the House rate is accepted he estimates that the country will pay $80,000,000 more than under the present tariff of 1.76 cents.

It is generally assumed that this figure is the price the public must pay for maintenance of the domestic sugar industry. There are many who argue that the domestic industry is not worth it. The Baltimore Sun, for example, asks why would it not be a good public investment for the Government to buy the domestic sugar industry outright and close up shop, instead of having consumers pay enough in sugar taxes to buy the industry outright every two years or so.

Based on the present rate of importation it is estimated that the proposed tariff will net the Government $160,000,000. This goes into the Federal Treasury the same as taxes paid by the people and can not by any stretch of the imagination be included in the cost of maintaining the domestic industry. Beet and cane sugar producers in the United States supplied less than one-fifth of the sugar consumed in 1928. Unless domestic production were substantially increased, which is improbable, less than one-fifth of the so-called sugar-tariff tax would go to American producers. Nearly half of this theoretical sum would go to the Treasury and the remainder would be a bonus to interests, mostly foreign, which are producing sugar in the Philippines and American insular possessions and sending it duty free to this market.

The United States is not opposed to taxing the consumer for protection of domestic industry. The whole tariff system is built upon that principle. As a result of the sugar shortage during the World War every major power, except the United States, has increased its domestic sugar production. This country can not afford to sacrifice its home industry for the sake of a temporary supply at lower prices.

The cost of maintaining the domestic industry would not be burdensome were it not for the fact that under the present system protection is also extended to foreign producers in the Philippines. The Cuban sugar industry is essential to the United States, both from an economic and a military standpoint. But under the House schedule Congress would penalize Cuba and pay a bonus to the Philippines as a gesture toward protection of American producers. A large portion of the "tax" actually paid by the consumer will go into the pockets of the rapidly growing Filipino sugar concerns, unless Congress puts a limitation on imports. It is unfair to charge the full cost of the sugar tariff to the American industry.

EVERYTHING'S PROVED.

Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, by succeeding in sustaining aloft their monoplane, St. Louis Robin, over a period in excess of 420 hours, become proud possessors of the refueling endurance flight record. They proved that it is theoretically possible to fly a plane nonstop around the world. They proved that a well-designed plane and engine, to all practical intents and purposes, can not be worn out, and that pilots can remain aloft for days and weeks without breaking down physically or nervously. As a matter of fact they proved, in conclusive fashion, everything that can be proved by refueling endurance flights. It is to be hoped that the Jackson-O'Brine achievement will mark the end of such contests.

It'll only be a matter of time until refueling flight contestants will have to make a seasonal change of clothes a part of their preparation.

ECKENER OF THE ZEPPELINS

By WYTHE WILLIAMS,
In the New York Times.

In appearance Hugo Eckener suggests the typical German stage comedian, with a touch of Mephistopheles. He is a kind of enlarged version of Weber of the famous team of Weber and Fields. I found at Friedrichshafen one who had known him in youthful days, when both were journalists and when Eckener was devoting his life to attacking Count von Zeppelin and everything that had to do with dirigible airships. I asked him to tell me of the man who undoubtedly is entitled to the present Pan-German chorus of praise as one of the first airmen of the world.

"There is nothing funny about Eckener—nothing at all," he said. "Eckener is affable enough—as I discovered when I met him, and perhaps he may have a sense of humor, carefully concealed, but to the world at large his words are few and his smile is bleak. Outside his home his single purpose is the development of Zeppelins into standard passenger and freight carriers for long distances."

Hugo Eckener will be 61 years old on August 10. He is a Frieslander by birth, the son of the keeper of a tobacco shop in Flensburg. In early life Eckener apparently made no particular impression upon anybody. Nothing is recorded to show that he exhibited the slightest interest in air currents or air travels, which was by then exciting inventors and scientists everywhere. At school he specialized and took his doctor's degree in physics, philosophy and political economy. He married the daughter of the proprietor of a newspaper in Schleswig-Holstein, and so became a small town journalist until some years after he got a place on the editorial staff of the important Frankfurter Zeitung.

He there launched the newspaper campaign against Zeppelin which was to alter his own course in life. The attacks were so violent that Count Zeppelin decided the best way to stop them was to become acquainted with Eckener and try to lure him into his own camp. This was accomplished with such success that the editor soon became as ardent for Zeppelin as he previously had been against him.

To this day Eckener holds no regular pilot's graduation certificate, inasmuch as it was himself who at the outbreak of the war organized the first real school for dirigible pilots at Friedrichshafen. Among his pupils were Capts. Lehmann and Flemming, now his first and second officers on the Graf Zeppelin, and who were then sent out on the great battle cruisers of the air that were being constructed on the orders of the imperial government. The kaiser had by then inspected Zeppelins and approved them.

Eckener possesses something—an intangible something, known as "air sense"—evidently in a greater degree than any of them. He seems to know from instinct all about air currents and the laws of balance and can actually "smell" bad weather in the offing. Flemming says Eckener's knowledge seems to him sometimes uncanny, but he points with pride to the results—the many successful voyages and landings without accidents even when the voyage turned out as did the attempt to fly the Atlantic when the motors failed and forced the commander to bring down the ship in France.

While Eckener maintains confidence in the present Zeppelin—certain definite changes have been made since the first Atlantic crossing—he hopes to build another and even greater ship, now that the necessary millions are not so difficult to find. But more even than in building Zeppelins is this somewhat stolid, grim pilot of 60 years interested in finding the proper means of making all dirigibles safe. The only means, he says, is to find hellum gas. And inasmuch as the United States has all the visible supply of that expensive commodity, he considers that the duty of the scientists of Germany is to find an "ersatz," or substitute, that will prove nonexplosive and serve the same purpose. With such a gas Eckener asserts he will fly his Zeppelins to all corners of the earth.

Now Germany believes him, and German science is working overtime with its experiments. For, after all, it is argued, Germany produced ersatz clothing during the war and discovered ersatz food. That the improbable sometimes comes to pass is the thought again in the German mind in its study of Zeppelins.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FIXED.

It is easy to say that it isn't so.
You can brush it aside with sneers.
But life isn't altered by "yes" or "no"
Or changed by our smiles or tears.
For the stars will stay and the sun will rise
Despite all the words of the critic wise.

And whether we think it or whether we don't.
The law of the Lord will rule.
We shall answer His call though we will or won't.
The fire in our veins shall cool.
And we shall pass out of this life and go,
Just as we came to the earth below.
The trees will flourish, the sun will shine,
The rivers their courses will run.
Youth will march out to life's battle line
When we with the fight are done.
And they in their time will make for their own
Discoveries of truth which we've never known.

We haven't seen all that shall be on earth,
In spite of our "yes" or "no."
Marvels of splendor shall come to birth
As onward the race shall go.
And somewhere and somehow it seems that we Must continue to follow our destiny.

The True Measure of Your Belief in Liberty Is the Liberty You Give.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE measure of a man's tolerance is the measure of his intelligence. That is a truism.

If you would discover how tolerant you are, first ask yourself this question: Do I believe in man's right to be free, or do I believe he should have a master.

If you believe in man's right to be free, you believe you have an inherent, inalienable right to do as you please.

But one man's rights end where another's begin. That, also, is a truism.

Conceding that to be true, you believe in your right to do as you please so long as you harm nobody else.

Yet there is a further restriction. You have no right to do wrong, for the moment you do wrong you harm somebody else or in some manner infringe on his rights.

Concede that, also. But if you can not do wrong, at least you have the right to be wrong.

Though all the world except yourself may stand as a unit in support of some belief, cause or faith, yours is the inalienable right to think for yourself and believe the thing you wish to believe.

If you are wrong, time will prove you wrong and perhaps set you right. But in the meantime you are exercising your rightful privilege as a free-born man, and those who molest or defame you or in any way endeavor to punish you for exercising that privilege are enemies of human liberty.

That is true, isn't it?

If you concede that it is true, you do indeed believe in man's right to be free and may take your stand with those champions of human liberty who have fought the good fight against tyranny throughout the ages.

Now comes the test of your tolerance, of your intelligence, and of your justice as well.

Do you believe in the other man's right to be wrong?

If he holds a belief or preaches a faith or advocates a cause that to you seems wrong and ridiculous, do you join the enraged cattle who jeer and threaten him, or do you, while abominating and vigorously opposing his doctrine, uphold his inalienable right to believe and preach it?

There is the test.

If you would throttle him because you think him wrong, you do not believe in liberty. You merely believe in liberty for yourself. You are a tyrant at heart, and only want of power keeps you from being a tyrant in fact.

Belief in free speech is not demonstrated by speaking, but by listening. Tolerance, like charitableness, is proved by giving, not by taking.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

EXTRA! NOVEL HOP PLANNED!

Elmer Twitchell and his friend Amos Q. Pipp announce to the world that they are about to go in for a long-distance hop. "We would feel ashamed if we delayed any longer," said Mr. Twitchell today. "We are about the only two men left in this country who haven't done it."

* * * *

Details of the flight are somewhat gummed up, due to a difference of opinion between Twitchell and Pipp as to what form the trip should take. Elmer favors a nonstop hop from Ypsilanti, Mich., to Biba el Kubra, Egypt.

"Why do you pick these two spots?" he was asekd.

"Because they are two towns nobody has flown from or to so far," he explained.

* * * *

Amos rather favors combining an hours-in-the-air contest with a long-distance hop, retaining the best features of each. He wants to hop off for Egypt and when he gets there his idea is to stay a week or ten days in the air before lighting and see how the populace takes it. "If they don't seem excited enough and we don't get any offers to indorse cigarettes or go on a vaudeville tour we won't come down at all," he explains.

* * * *

"We want to make this flight original," explained Mr. Twitchell. "A mere flight from Maine to Europe is no novelty any more. You can get more attention going over Niagara Falls in a barrel or by flagpole sitting. It is nothing unusual for a man to make a transatlantic flight, he is an extraordinary man if he hasn't.

* * * *

"Now we want this flight to knock the public off its feet. It's gotta have hot features. First of all we will not sign up with the New York Times to write the exclusive story of our trip. That makes the flight novel to begin with.

* * * *

"Secondly, I intend to fly backward, that is, with my back to the steering wheel and facing Pipp, who will direct my course. This will be a little tough on me on account of Pipp having halitosis. Come to think of it, if we are successful it will be the first case of halitosis to make a trip of that distance at such speed.

* * * *

"This will win Pipp fame as the transcontinental halitosis flyer.

* * * *

"Thirdly, I will make the entire flight blindfolded and try to pick out the cities we are flying over without peeking or asking questions. I understand that in the case of some of those Spanish and Italian cities this is very easy.

* * * *

"Fourthly, we will make the flight in different clothes from any worn by previous transcontinental hoppers. We will wear straw hats, white flannel trousers and racoon coats. Nobody has ever flown the Atlantic in a straw hat so far.

* * * *

"There is only one thing holding up the start," said Mr. Twitchell.

"What is that?" he was asked.

"Collision insurance," he concluded.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

What Agency or Influence Held in Check the "Inevitable War" Between Russia and China?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the interest of fairplay and justice to existing facts, The Post and other papers which seem to fear that the League of Nations may score a victory, should be ready to admit that some influence has held in check the "inevitable war" between Russia and China. I can understand sectarian bitterness, and know what to expect when it is abroad, but I have never been able to fathom a reason why great metropolitan dailies, interested only in reflecting the drift of national and international life, have any concern with suppressing or exaggerating the facts of current history, to produce a false impression.

I am sure that nothing is farther from the truth than that the League of Nations as a body is jealous of any organization or power which tends to prevent war. I have frequently visited Geneva with sole intent to come in close contact with the League of Nations officials. When a few years ago, the matter of an international dispute was uppermost, in which the question arose whether the "Ambassadors" or the league had prevented imminent trouble, one of the league's most prominent officials said: "The League of Nations is not here to call attention to itself, or to assume to be the only agency to help settle international difficulties amicably. We aid, or work alone, or do anything and everything in our power—with the one aim in mind, to prevent war."

If any think that the Kellogg pact is a brand of antiwar specific more to their liking because more "American;" or that the world court is according to their tastes—let not the League of Nations be spit upon by these partisans of their favorite specifics. The League of Nations is a magnificent first gesture, in the direction of world peace. Its spirit has been followed by later attempts to effect the same thing. The league welcomes them all. And the world faces a truth which even prejudiced newspapers must soon see, that international sentiment is against war. "Man is a fighting animal," we were accustomed to hear; so is a dog. But even domesticated dogs no longer fight. The League of Nations spirit is in the world to stay. Each year it grows stronger. The world is safer for the league's existence at Geneva. If war has been prevented in the last month by the league and other agencies working in the same line with it, let the truth be proclaimed as widely as the jeer goes forth when these forces for peace struggle for success, and defeat seems to face their efforts.

Bobby Jones for Congress? Yes!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Bobby Jones, for Congress! I heartily approve the suggestion. The young man unquestionably has great ability else he would not have been so successful at golf, and I understand that he also is a highly competent lawyer. Congress needs young blood and Bobby Jones is representative of the best in the younger generation.

But I have a better reason for supporting his candidacy. Congress is filled with would-be golfers and if an expert of Bobby Jones' caliber were to join that august body all the would-be golfers would insist that he give them pointers. That would take most of the congressmen from the Halls of Congress, where, otherwise, they would be passing fool bills to plague the public, and put them on the golf courses of Washington where they could do no harm except to the fairways and greens. The golf clubs might not like that, but perhaps the Treasury could be persuaded to recompense them in return for keeping congressmen out of mischief.

Furthermore, it is highly appropriate that the most exclusive club in the world should have at least one expert playing member.

JOBBY B[illegible]

Bobby Jones for Cong[illegible]

To the Editor of the P[illegible] suggestion that Bobby [illegible] tional open and amateur [illegible] pion, become a candidate [illegible] gress will not likely meet [illegible] approval of the people. Bob[illegible] is a much admired man in t[illegible] ridden land, but he is adm[illegible] the fairway and the putting [illegible] not in the stuffy halls of Con[illegible] His candidacy is being pushed on [illegible] ground that he is a lawyer of abi[illegible] and an international figure in t[illegible] sports world. Neither qualifies hi[illegible] for a seat in Congress.

I am surprised that Bobby has not put a stop to such nonsense. His record will be far more impressive if he sticks with his game instead of getting mixed up in politics. As a sportsman he is a credit to his State, Georgia, and to the country. As a statesman he would unquestionably be out of his atmosphere. Some countries have legislative chambers to which the celebrities of the realm are chosen as a mark of distinction. But there is none such in the United States. The qualification demanded of a congressman is experience in politics and government, and if a man has had neither he can accomplish little in the legislative halls at Washington. And if the time comes when Congress begins to draw on the celebrities of the sports world, it seems that football players would be much more in demand than golfers.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Miss Lodge's Betrothal to Be Announced

Will Wed Mr. Edouard de Strael, of Belgian Embassy.

By JEAN ELIOT.

FORMAL announcement of the engagement of Miss Helena Lodge, daughter of Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, to Mr. Edouard de Streel, first secretary of the Belgian Embassy, is momentarily expected. The Lodge family is out of town, so "official" verification of the news could not be obtained here yesterday, but Miss Lodge has written from Bar Harbor to friends in the Capital telling of her approaching marriage, with instructions "not to mention it until August 1.

A granddaughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Miss Lodge is of the Brahmin stock of Boston, where "the Lodges speak only to Cabots and the Cabots only to God." But on both sides her family has been affiliated with Washington for several generations. Her mother, the former Miss Elizabeth Davis, is a daughter of Mrs. Charles McCawley, and it was Mrs. McCawley who presented Miss Lodge to society in Washington.

Her brother, Mr. John Davis Lodge, was recently married to Miss Francesca Braggiotti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Braggiotti, of Boston, and the young couple are now honeymooning in Europe. Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge 2d, who married Miss Emily Sears, of Boston, is also a brother of Miss Lodge. He lives in Washington, where Mrs. George Cabot Lodge has a winter home, but has been on a year's trip around the world from which he returned just in time to be best man at his brother's wedding. He has chosen journalism as a profession, while Mr. John Davis Lodge has chosen the law and will practice in New York on his return from his honeymoon.

Miss Lodge is a charming and cultivated girl, a radiant blonde. Presumably she is now with Gen. and Mrs. McCawley, who have a cottage at Bar Harbor for the summer.

Mr. de Streel has been in Washington for nearly two years, having come to the United States from Brazil. Previously he was at the Belgian Foreign Office. He is regarded as an astute diplomat, but seems to be rather less known than many of the bachelor foreign attaches.

Miss Lodge's letters did not say where her wedding would be, but probably, since it is set for the middle of September, it will not take place in Washington.

Another important wedding which will be solemnized out of town is the marriage of Miss Mary Hale, daughter of Mrs. Chandler Hale to Mr. George Howland Chase 3d. Although the date is only tentatively chosen for "the end of September or early in October," the place has been chosen—Poplar Hill, the colonial estate near Upper Marlboro, Md., which Mrs. Hale has recently purchased.

This was the old Daingerfield place, known originally as His Lordship's Kindness, and it will prove a perfect setting for a country wedding. Mrs. Hale and her daughter are spending the summer at Poplar Hill.

Ambassador of Chile Leaves for California.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Carlos Davila, has started for California—the first Chilean envoy to visit the West Coast while in office—and will meet the Chilean naval training ship, General Baquedano, on its arrival in port. He will visit San Francisco and Los Angeles, being absent about three weeks. The ambassador is accompanied by the military attache of the embassy, Maj. Zorobabel Galeno, and the naval attache, Commander Juan Polich. Recently Ambassador Davila has been visiting in Atlantic City.

When the General Baquedano visited several Atlantic Coast cities a year or more ago, the officers and the midshipmen aboard her came to Washington and were entertained at a ball at the Pan-American Union by Ambassador Davila.

The Minister of Egypt, Mahmoud Samy Pasha, landed yesterday in New York from England, accompanied by Mme. Samy's brother, Mohammed Charoui Pasha. Mme. Samy met them in New York and they will come immediately to Washington. The minister was in England for the period of the visit in London of King Fuad of Egypt.

The Minister of the Dominican Republic, Senor Dr. Angel Morales, was among those lunching at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. Others were the Solicitor General, Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, jr.; Senora de Diez de Medina, wife of the Minister of Bolivia; Senora de la Barra, wife of the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation; Mrs. Harold Smoot, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, just back from Atlantic City; Miss Adelaide Bride and Miss Jeannette Hume.

The Charge d'Affaires of Roumania, Mr. Frederick Nano, returned to the city yesterday from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. John Amherst Francis Cecil at Biltmore, N. C., and is now at the legation.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the guest of honor at a dinner given last evening at the Mayflower by Mrs. John A. Horton, of Buffalo, N. Y. Others in her party included Mrs. Rhett Goode and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Steele.

Mrs. Horton, who has been a guest at the Mayflower since the early spring, will return soon to her home in Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Phillips and the latter's sister, Mrs. Orlando G. Potter, of Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y., are at the Mayflower for a few days before going to Ebensburg, Pa., for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcom S. McConihe will leave Washington on August 8 by motor for Hot Springs, Va., to remain several weeks. Mrs. John R. Williams, who goes annually to Hot Springs for the cure, will make the trip with them.

The Countess de Chambrum the sister of the Speaker of the House, Mr. Nicholas Longworth, and her son, Count Rene Aldebert, have returned from Paris on the steamship Paris and have taken a suite at the Vanderbilt Hotel, New York City, for a fortnight, after which they will go to Cincinnati.

Baron Paul Schell, attache of the Hungarian Legation, is at the Ambassador, New York City, from Newport. Baron Van Boetzelaer Van Oosterhout, secretary of the Netherlands Legation, returned to Washington last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, jr., have come from their summer home at Butler, Pa., for a few days in Washington and are staying at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Helen Cook Barbour is visiting Mrs. Arthur Lee at Gracelands, her country home at Elkins, W. Va., and will remain for several weeks. Later she will go to Narragansett Pier, R. I., to stay with Mrs. Kenneth Murchison.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. S. Devereux are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on July 26. The baby will be called Agnes Kemp Devereux for her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Kemp, of Baltimore. Mrs. Devereux was formerly Miss Helen Kemp.

Mr. and Mrs. Devereux, who have been living in Baltimore since their marriage, have recently moved to Washington and are established at 1 Bradley Lane next door to Portledge, the picturesque home of Mr. Devereux's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Ryan Devereux.

Mrs. Leonard Nicholson, Jr., Leaves for Washington.

Mrs. Leonard L. Nicholson, jr., and her son, Leonard Lispenard Nicholson, third, who have been spending the month of July with Mrs. Nicholson's sister, Mrs. Harris M. Crist, at Vineyard Haven, Mass., will leave for home on Saturday, making the trip by motor. On their way back they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fitch Shepard and Miss Alice Shepard, at Jamestown, R. I., for a few days. They will also visit Mrs. William Darbee in Litchfield, Conn., arriving at Lenwill, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson on the Rockville road, the latter part of next week.

Mr. Alexander P. Moore, U. S. Ambassador to Peru, who is on a two-month vacation in the United States, returned to Washington yesterday and is staying at the Willard.

The Director of the Mint, Mr. Robert J. Grant, will leave on Sunday for the West. He will visit the mint in Denver and in San Francisco and will travel up the coast to Seattle. Mr. Grant will return to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel in a few weeks.

Mrs. John A. Hull, wife of Gen. Hull, of Washington, is the guest at Saratoga of Mrs. George Mesta, who also has with her her sister, Mrs. Robert J. Adams, of New York. Mrs. Mesta and her guests were among those entertained at luncheon Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson. Mrs. W. Harry Brown and Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, of Washington, were also in Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's party.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson has gone to Saratoga Springs, where he will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Barklie in the cottage which they have leased from Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Butler for the racing season. Admiral Grayson has taken a box for the races—and will probably remain at Saratoga during the entire season.

Mrs. Grayson and the children are passing the summer in Europe.

Capt. Vladimir Svashnikoff has returned to Washington after a month's absence and is at the Racquet Club. As reserve officer, he spent a fortnight on active service at Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., and has since been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Beattie at their summer home near Providence, R. I. Mrs. Dowell was formerly Miss Emily Dowell, of Washington.

'Chaco' Group Are Guests at Birthday Tea

Distinguished Company at Party of Bolivian Delegate.

Senor Dr. David Alvestegui, Bolivian delegate to the "Chaco conference"—the Conference on Conciliation and Arbitration of Paraguay and Bolivia, to be strictly correct—and Senora de Alvestegui entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in their apartment at the Mayflower in celebration of Senora de Alvestegui's birthday.

They had a distinguished little company of guests, among them several of Dr. Alvestegui's fellow commissioners. The company included Senora de Diez de Medina, wife of the Minister of Bolivia, and Senorita Maria Hortensia Diez de Medina; Brig. Gen. Frank McCoy, chairman of the commission, and Mrs. McCoy; the Cuban delegate, Senor Dr. Marques Sterling, and Senora de Sterling; the Mexican delegate, Senor Dr. Gonzales Roa, and his sister, Senorita Julia Gonzales Roa; the Colombian delegate, Senor Raimundo Rivas, Senora de Rivas and her sister, Senorita Lola Posada; Dr. Enrique Velasco Gavarro, counsel of the Bolivian delegation, Senora de Velasco Gavarro and their daughter, Senorita Pepita Velasco Gavarro; the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation and Senora de la Barra; the new military attache, Capt. Oscar Moscoso; Mrs. Charles Gumucio and Mr. and Mrs. Santiago Aramayo—Bolivians who are residents of Washington.

Mrs. Gumucio, whose home is in New York, is visiting Dr. and Senora de Alvestegui at the Mayflower, where they have been staying since coming to Washington.

Gen. and Mrs. William Mitchell, who are cruising off the coast of Maine on their yacht, Canvas Back, have been spending several days at Bar Harbor. They entertained at luncheon aboard the yacht one day recently, having as guests Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell Sweeney, Washingtonians who have summer homes at Bar Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pole, wife of the Comptroller of the Currency, had guests lunching with her yesterday on the Willard Roof. Dr. Carl von Lewinski, German consul general in New York, who is in town for a few days, also had a small luncheon party on the Willard Roof. Others entertaining were Mrs. C. P. Clark and Mr. Joseph Henry.

The United States Consul to the Fiji Islands, Mr. Quincy F. Roberts, and his wife, Dr. Roberts, who have been in the United States since the early part of July, are passing a few days in Washington at the Mayflower. They have been visiting Dr. Roberts' former home in Buffalo and will go to Chattanooga, Tenn., and to Dallas, Tex., for the month of August. Dr. Roberts, the former Regina Flood Keyes, has devoted the past ten years to voluntary medical work and child welfare in the Fiji Islands. Until two years ago Mr. Roberts was on duty at the United States consular office in Apia, Samoa, after which he was transferred to Suva, capital of the Fiji Islands. Dr. Roberts was in charge of the American Red Cross Hospital in Monastir, Serbia, during the World War.

Miss Anne Devereux, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Ryan Devereux, will leave August 29 for Cape May, N. J., where she will be the guest of Miss Dorothy Donoghue, of Philadelphia, for a short while.

Mrs. Robert L. Owen Returns From Trip.

Mrs. Robert L. Owen, wife of former Senator Owen, has returned to her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after a short visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Burgoyne Hamilton at their summer home at Westport, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance McCormick, who are spending the summer at Westward Bay, Northeast Harbor, Me., entertained at dinner last evening for Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale University, and Mrs. Angell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Selfridge, who arrived a few days ago in this country from England, are passing some time at the Wardman Park Hotel. Mr. Selfridge has been attached to the United States Embassy in London in the office of foreign commerce and is now on his vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Selfridge will later go to California, where they will visit their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grant Mason, jr., who have been at the Biltmore Hotel in New York, have gone to Tuxedo Park for a short visit before returning to their home in Havana. Before her marriage Mrs. Mason was Miss Jane Kendall, of Washington.

Vice President Returns From New England

Says Gann-Longworth Dispute Settled But Doesn't Tell How.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, has returned to his apartment in the Mayflower after a short visit with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Knight 2d in Providence, R. I. He spent a day in Philadelphia on his way home as the guest of British war veterans and was quoted in an interview there as saying that the dispute between his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the Speaker, has been "settled to everybody's satisfaction," but he did not define the details of the settlement, referring questioners to Mrs. Gann's article in the current Ladies Home Journal.

Mrs. Gann will leave town Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Knight in Providence and Mrs. Charles P. George, another daughter of Vice President Curtis, in Siasconsett, Nantucket Island, Mass. Mr. Gann will join her in New England later.

Representative and Mrs. Parker Corning are among the Washingtonians, who are in Saratoga Springs for the racing season. They are staying at the United States Hotel.

Capt. and Mrs. W. K. Gray, of Lake Charles, La., are making an extended visit in Washington and are staying at the Mayflower. They will go to New York from here and in about a month's time will return to the South, making the trip there by steamer directly to Galveston, Tex.

Miss Valentine Gorshgorin, of Harbin, Manchuria, is in Washington for several days after a month in Boston

42 NATIONS GATHER AT SCOUT JAMBOREE

Parade Opens Program as Clouds Lift After Big Downpour.

50,000 YOUTHS PRESENT

Arrowe Park, England, July 31 (A.P.).—Boys of all nations marched past an audience of moist-eyed older people here today, demonstrating the essential friendliness and brotherhood of man and, incidentally, opening the big world jamboree of the Boy Scouts.

The demonstration came in the midst of a magic interlude of sunshine and blue sky which followed a downpour that threatened to spoil the event.

Scouts of 42 nations marched to form a great semicircle 50,000 strong, an unquenchable host of crusaders for universal youth and peace.

Under their gay banners, and showing a constant inclination to burst into song, the 50,000 looked like the youth of all the world come up to do battle against pessimism and doubt.

Something of this must have been in the mind of the Duke of Connaught when, in declaring the jamboree opened, he said that though war veterans were numerous among officials of the Scout movement, their purpose was to train the boys in the practice of peace and good will.

"Men who saw service in the World War," he said, "know better than those who have not seen any fighting the true horrors of war."

Sir Robert Baden-Powell, father of the Scout movement, magnanimously took upon himself all blame for the weather.

"Any one can be a good Scout in fair weather," he said. "I turned on the rain to try you out."

After a march of the colors there were exhibitions by various national groups. Massed highland flings by 1,400 kilted Scotch Scouts created a big sensation among the American boys. The young Yanks were immediately obsessed with a desire to take home plaids and kilties as souvenirs, but they were too polite to offer to buy them from the young Scotsmen.

Dan Beard, veteran American Scout and author, got lost in the shuffle and found himself looking at the big rally as a part of the French contingent. Many of the lads from France recognized him and tried to open conversation.

"It was no use," said Beard afterwards. "None of them could talk Choctaw."

Peru, Chile and Japan. Ambassador Alexander P. Moore, of Peru, was in town yesterday. Former President Coolidge, when he was here the other day, went out of his way to say a good word for Mr. Moore in his work in the Tacna-Arica dispute.

It is not believed, however, that he is to return. He is present in the country on a leave of absence.

Many ministers are expected to be replaced and others shifted in Latin America. Ambassador William S. Culbertson, at Santiago, is expected to retire along with Mr. Moore.

Latin-American ministers expected to be replaced include Gerhard A. Beding, at Ecuador, Charles G. Eberhardt, at Nicaragua, U. S. Grant-Smith, at Uruguay, and Willis Cook, minister to Venezuela. Cook has, in fact, already resigned. Former Representative Lineberger, of California, who has spent several years in Latin America as an engineer, is expected to succeed him. Lineberger is a friend of Mr. Hoover.

It is believed that Minister MacMurray, in China, will be shifted to another post. He is a career man, so it is not expected that he will leave the service.

The President is proceeding slowly in building up his own diplomatic service. He made known at the outset of his administration that there would be no drastic changes.

Baxter Talks With Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Percival P. Baxter, former Governor of Maine, arrived in the Capital yesterday to confer with President Hoover over his possible selection for a post in the Diplomatic Corps.

Although it was learned his name is one of those before the President for filling the numerous vacancies in the corps, the place for which he is being considered was not revealed.

Mr. Baxter was an overnight guest at the White House.

laid on college and technical education and too many are turned out for the requirements of industry?"

"Industry is getting so complex that there is an immense shortage of the right kind of men to manage affairs. This is getting more serious every day as science discovers new phenomena."

"What is the next invention or discovery you foresee?"

"Utilization of natural products."

"Do you consider the will to work and facing of realities of life to be as important for the youth of America as a first-class education?"

"There are three things that insure success—Ambition, imagination and the will to work. Of these, the will to work accomplishes the most; education of the right kind gets quicker results."

"Do you consider the prevalent craze for the setting of records, endurance tests, &c., to be healthy for industry in general?"

"Yes."

"Given the same opportunity afforded the winner of this contest, do you believe your own success would have been greater earlier?"

"Yes."

"Will a similar contest be held next year or at regular intervals in the future?"

"Don't know yet."

Disagrees With Wickersham.

"Do you agree with the proposal of George Wickersham that the States should assume the burden of local prohibition enforcement?"

"No."

"Do you think that the scientific experimental field affords as great opportunities to women as to men and why were girls not included in the contest?"

"Nearly as great. The first experiment was with boys, as they act in wider fields."

Edison, who is offering the winner of the tests tuition for four years of technical training, had an organized entertainment for them that was only interrupted when the cloth on the press table caught fire from a reporter's cigarette. Mr. Edison does not indorse smoking.

As the employes of the laboratories climbed precariously on window ledges to see better a show which included Col. Lindbergh, his bride and Henry Ford, the 49 boys marched in rows to shake hands with the celebrities and be presented with 49 radio-phonographs.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IT comes back to me vaguely that in reviewing "The Black Watch," shown recently at the Fox, I expressed some surprise that Victor McLaglen, whose vigorous silent performances in "What Price Glory," "The River Pirate," "Strong Boy," "A Girl in Every Port," "Captain Lash" and other two-fisted parts were still vivid in memory, should have sounded so entirely the officer and the gentleman in his first talking role.

Victor McLaglen.

I should have waited until I had met him.

Yesterday during a chat that lasted the greater part of an hour in his suite at the Washington, I had ample opportunity to observe that Mr. McLaglen's natural manner is that of an educated and cultured Englishman. He was born, I believe, in London. That was some 40-odd years ago and during the ensuing years he has roamed the world and has crammed about as much romance and adventure into two-score years and four as they could conveniently hold.

It is to this that McLaglen's peculiar facility in adapting himself to the he-man requirements of the more red-blooded and energetic of his pictures may be attributed. There is probably no one before the camera who has a more comprehensive background of adventure in strange places than this man of iron who stands some 6 feet 3 inches from the rug on the floor of his parlor, bedroom and bath and doesn't look within ten years of his age.

Without asking point blank for an itemized list of his activities since early boyhood, I managed to piece together that he has been miner, soldier, boxer, wrestler, roustabout and soldier of fortune such as would have brought delight to the heart of a Richard Harding Davis, in addition to actor.

Anyone listening at the keyhole of 205-7 yesterday—and I would not guarantee that nobody was, since the presence of a film star travels fast and already had become pretty well known both ways from the second floor—would have heard an agreeable voice recall with something of the nicety of English diction incidents that would make a movie worth the shooting.

HE would have heard about the hectic days in Cobalt a quarter-century ago, when McLaglen was a husky lad of 18 taking a chance on finding some silver in the rough country of the North with men twice his age—and older. His first partners were an aged and long-whiskered Jewish peanut peddler who had hit it off with an Oxfordian. They already had some silver which Mr. McLaglen is not sure was not obtained otherwise than by honest mining.

It was about this time that a few of the sportier of the frontiersmen decided that this six-foot-plus bundle of bone, sinew and nerve ought to be a fair lad with his dukes. He was.

He was so good, in fact, that he accepted a carnival ballyhoo man's challenge to any one in the crowd to stay with the troupe's champion boxer three rounds for $25—or nothing but a smack on the nose if he failed. He won the $25 so easily that he was also given the champion's job. During the McLaglen regime with the show, the offer was changed to $25 to any one who could stay three rounds with the gloves or fifteen minutes on the mat.

One of his last challengers was the palooka from whom he had won the job, whom he again bested. So they formed a partnership. This, however, broke up in a friendly battle in Port Arthur, Canada, in which, through accident, his side-kick lost an eye. McLaglen was jailed and held in $500 bond—more money than there was in the world. That is to say, more money than there was until a chap who had shown a fancy for the tough young scrapper on several previous occasions put up the dough.

When McLaglen was making "What Price Glory" he was accosted one day by an extra who wore a glass eye and suggested that any breaks he might be given in the way of "bits" to play, would help. It was his former pal of the Port Arthur battle royal.

Somewhat earlier, when Victor was touring the Antipodes as quite a fellow with his mitts, he was hailed by a prosperous business man of Melbourne, Australia, whom he immediately recognized as the friend who had bailed him out years before. There had been a price of $5,000 on his head in the Northwest; he was a leading citizen with fine family and beautiful home now.

THE listener at the keyhole would have heard, too, the true inside story of the bout between McLaglen and "Li'l Artha," sometimes known as Jack Johnson, out in Vancouver in 1909, just after Johnson had taken the championship of the world away from Tommy Burns and a year before he defended it against Jim Jeffries, the well-known hollow shell.

The bout was a six-rounder that stands on the books as a victory for Johnson by decision. As a matter of fact, it was a no-decision bout—although McLaglen is so gracious as to say that if there had been a decision rendered Johnson would have received it. There may be some basis for reasonable doubt as to that. There were no knockdowns during the fight, and although McLaglen was only a kid in his early twenties and Johnson was ten years his senior and at the top of his form, it was conceded that the black giant knew he had been in a rumpus and not tossed in there with a setup.

Victor is not the only powerful one of the McLaglens, though, big as he is. He had a brother, killed in the war, who also had a reputation in the Northwest. This particular McLaglen had a habit of tearing up packs of playing cards, telephone directories and the like, the way you and I do a picture postcard. One of his tricks was bending a half-dollar double with his teeth.

One time a doubter asked if he could do it with a heavy finger ring made out of Cobalt silver. McLaglen thought he could. And did.

Not so long ago an old-timer in the last throes of an incurable heart ailment, called at Victor's apartment, related the incident of the ring and presented that piece of crudely made jewelry to the brother of the man who had almost bitten it in two as a keepsake.

He showed it to me yesterday, along with Hardie Meakin and "Winnie" Winchester, of the Fox, and we agreed that railroad spikes would make quite as tempting a morsel.

MR. McLAGLEN, accompanied by "Jack" Francis, a traveling companion and sort of business arranger, I judge, is in Washington principally for recreation and to see a city he has never before visited, and partly on a matter of personal business in no way connected with the income tax collector's office. After twelve months of uninterrupted work in the studios and on the lots, Winnie Sheehan, production manager for Fox, told him to go chase himself around the country until he sent for him, and that is what he is doing.

Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and New York City have been visited; Boston, St. Louis and other Midwest cities are to follow, and then—back to the grind.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. McLaglen was taken on a sight-seeing tour of the Capital. Today at noon he will meet President Hoover at the White House; at 12:45 he will be a luncheon guest at the Press Club; tonight at 9 he will make a personal appearance at the Fox Theater—the only one during his visit—and tomorrow he and Mr. Francis will depart for New York.

Mr. McLaglen says they are going to fly back. Mr. Francis says they are going to stay on the ground and travel lying down in a sleeper.

My guess, after noting the cut of the McLaglen jaw and sensing something of the personality of the man, is that they are going to fly.

WHOZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was not born in the United States.
2. He holds one of the highest offices in the executive branch of the Federal Government.
3. He has held that office longer than any of his predecessors ever held it.
4. He is the head of a large fraternal organization.

"Let's be fair about this matter of deciding which is the best cigarette," said OLD GOLD to Mr. American Smoker last January.

"That sounds reasonable," replied Mr. S. "What do you want me to do?"

"Well," continued O. G., "why don't you smoke me and the other three leading brands with paper masks covering our names, so you can't tell us apart? And leave it to your taste to say which one it likes best?"

In February, the nation gave OLD GOLD a rousing sales boost over January. In March, April, May and June this brisk upward sales swing continued unabated, with June racing ahead to nearly double the sales of January.

OLD GOLD wins in these tests because it IS a better cigarette. Blended by skilled blenders from Nature's choicest queen-leaf tobaccos, its finer quality just naturally proclaims itself in any reliable comparison of cigarettes.

Rudy Vallee Conducts on Air Tonight

Dance Hits by Connecticut Yankees Over WRC at 7:30—John Barclay to Sing Over WMAL in Symphony Program.

Rudy Vallee will be the conductor and vocal star of the third of the new Victor series of half-hours of dance music to be broadcast from WRC at 7:30 o'clock. On this occasion Vallee and his famous Connecticut Yankees will play ten of his own newest recorded arrangements of current dance hits just released by the Victor studios.

Two highlights of the program will be "Baby, Oh Where Can You Be"; "Maybe, Who Knows?" and 'Heigh Ho, Everybody," which has come to be known as Rudy's musical greeting to his radio listeners. Other numbers are "Down the Field," "Miss You," "You're Just Another Memory," "Vagabond Lover," "Sposin," "Peace of Mind" and "Deep Night."

John Barclay, popular barytone, will be the guest artist of the concert that the Buffalo Civic Symphony Orchestra is presenting at 8:30 o'clock from WMAL. The numbers selected by Mr. Barclay are Massenet's "Vision Fugitive," Koeneman's "When the King Went Forth to War" and "The Toreador Song" from "Carmen."

The program by the symphony, under the direction of Herbert Straub, follows:

"Pomp and Circumstance," Elgar; "Waltz of the Flowers," from "Nutcracker Suite," Tschaikowsky; "Deep Night," Valles; Prelude, first act "Lohengrin," Wagner; medley of Victor Herbert favorites; "Largo from "New World Symphony," Dvorak; "Stradella," Von Flotow; Broadway hits of 1929; and the finale from "The Fourth Symphony," Tschaikowsky.

John Barclay will be heard again in the Voice of Columbia presentation, with Helen Oelheim and Ethel Codd. Features of this hour are Chabrier's "Espana," the prelude to Wagner's "Lohengrin," and the duet from the prison scene of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," to be sung by soprano and tenor.

"Taken for a Ride" will give an insight into the workings of the St. Louis gang world and will be dramatically presented at 8 o'clock from WMAL as the offering of the True Detective Mysteries broadcast. This drama concerns the further confessions of Ray Renard, a former St. Louis gunman, pal of famous underworld figures, who is now serving a sentence in the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta.

There will be a concert by the U. S. Marine Band from 7:30 to 8 o'clock from WMAL.

Two investment questions, carefully selected from the many he has received during the past week, will be answered by the "Old Counselor" in the Halsey, Stuart program at 9 o'clock. Andy Sanella and his instrumental ensemble will provide the incidental music.

There will be a National Broadcasting and Concert Bureau Hour from WRC at 9:30 o'clock, followed by the last half hour of the Slumber Music.

Lieut. Charles Benter will direct the U. S. Navy Band in an hour's broadcast at 3 o'clock this afternoon over WRC.

Terry White, the whistler, will be heard in a brief recital from WOL at 6:10 o'clock today. Miss White made her debut as a radio entertainer from WOL last week. There will be a half-hour from WOL at 6:30 o'clock presented at the Tau Sigma Phi concert. The young people are all members of the various high school Greek letter fraternities and the best entertainers in each fraternity have been selected. They will give a varied program under the direction of Ana Talbert, who will act as master-of-ceremonies.

From 3 to 5 o'clock this afternoon, WJSV will present a mid-afternoon musicale. This will be preceded by a varied program from 11:30 to 1 o'clock, and followed by the regular evening entertainers.

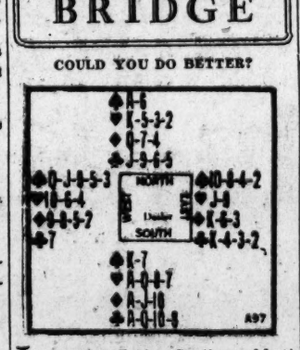
WORK'S BRIDGE

COULD YOU DO BETTER?



IN Auction Bridge, South would get the contract at one No Trump; at Contract Bridge South would bid three No Trumps, and North four, which would get the contract because South, having started with a minimum, would not go further. The play would be the same in either game.

As actually played, West led his Quen of Spades. The Declarer, noting that entries would be needed in the dummy, won the trick in the closed hand and placed dummy in the lead with the King of Hearts to lead a small Club for a finesse.

When this won, South led the Ace and Ten of Clubs, which East won. East then cleared the Spade suit and Declarer, being assured of two Spades, four Hearts, three Clubs and one Diamond, did not risk a Diamond finesse, but took his four-odd and game.

Would you have made more?

THE ANSWER.

Declarer should have won the first trick in dummy and started his finessing at Trick 2, selecting Clubs, (his longest suit) for the first attempt. The Club finesse should be made without transferring the lead from dummy; Declarer should lead the Jack of Clubs to trick 2 and the King not covering, should play South's Ten.

This permits a continuation of dummy leads without the expenditure of another entry. The second Club trick would be the Nine from dummy and when East did not cover, the Eight from closed hand. Then a third Club lead through East's King, yielding a total of four Club tricks. Trick 6 dummy would be put in with the King of Hearts, and the Diamond suit would be handled in the same way as the Clubs; that is, the Queen would be led and, if the King should not cover, the Jack played under the Queen so that a second Diamond lead could come from dummy.

The distribution of the adverse cards in this case is perfect and Declarer makes a grand slam by trying all possibilities; if the two Kings were held by West instead of East, a slam could not be made and bidding for it would throw away a valuable game.

New Aerial To Supply 25 Radios

Apartment Owners May Solve Vexing Problem of Providing Receiving Connections for Their Tenants by New Device.

Apartment house owners and operators have had to concede the right of their tenants to enjoy radios. Indeed, to deny such right today is tantamount to an empty apartment house, particularly at a time when apartment houses have temporarily exceeded the demand in most sections of the country.

And so the apartment house of today is festooned with a jungle of wires on the roof and in the courtyards, as an indication of the pursuit of happiness by the tenants. Such a situation is said to give rise at times to fire hazards and often to the spoiling of the appearance of the building. Little wonder, therefore, that many keen minds have been working on a possible solution of the problem, and that various group antenna systems have appeared. So far, however, these systems have been either too elaborate and too costly, or have depended on the brute strength of a gigantic antenna and the relatively poor results from each radio set so operated.

Multiple Antenna Evolved.

After many years of experience with antenna systems and radio receiving practice, three radio engineers of New York City have succeeded in evolving what appears to be the practical solution of the apartment house radio problem. Their invention—for it is covered by important patent applications—calls for a single antenna for every twelve to twenty-five radio sets. The installation consists of a single group antenna for every group of radio sets in the apartment house, with a down lead running inside or outside the building. At each floor, conveniently located, there is inserted a device called the multicoupler in the down lead. This device serves as the coupling means between the down lead, which is really a radio-frequency transmission line, and the radio set. At the bottom end of the down lead is a lightning arrester shunted by a resistance, serving as a protection for all the radio sets operating on the group antenna.

The multicoupler itself is a simple and inexpensive device. It takes the form of a bakelite case measuring about 6 inches long and 1½ inches in diameter. There are connection lugs at each end, which serve to insert the multicoupler in the down lead. At the side of the case is a binding post which serves as the antenna connection for the radio set. The bakelite case contains an ingenious combination of radio components which serves as the coupling circuit in connecting the individual radio set to the radio-frequency transmission line. There are no chemicals, vacuum tubes, mechanical parts or other components to wear out, to be replaced, or to cause trouble. Once installed, this device will work for many years without attention.

For Every Apartment Series.

The cost of the multiplex antenna system is very low. The best practice is to arrange the antenna system in the form of an umbrella, with one antenna wire and down lead for each vertical row of apartments in the building. Thus one down lead takes care of the "A" apartments, another the "B" apartments, and so on. A neat installation is assured, and maximum results are obtained by each tenant. It is interesting to note that since the down lead acts as a radio-frequency transmission line and not as the usual lead-in, its length has absolutely no influence on the operation of the radio sets. The tenant on the ground floor receives just as well as the tenant on the top floor.

The multiplex antenna system is remarkably free from inductive interference, such as that from electric refrigerators, electric vacuum cleaners, elevator motors, contactors, bells and so on, due to the filter action of the multicoupler.

While the installation is designed primarily for the usual broadcast frequencies or wave lengths, it becomes possible to use the antenna system for short-wave reception, such as is now becoming more and more popular especially with the possibility of television service in the near future. In the case of short-wave reception, connection is made to the top lug of the multicoupler instead of to the binding post on the side.

The results obtained with this multiplex antenna system are not to be compared with those from loop antennas, indoor antennas and socket antennas. These devices are generally inefficient in the average large apartment house building, due to the steel work. The multiplex antenna system reaches out high and clear of steel work and inductive interference in bringing in powerful, clear and satisfactory radio signals for the proper operation of the radio set.

Radio Fans to Follow Graf Zeppelin Course

When the Graf Zeppelin left its hangar in Germany today, Frank Nicholson, correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System, was aboard to give a graphic description of the trip to a Nation-wide hookup of radio stations.

The transmission by Mr. Nicholson will be picked up and rebroadcast until the ship nears the coast line, when the broadcasts will be made directly from the Zeppelin.

The arrival over New York and the landing at Lakehurst will be described for a Nation-wide hookup by Mr. Nicholson. The time of these broadcasts is not definitely known yet, but the Graf Zeppelin will probably be heard from each three or four hours after leaving Friedrichshafen, Germany, with the first pick-up at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

Aou INTERPRETS the MODE

"Amarante," a black crepe de chine model, with printed design in red and beige. Note the scarf effect. (Courtesy of the Maison Cheruit, Paris.)

WE have said a hundred times, or maybe a million by now, that the greatest charm of Parisian dresses lies in the little details, which lend the final touch of beauty. Any way, no matter how many times we have said it, it remains equally true. Let us describe for you, today at random, a few such touches we have noted recently.

A blouse of crepe de chine had the front and sleeves in one color and the back in another. But its real chic came from a set-in "shirt front" of white linen, with tiny pearl buttons, and a linen collar cut out along the edge in a square "toothed" effect.

• • • •

A dress of black crepe satin had an inset gilet of triangular shape, which was of pale rose color with crossing lines of gold. This same material was used for triangles set into the sleeves, the point at the elbow and the wide part at the wrist, the whole shirred in low on the wrist.

An evening gown of rosewood crepe georgette gained a bit of added smartness through a long, narrow scarf of ecru lace draped loosely about the throat.

A dress of black crepe satin had an incrusted gilet, U-shaped, of pale rose crepe georgette incrusted in vertical bands. The collar was of the same rose material, but double, the one on top slightly smaller than that beneath.

Garter-girdle—brassiere-vest—summer step-in. These are what this week's illustrated leaflet will tell you how to make. Each is as tricky as anything, but easy to make just the same! Better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it!

• • • •

A perfect revival of an elegant gesture brought up to date. There was something so truly elegant—and so far out of reach of any but the most ample purse—about the long white kid evening gloves for formal wear! Something elegant and—altogether uncomfortable and extravagant, if you can recall.

The elegant gesture has returned, without the discomfort and with but a fraction of extravagance—just enough to be intriguing. Lace gloves for evening wear! Not mittens, but perfectly tailored and beautifully finished gloves. Often embroidered and jeweled. And it is quite a la mode to wear them over one's glittering diamond bracelets.

• • • •

Such a smart Cheruit dress of black crepe de chine printed in red and beige! It's just that little scarf effect, and the semijacquette effect in the back that distinguishes the gown from just any dress, you know.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

Essentials of Child's Shoes.

DR. JOHN P. ADAMS lays down the following essentials for children's shoes:

1. Breadth of the toe: The shoe should be sufficiently broad to allow the toes to assume a natural weight-bearing position. This requirement is generally met in the shoes of very young children. It is not usually met in the shoes of older children. It is rarely met in the shoes of children over ten.

2. Length: The shoes should be at least one-half inch longer than the weight-bearing foot. To determine this requirement a tracing is necessary. The feet of children grow rapidly. Shoes are generally outgrown.

3. Depth and fullness of the toe: The moccasin toe and the turned in toe have corrected the old-time abuse in this requirement. Dr. Adams finds children's shoes generally satisfactory on this point.

4. Close fitting heel: The only part of the shoe which should fit snugly is the heel.

5. Height of heel: The "paper bag" shoe worn by babies should not have a heel. In shoes of children under 3½ years of age the heel should not be thicker than the sole. For children 3½ to 5 years of age the heel should be twice as thick as the sole.

6. Depth of the shoe from its top to the sole in the region of the arch: children's shoes, as a rule, do not arch enough on top. The instep is too low. There is not enough depth from the top of the foot to the sole, in the region back of the toes and ball. One consequence of this fault is that the foot and leg muscles are not given enough play in running and jumping. Track shoes can not be faulty in this requirement. When children's shoes are too low in the instep their feet are cramped in play and the sole of the shoe is apt to split in the region of the instep.

7. Broad, flexible sole with a straight outside bearing from the tip of the little toe to the width of the heel: The natural weight should fall on the straight outside of the foot with the feet parallel. There should not be a narrowing of the sole at the counter.

Dr. Adams is emphatic in his advice that children stand with their heels apart and their feet parallel. He thinks the advice to stand with the "heels together and the toes turned out" was very bad and has done much harm.

FEAR HURTS HIS ORATORY.

Casks writes: What causes the flow of saliva to cease? I am in my third year of college and have excellent ability as an orator. In fact, I intend to make this my life work. However, whenever I am called upon to deliver a speech of importance to any large gathering, I can talk for only about two minutes when my mouth suddenly dries up and it's almost impossible for me to talk.

REPLY.

Fear is the cause. The condition is not peculiar to you. Most speakers have it some of the time and some have it most of the time. You can train yourself out of this and there is no other way. If you completely lose yourself in your theme, your mouth will not go dry. The emotion fear can be antidoted by other emotions.

TROUBLED AT 74 YEARS.

Mrs. A. E. R. writes:

1. Will you please tell me if a quart of water with one lemon, two oranges, ½ cup sugar, taken daily and the juice of ½ grapefruit going to bed will create uric acid?

2. Sometimes the room seems to turn up and down and I am dizzy. My equilibrium is very shaky, too. I am 74 years old and have had nerve trouble of all kinds. I have been told that acid in my system creates poison. I eat vegetables and very little meat.

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Your trouble may be in your ears or in your blood vessels. It is not caused by uric acid.

Many Causes for Coughs.

J. J. K. writes: Is sputum ever raised with a cough other than a tubercular cough?

REPLY.

Yes. There are many causes for coughs.

The Gibbon and the Orang

ONE afternoon I spent an interesting hour in a zoo watching a member of the monkey tribe. It was a gibbon, alone in a long cage. The little fellow seemed to be having a great time. A trapeze hung in his cage and he was using it.

The expression of the orang has been called "sad."

The gibbon would take off from a ledge at one end of the cage, grasping the trapeze bar and swinging to the other end of the cage. Then he would release the trapeze and run along a side ledge until he got back to the ledge at the end of the cage. Time and again he repeated the whole performance.

The most interesting point was that the gibbon ran along the side ledge on two legs.

Although gibbons seem "almost human" when they run on two legs, they are not so brainy as the orang (sometimes called orang-utan or orang-outang).

The orangs are apes found in the islands of Borneo and Sumatra. The one pictured is small compared with most orangs, for they frequently grow to a height of 4 feet, and sometimes weigh as much as 250 pounds.

The orang has long, strong, hairy arms. Its ears are rather small and delicate. Its expression usually seems sad.

Young orangs are quiet and affectionate. As they grow older, however, orangs become less friendly. They are often sulky and have been known to give way to violent fits of rage.

Orangs have well-shaped hands and are clever at imitating human actions. They have helped to make the saying, "monkey does what monkey sees."

What Today Means to You

AUGUST 1.

"LEO."

IF August 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger period is from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The influences for this date will be inspiring and you may expect to have some brilliant "brain waves," which will point the way to some later successes. Plenty of romance is predicted for the day and the evening will be one of joy and happiness for the younger members of the community.

Children born on this August 1 will be cursed with moods. Their moments of joy and sadness will both be short, one quickly succeeding the other. It will only be through influence of their wise mentors that they will develop a more perfect mental balance.

You are a very vital, energetic, ambitious and decided person—you know very clearly what you want from life, and you are riding straight to the mark as fast as destiny and circumstances will permit. You will draw to you the things that you want, through the magnetism of your desires.

If a man, you consciously or unconsciously seek your happiness through your dream of power and financial success. You struggle on with your face turned toward the horizon where the realization of your ambitions lie. The elixir of your life is the excitement of the chase. The harder the struggle, the bigger the fight, the happier you are. You do not speak of what you are trying to do—you do it. Your tastes are very materialistic.

If a woman, you seek your happiness through the channels of love. The circumference of your world encircles your home and those who are very dear to you. You are slavish in your devotions and unselfish in your acts. You can not do enough for those whom you love. Although you will do unto others much more than you will ever receive from any one, you are content. You do not feel yourself a martyr in your sacrifices, you are a sincere and happy giver. You are decidedly a mother woman.

Today's True Detective Story

Tale of the Poisoned Dagger.

By VANCE WYNN

THIRTY years ago a number of men and women were murdered in the suburbs near Shanghai. It was discovered that most of the victims had been killed by means of a poisoned dagger. At the same time chapels and churches belonging to the foreign missionary societies were destroyed. Demands for satisfaction came from State Departments in all parts of the world, and as a consequence the Chinese Government endeavored to ascertain the culprits and to punish them.

The official placed in charge of the investigation was Foo Wang, who at the time enjoyed the reputation of being the Sherlock Holmes of China. He was patient, he was resourceful, and he never went after "his man" without getting him. One of the things he found near the scene of the crimes was a bit of calico stamped with a number of Chinese characters. He knew that it was a certificate of membership in a famous secret society known as the Ko Lao Hui. This society was originally formed to battle with Chinese officials who practiced extortion upon the natives—and they were as numerous as the autumn leaves in Vallambrosia—but later its objects became antiforeign and antimissionary.

Foo Wang went to his home and got out his great pipe and sat down and thought. And he finally came to the conclusion that the particular bit of calico that he had picked up belonged to Chen-kin-Lung, who was one of the most conspicuous of the Ko Lao Hui leaders.

China is a pretty big place, but Foo Wang had plenty of assistants to rely upon, and he sent them to the four corners of the Celestial Empire with instructions to locate the supposed leader. Eventually he discovered that the man he wanted was at an inn near Pekin, and that with him were about twenty of his followers.

Foo Wang decided that it was about time for a round-up and he gathered his men together for that purpose. He found the leader in one of the rooms of the place giving an entertainment to his supporters. The Chinese detective was nothing if not original. He posted himself upon the veranda of the inn and then sent one of his men in to tell Chen-kin-Lung that he was wanted outside on important business.

The unsuspecting leader excused himself to his friends with true Celestial gravity and stepped out on the veranda. As he did so a great bag was thrown over his head, two men seized him and he was carried, kicking and gesticulating, to a nearby wharf and placed on a vessel. There, bound and gagged, he was taken in the direction of Shanghai. Just before the boat reached its destination the detectives brought the suspect into the cabin and put him through the third degree—which means something in China.

But while Chen-kin-Lung might have been down, he was far from being out. He smiled his inscrutable smile—and said nothing. They literally put the screws upon him but failed to elicit the slightest information.

His clothing and effects were now brought to the detective and given a careful examination. In the flowing sleeves of one of his kimonos was found a dagger with a poisoned blade. It had the appearance of being the weapon with which the Shanghai murders had been committed. Also the investigators found a number of letters and communications addressed to the prisoner. In each of them he was addressed as the "Eighth Great Prince." This was proof positive that he was at the head of the secret society and that he undoubtedly aimed at securing the control of the country. Among the other things found were a number of the calico certificates indicating membership in the Ko Lao Hui.

Koo Wang now had more than enough evidence to send his distinguished visitor to the block, but he wanted to get the names of others and he besought the prisoner to make a clean breast of the whole conspiracy.

But Chen-kin-Lung was a wise Chinaman and he knew that he was sure to be beheaded. So he remained silent. He was returned to the hold of the vessel and told that he would be given until the next morning to make a complete revelation of his mysterious society.

But the next morning he was gone—mysteriously—and nothing was ever heard of him afterward.

CREDIT STORE MEN ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Two Charged With Employing Force in Collection of Payments.

ROBBERY LAID TO ONE

Joseph A. Ward and John E. Keys, representatives of the Bonwal Credit Clothing Co., 735 Seventh street northwest, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on charges growing out of alleged efforts to force payment of bills, and were ordered held for action of the grand jury by Judge R. E. Mattingly.

Ward is charged on two counts of robbery while Keys is charged with representing himself as a prosecuting attorney. Ward was ordered held under $5,000 bond, and Keys' bail was assessed at $1,500. Both were released shortly after arraignment, Milton S. Kronheim being the surety.

Warrants on which Ward was arraigned charge that he stole a wrist watch from Bernice Clark, of 1013 Thirteenth street northwest, and $7.75 from Dorothy Brown, of 1513 Fourth street northwest.

Keys is alleged in a warrant with having represented himself as a prosecuting attorney to Bernice Clark. Attaches of the district attorney's office say that Keys is said to have used the pretense to get the woman to go to the store where Ward is alleged to have taken the watch from her to meet a pending payment.

Both Ward and Keys pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Two Firemen Retire For Physical Injury

Woman in Street Car Crash Seeks Damages

Asserting that she was permanently disabled and disfigured as the result of a street car and oil truck collision on November 5, 1926, Katie Hoffman, of New Brighton, Pa., filed suit in District Supreme Court yesterday against the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Taylor Korman Oil Co., seeking to recover $10,000 damages.

The plaintiff, through Attorney Alvin L. Nowmyer, tells the court that she was a passenger on a street car on the aforementioned date which was in collision at H and Sixth streets northeast with a truck owned and operated by the oil company. She alleges she suffered many injuries and that the nerves of her left hand were so injured as to cause a disfigurement of the member.

Apartment hunting is far from a pleasant task. Why not look in the classified columns of The Washington Post. Perhaps the very place you are looking for is advertised today.

CHICAGO'S RUM WAR CLAIMS TWO LIVES

BLONDE WOMAN SOUGHT

Chicago, July 31 A.P.).—A flareup of Chicago's West Side alcohol war resulted in the deaths today of two racketeers and the serious wounding of a third.

Thomas (Big Six) McNichols, son of a former State representative, died at the county hospital after turning away from questioners with "Don't bother me." They had been trying to find what the shooting was about and who the blonde young woman was who took him to the hospital.

A few hours before, Jimmy (Bozo) Shupe, beer runner and former convict, died in the Bridewell Hospital, a victim of McNichols' bullets. Shot through the abdomen, George Riggins, owner of the West Madison street cigar store in front of which the shooting occurred, is not expected to live.

The young woman was sought as a key witness in the affair. She was believed to have driven McNichols to the cigar store in an automobile, sat in the machine while he leaped out and started firing at Shupe and Riggins as they stood in front of the store, and then to have driven him to the hospital after he stumbled back into the machine, mortally wounded.

She left the hospital after telling attendants she was "going for his mother."

And for an explanation they went back to the escape from the county jail of "Terrible Tommy" O'Connor and Jimmy Laporte. Tommy never has been found, but Jimmy was sent to prison for one to ten years. Corinne began a career with West Side racketeers and the men she knew had a way of meeting violent deaths.

She married one John Lafferty, third-rate gunman, and after becoming the mother of a child she ran away with Jimmy Shupe, a pal in the gun business, who spent much time at the Lafferty home. Lafferty swore he would turn in the whole gang, including Jimmy's brother, Tommy, now serving a prison sentence for the robbery of the International Harvester Co.

"I don't care about Corinne," he said, "but I want my kid."

The kid was not forthcoming and Lafferty went to the police. A few days later they found his bullet-torn body in a basement flat.

Police found Corinne and told her about it.

"What's that to me?" she demanded and continued to live with Shupe.

Today Jimmy Shupe's body is in the county morgue. Police believe Corinne again may ask, "What's that to me?" but they want to question her anyhow.

Washington Woman Benefited in Will.

Cash in the amount of $5,000, jewelry valued at $5,900 and a life interest in $15,000 will be received by Helen Durfee, 2621 Woodley place northwest from the estate of Blanche A. JULY TRADE FIRM, REPORT DISCLOSES

Clearings Show Gain of $3,469,424.45 Over Preceding Month.

W. R. & E. STOCK SOARS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

July trade held firm here, the monthly statement of the Washington Clearing House Association revealed yesterday. July clearings aggregated $127,497,771.87, a gain of $3,469,424.45 over the preceding month and an increase of $13,224,104.06 over July last year. Total clearings thus far for this year are $878,545,619.05, an advance of $53,335,635.23 above the first seven months of 1928.

These figures, compiled by Manager Charles E. Bright, of the clearing house association, indicate a heavy check turnover in the banks resulting from growth of business volume and mercantile activity. They point to a new high record with the remainder of the business year a normal one.

W. R. & E. Common at New High.

Sale of a single share of Washington Railway & Electric common stock yesterday at $580, a new all-time high mark in this issue, featured yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange.

The sale, 305 in advance of the last sale price, was generally regarded in financial circles as the result of the recent sharp gain in North American Co. stock on the New York Stock Exchange, five shares of which is offered by this holding company for one share of Washington Railway & Electric.

The brisk advance of North American stock increased value of the local common and forced the recent bid price on the latter 100 points, resulting in yesterday's big sale. Trading in other stocks and bonds was quiet; bond sales totaling $4,000, falling off $700 from the previous session's business and the stock turnover of 187 shares, making a drop of 176.

Paying Final Dividends.

Adolph Weyl, treasurer of the Ivy City Land Syndicate, is paying out final dividends to stockholders amounting to $31 per share, original par value of the stock being $10.

In 1897, on the abandonment of the Ivy City race track, the syndicate was formed and at various times the property held by it was sold, the main portion being the center of the track, purchased as a roundhouse site by the Washington Terminal Co.

With the par value of this stock at $10 per share and the final closing payment amounting to $31 a share, the syndicate has paid back $71 per share. The last officers of the syndicate were J. Leo Kolb, president; Adolph Weyl, treasurer, and Morris Hacker, secretary.

G. E. Forsberg in New Post.

Election of Gustave W. Forsberg as second vice president of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. was announced yesterday following a meeting of the board of directors. Identified with steamboat companies for 36 years, Mr. Forsberg was treasurer and later president of the Washington & Colonial Beach Steamboat Co.

He is now vice president and treasurer of the Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Co., of this city, and a director in the National Bank of Washington and Park Savings Bank. Mr. Forsberg has been a director in the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. for a number of years and was a friend of John Callahan, first general manager of the company. The company reports excellent business and its stock sells on Washington Stock Exchange around $300 a share.

Poland Completes Contract.

With the final payment, on the date agreed upon, of $995,000 to the Baldwin Locomotive Works, the Government of Poland completes its contract with that company negotiated on July 28, 1919, to the total amount of $6,965,000, the Polish Legation has announced.

The contract between the Baldwin Co. and the Republic of Poland was arranged when the restored nation was only a few months old, before its borders had been finally determined. It called for delivery of locomotives of a heavy freight type at Danzig, where they were established.

It was the first American agreement entered into by Poland, and is the first on a credit basis to be concluded, both as to performance and as to payments of principal and interest. The early delivery and assembly of these locomotives made an important contribution to the extension of transportation facilities within the country.

Further Expansion Planed.

An ambitious program for the expansion and further improvement of its existing facilities has been mapped out by the Associated Gas & Electric System. This will involve an outlay of upward of $4,000,000, much of which will be expended in interconnections, additions to facilities, and construction of new plants.

In addition to their own generating capacity aggregating almost 1,000,000 kilowatts, the Associated properties are fortunately situated whereby the rapidly growing requirements for electric power in the areas served assuredly may be met by ability to draw on the power resources of the Atlantic seaboard.

Federal-American Co. Moves Offices.

Removal of the offices of the Federal-American Co. from 1352 G street northwest, to the mezzanine of the Federal-American National Bank Building was announced yesterday. William M. Seay, office manager of the company, has just returned from his wedding trip. He married Miss Ella M. Williams, formerly of the trust department of the Federal-American National Bank.

McElroy Moss, local comanager of Harriss & Vose, is on two weeks' vacation in Canada.

Robert C. Jones, one of the managers of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., will spend a two weeks' vacation at Virginia Beach.

Edwin C. Brandenburg, trust officer of the National Bank of Washington, will take a six weeks' vacation at Bailey's Island, near Portland, Me.

Clarence F. Norment, head of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co., has returned from Atlantic City, fully recovered from a recent illness.

President George L. Starkey, of the National Bank of Washington, and Mrs. Starkey left yesterday for a visit to Atlantic City.

Two Killed In Sarajevo.

Vienna, July 31 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Sarajevo, Jugoslavia, the cradle of the World War, tonight said two workmen were killed and several others wounded when police fought with Communists who had set fire to the railroad shops in that city and had tried also to ignite other buildings.

A dispatch from Zagreb, capital of Croatia, said Communists had distributed dynamite bombs among the workers of that center of the Croatian separatist movement.

From Belgrade, capital of Jugoslavia, word came that a secret Communist printing plant had been found in Sarajevo. When police raided it and arrested Marium Barum, other communists tried to rescue him. Barum, it was reported was killed in the fight. A search of his house revealed a quantity of revolutionary documents and a printing outfit.

ST. LOUIS ACCLAIMS AVIATORS AS HEROES

Two-Day Celebration in Honor of Record-Holding Refuel Pair Begun.

TOUR OF CITIES PLANNED

St. Louis, Mo., July 31 (A.P.).—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine were hailed today as new conquerers of the air as St. Louis began a two-day celebration in honor of their achievement in piloting the monoplane St. Louis Robin to a new endurance record of 420 hours 21 minutes 30 seconds.

The fliers, who landed the plane last night amid the cheers of thousands, were formally received as heroes today at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the City Club, attended by an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 persons, including many of the city's outstanding citizens.

Later in the day the fliers turned aside for a time from the round of celebrating to pay their respects to their friend and fellow airman, George Lea Lambert, who was killed in an airplane accident near here Monday. Lambert, son of Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, observer of the St. Louis Robin's flight for the National Aeronautic Association, was buried this afternoon.

To Travel Lindbergh Route.

Tomorrow O'Brine and Jackson will ride in a parade through the city to be publicly acclaimed. They will follow the same route traveled by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh two years ago, when he came home from his epochal New York to Paris flight.

The motor parade, which will wind through the downtown district, will end at the city hall, where the fliers will be welcomed back to earth and congratulated on behalf of the city by Acting Mayor Charles A. Neumann. The fliers, guests in a downtown hotel, arose early today, refreshed from their 17 days of living in cramped quarters in the sky, and after going through "fan mail" and being given shaves and hair cuts, were driven to the City Club.

They were presented with inscribed wrist watches by the Chamber of Commerce and received many other gifts, presented through the commerce chamber.

Fliers to Be Given Plane.

Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co., which sponsored the flight, announced that the company would make and give to the fliers a special Challenger Robin plane, the type of ship with which they broke the endurance record. He also announced he would back them in another endurance flight if their record is ever broken.

Maj. C. Ray Wassall and P. C. Chaffee, the refueling crew for the record flight, also were guests and both took bows. The wives of the fliers were presented with bouquets.

The aviators will be guests of the St. Louis Cardinal Baseball Club at Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon, where there will be another public reception.

Tour to Be Started.

Chicago, Ill., July 31 (A.P.).—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, holders of the world record for sustained flight, will inaugurate a tour of various cities starting in Chicago Friday, officials of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Corporation announced here tonight.

Flying the ship in which the record was set Jackson and O'Brine will leave St. Louis Friday morning, accompanied by the refueling ship, piloted by Maj. Wassall and P. C. Chaffee. Maj. Robertson will accompany the fliers in his own plane.

From Chicago the quartet will go to Detroit and continue on an unannounced itinerary from that city.

Mate Held in Alleged Suicide of Evangelist

Philadelphia, July 31 (A.P.).—Though they believe that Mrs. Gwendolyn Jester, 19-year-old, evangelist, committed suicide, the police today held her husband, George, 22, in connection with the case.

Mrs. Jester was found yesterday with a bullet wound in her head in a wooded section of the northern part of the city. A note found pinned to a pillow in her home asked her husband's forgiveness. The police said Mrs. Jester, who, with her husband, used to preach on street corners, killed herself while suffering from a delusion that she might become an invalid.

Americans Protest New Mexican Law

Factory Men Say Proposed Act Would Bankrupt Industries.

Mexico City July 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow was informed today by a committee of American factory owners operating in Mexico that passage of the proposed federal labor law "would practically bankrupt most industries in this country."

The law is now before the Mexican Senate. It is generally forecast that it will pass.

The committee which called on the United States Ambassador today presented him with an analysis of the measure showing that it would require an increase in their capital investment of upward of $1,000,000,000. The delegation asked Mr. Morrow to use his influence to obtain modification of some of the more radical provisions in the act.

Sino-Soviet Conference Is Held at Border City

London, July 31 (A.P.).—A Reuter's dispatch from Nanking says that a preliminary conference between representatives of the Chinese and Soviet governments with regard to the Chinese Eastern Railway was held at Manchuli, on the Manchurian-Siberian border yesterday.

B. N. Melnikov, Russian consul general at Harbin, and the Chinese commissioner for foreign affairs in that city, were the negotiators.

Gifford Confirms Divorce Report

New York, July 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—On the moment of departure from New York with his two small sons for their vacation today, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., confirmed the report that Mrs. Gifford is in Reno to seek a divorce.

The couple separated several months ago in the most friendly fashion, Mr. Gifford said, he keeping Sherman, 11, and Richard, 7. A settlement was arranged before Mrs. Gifford's departure for Reno.

"I am most distressed that this all had to come out today, on the first day of my boys' vacation," Mr. Gifford said. "They will read of it and, although eventually they had to know it, I would have preferred that it be given no publicity at present."

Coast Guard Seizes Boats Carrying Beer

Detroit, July 31 (A.P.).—A 60-foot lugger and two rowboats loaded with 1,000 cases of beer were seized by Coast Guardsmen in the Huron River a mile from Lake Erie today. The lugger and rowboats are believed to have put out from Amherstburg, Ont.

Coast Guardsmen Jay Schrieber and M. J. Kaluske, boatswain's mates, made the seizure as they were patroling the river in a rowboat. The two rum runners in charge of the shipment escaped. They were armed, but did not fire on the Coast Guardsmen.

MANY STOCKS SOAR TO NEW TOP PRICES

Gains Up to 20 Points Are Scored in New Bull Market Drive.

CALL FUNDS 10 PER CENT

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Given renewed impetus by further excellent earnings, carloadings and steel trade reports, bullish operations developed renewed vitality on the stock market today, more than a score of issues rising 2 to more than 20 points to record levels. The pace of trading was accelerated from that of the past two dull sessions, but was kept within moderate bounds, 3,407,040 shares changing hands.

Although call money held at 10 per cent all day, reports that bankers were acting to keep the rate from going higher was encouraging. Time money rates, however, did not indicate that there is much prospect of substantially easier credit after the turn of the month. Some 30-day money was placed at 9 per cent.

Renewed weakness of sterling made an early increase in the Bank of England's discount rate seem even more likely, although Wall street hardly expects the action to be taken at today-tomorrow's meeting, as Gov. Montagu Norman will be on the high seas, returning from his visit to America.

Bank Blames Stock Market.

It was characteristic of recent markets that industrial and trade developments should overshadow the rather gloomy credit outlook. While there have been no intimations that the Federal Reserve will again act to check speculation, the New York Reserve Bank's monthly bulletin pointed to the stock market as one of the principal causes of the credit scarcity.

Regarding the firm money conditions during July, the bulletin stated, the chief cause were a curiosity demand for the new sized currency issued July 10 which led to an increase of $100,000,000 in the amount of currency in circulation, and an increased demand for credit, largely for the security markets."

Iron Age stated while there were evidences at Pittsburgh of a gradual curtailment of steel mill activity, reports from other centers indicated no imminent slackening in ingot output.

Car loadings for the week ended July 20 were well above the previous week, and 4.4 per cent above the like week of 1928. Crude oil production last week again reached a new high level, but the gain was small. Among favorable earnings statements appearing today, those of Pacific Lighting, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, and Wheeling Steel were notable. The National City Bank, in its August 1 bulletin, said that combined net profits of 229 companies during the first half of the year showed a gain of 30 per cent over the like period of last year.

Utility Shares Again Active.

The utility shares again occupied the limelight, the price index of 20 leaders of the group rising more than 5 points to a record level. People's Gas shot up about 22 points more, in sympathy with further violent upturns in the Insull stocks of the curb, but lost about 5 points of its advance before the close.

American & Foreign Power, Detroit Edison & Philadelphia Co. rose 7 to 11 points to new peak levels. Utilities Power & Light A and National Power & Light also reached new high ground. American Water Works and American Power & Light made wide gains.

General Electric sold up 11 points to a new peak at 377¾. U. S. Steel encountered some selling in disappointment over the fact that no extra dividend was declared, but consideration of the excellent earnings statement brought heavy buying into the issue, which sent it up about 4 points to a record price at 210¾. Auburn Auto had another violent spurt, touching a new peak at 424, up 21.

Commercial Solvents Rallies.

Commercial Solvents continued to rally, with an extreme gain of about 18 points, and other chemicals made substantial advances. Central Alloy Steel, Maytag, Moto Meter & Guage, Spencer Kellogg, and F. G. Shattuck were among other issues reaching new peaks. American Can, New York Central and Allis Chalmers mounted 6 to 8 points.

Case Threshing was a soft spot, dropping 14 points to 360, and closing at 366. Flienes fell about 12 points to a new 1929 low at 65. Although rails were generally well supported, Union Pacific slipped back about 3 points. Radio lost about a point.

Another upturn in grains featured the commodity markets. Wheat mounted about 4 cents a share on a bullish Government weather report and better export demand. Corn mounted 2 to 4 cents on complaints of dry weather from the Central West and good cash demand.

Sterling Cables dropped 3-16 of a cent to $4.85 5-16. Other European currencies generally sagged. The Japanese yen was in continued demand, reaching another new peak at 46.35 cents, reflecting faith in the financial policies of the new Japanese government.

INVESTMENT BONDS CONTINUE HESITANT

Convertibles and Standard Speculative Issues Display Strength.

FOREIGN LIST IS QUIET

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Time money tightened a trifle today and investment bonds lagged in a market featured by the strength of numerous convertibles and a few speculative issues of standard types.

Thirty-day loans were quoted at 8¾ to 9 per cent, as compared with 8¾ flat on Tuesday. The rate has gradually advanced 1½ per cent in the last three weeks, a fact which tends to discourage belief that the bond market will show sustained improvement in the immediate future. At 9 per cent time loans are close to their high for the year. The decline in the rate late in June and early this month was of short duration.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron convertible 6s again led the share privilege group, moving up for a net gain of 4¾ to close at 115, a new high. During the morning the debentures sold at 117 on the strength of the shares. Lautaro Nitrate 6s, a recent issue, and Kreuger & Toll 5s, with warrants, also reached new peaks in the stock option group.

American Telephone 4½s and Atchison 4½s were other strong convertibles, making net gains of 2¾ and 1¾, respectively. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Alleghany Corporation 5s, 1949, and International Telephone 4½s reacted fractionally.

A few rail, industrial and utility mortgages managed to work higher, but the demand for conservative investment issues was slight, and the general list had an irregular appearance. General Steel Casting 5½s again attracted buying and showed a net gain of 1½ to the new high of 102½.

New York traction bonds were conspicuously strong. The Interborough Rapid Transit issues climbed 2½ to 3⅜ points, while New York Railways 6s and Third Avenue adjustment 5s rose 1½ to 2 points. Strength was also shown by the Hudson Coal 5s, up 2½.

The high grade rails fluctuated within narrow limits. In the speculative section of the carrier group, Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s lost fractionally on profit taking, while St. Paul 5s advanced slightly.

Dullness marked the Liberties and the United States Treasury issues and foreign bonds traded in only nominal volume.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1929. 17

CHICAGO POLICE GUARD MANDELL FROM GAMBLERS

President Cup Grid Series Is Ended

"Snitz" Snyder Joins Devil Dogs; Schedule Announced.

By JACK ESFEY.

THE President's Cup football game, played annually since 1924 and considered the enlisted men's athletic classic, has been played for the last time.

This was learned yesterday from authoritative sources at the Navy Department coincident with announcement of the 1929 schedule and plans of the Marine Corps Eleven which hitherto has been the dominating figure in the cup series.

The reason assigned for discontinuing the game is that Navy finds it impracticable to assemble a representative team. As Army withdrew for the same reason last year, the series is automatically closed by Navy's decision, the Marines being left alone in the field. The big silver cup, emblematic of the service championship, which was donated by the former chief executive, Calvin Coolidge, will be retained for the time being by Navy which won last year's game.

Navy officials explained that to assemble a representative team would entail the drafting of star players from the various ship teams and training station teams scattered on the seas and along the two coasts. The benefits to be derived from a team of this class—super team, as they called it—would be more than offset by the loss of these stars to their respective units, it was pointed out.

Lack of Men Cause, Says Navy.

The loss of the players' services as sailors would be heavily felt and it is this that really marked the lack of feasibility in the matter, the officials said. Added to that loss would be the expense of transporting the players during the football season.

Navy's long-standing athletic policy for enlisted men, as officially expressed, is "to promote the all-around welfare of the greatest number of participants, and to this end the greatest effort is made toward developing ship and station teams with intramural contests rather than a super team or teams with a limited number of big contests."

The Marine Corps' policy is the opposite. The super team—the team composed of the cream of the athletes—is regarded as an organization in which membership should be the goal of every athlete. Under the present policy the Marine Corps maintains three athletic centers—Quantico, Va., San Diego, Calif., and Parris Island, S. C. Quantico, however, is ranked first in importance.

Marine Eleven Uses Football "Farms."

In addition to these stations, there are numerous smaller stations which have teams in football and other sports. The smaller stations are encouraged to send their best athletes to the big centers for tryout. When a man proves he has the necessary skill he is then permitted to play on one of the major teams.

The abandonment of the President's Cup game, which annually occupied a feature spot on Washington's football calendar and was staged amid pomp, leaves the Marines with but six contests for the forthcoming season. As announced by Maj. David L. S. Brewster, officer in charge of athletics, the Marine list at present calls for games with the following:

America's Greatest Golfer "Not Politically Inclined," He Says, in Answer to Suggestion That He Make Race for Congress.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 31 (A.P.).—Robert T. (Bobby) Jones, jr., today said he would not make the race for Congress from the Fifth District of Georgia to succeed the late Leslie J. Steele, as he was "not politically inclined and preferred to continue the practice of law."

"I appreciate the kindness of the people of Canton in suggesting that I make the race," Bobby said, adding, "of course I won't.

"I have, however, seen no delegation, if there was one, and all I know of it, I saw in the papers."

Bobby's name as a candidate was suggested yesterday by a delegation from Canton, Ga., the former home of his grandfather, Robert T. Jones, sr. The delegation, headed by State Senator H. G. Vandeviers, expressed the opinion that "Bobby's fame as a golf player would make him a serious contender."

The refusal of Robert T. Jones, jr., to permit his name to be put forward for a nomination for Congress from Georgia, deprives the House of Representatives of an opportunity to lower its golf handicap.

If the open and amateur champion had been nominated and elected he would have been the first scratch golfer to hold a seat in the National Legislative body.

According to Alex (Sandy) Armour, professional at the Congressional Country Club, there are no "real good" golfers in Congress.

The Scotch pro was asked recently if there was a member of the House or Senate who could consistently break 80 on a golf course. "If there is any one that good I have not seen him," was his reply.

If Bobby had political ambitions and found the Georgia constituents in accord with him, doubtless he could give any of his colleagues a stroke a hole.

Nats Lose to Browns, 5-1, As Stewart Allows 5 Hits

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

LEFTHANDER

WINNING games with five scattered hits simply is not being done these days. That's what the Nationals tried to do yesterday and that's why the Browns beat them and evened up the series. The final score was 5 to 1, four of these six runs being unearned.

Walter Stewart, who has been rank poison to the Nationals ever since he came up to the majors, administered another dose to them yesterday and, but for an error by Third-sacker Dondero, would have been credited with a shutout. Bob Burke started on the hill for the natives, and a miscue by Catcher Roy Spencer cost him three of the four runs coined by the visitors in their fourth, when they packed away the verdict. It was a short throw which hit Kress, trapped between third and home, on the shoulder and let him score and gave the Browns a chance to prolong the inning and score two more tallies.

Neither of these "boots" had anything to do with the ultimate result of the game, however, for the Browns always had an edge, while the Nats never threatened but twice—and then mildly.

Stewart Turns Nats' Batters Back.

For three frames, Stewart turned them back as fast as they showed up at the swinging block, Judge opening the fourth with the first Washington hit and immediately being forced by Rice, who died on first. In the fifth, with two dead, Spencer walked and Hayes singled him to second, but both were left, while a one-baser by Cronin, also with two gone, went for naught in the seventh.

Dondero pegged badly after fielding Hayes' grasser opening the eighth and this ultimately was turned into Washington's lone run, for Hayes advanced on Thomas' out, and scored on Rice's single after Judge had coaxed a pass. With two chances at the tee, Goslin popped to O'Rourke and Myer skied to Schulte.

It looked as though the Nats might rally in the ninth when West led off with a scratch hit, but all they managed to do was to finally fully people the sacks with two out and Judge then ended the game by rolling to Blue.

Meantime, the Browns had been putting 10 hits to good use. Burke helped himself out of a hole in the second when he and Judge negotiated a double-play, but ran into a peck of trouble in the fourth, which saw the Browns become 4 up. Manush's double, Schulte's out, and Kress' triple were used in making one run and McNeely then grounded to Cronin, who trapped Kress between third and home. In running the player back, Spencer hit him with the ball, letting him score and McNeely carry on to third. The latter registered on Dondero's sacrifice fly, which would have been the third out but for Spencer's inopportune miscue. Ferrell's triple and Stewart's single followed, bringing the alien total to 4—more than enough to win.

Burke Gives Way To Thomas.

Detroit Scene Of Big Bout, Is Report

Sharkey-Schmeling to Clash There, Says State Group.

Promoters Refuse to Confirm; New Row Faced by Garden.

DETROIT, July 31 (A.P.).—Although definite announcement was made this afternoon by James (Bingo) Brown, chairman of the Michigan State Boxing Commission, that Jack Sharkey, the Boston Lithuanian, would meet Max Schmeling in a bout at Navin Field, September 19, under the auspices of Olympia Arena, Detroit fight promoters refused to say the fight would take place.

Dick Dunn, manager of Olympia, declared he knew nothing about arrangements for the match "except what I read in the papers." Floyd Fitzsimmons, who promoted the Dundee-Fields change of title in his new arena at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, July 25, came forward with a claim for Sharkey's services, explaining that a contract with the Boston sailor to fight Pierre Charles, Belgian heavyweight, here last fall still was binding upon Sharkey, who was reported ill at the time of the scheduled match. Fitzsimmons' contract with Sharkey is dated August 23, 1928, and is filed at Lansing.

Contract Still Holds, Says Promoter.

"The contract still holds," Fitzsimmons said. "Sharkey will have to fight for me before he can go through with the Schmeling fight."

He added that he was ready to match Sharkey with Bill "K. O." Clemens, of Cleveland, under the same terms he offered for the fight with Charles, $20,000 flat, or 30 per cent of the gate. "Or," Fitzsimmons continued, "I am willing to work with the Madison Square Garden Corporation and stage the Sharkey-Schmeling fight in my new arena at the State Fair Grounds."

Garden Official in Detroit.

Frank Bruen, vice president of Madison Square Garden has been in Detroit since the Dundee-Fields match dickering with the State Boxing Commission. The commission's announcement that the fight would be held at Navin Field rather than in Fitzsimmons Arena, indicated that the Garden reached an agreement with Olympia, although the Olympia management remained noncommittal.

Inasmuch as Madison Square Garden has had Sharkey under contract for all his main fights since 1927, the arrival of William F. Carey, president of the Garden, from New York, tomorrow is expected.

Fighter Is Suspended For Fouling Devoti

Scott, British Heavy, Arrives in New York

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Phil Scott, English heavyweight, who figures in Max Schmeling's difficulties with the New York State Athletic Commission, arrived here today. Scott is under contract to fight Schmeling for Humbert Fugazy—a fight that the German boxer refuses to go through with because it was arranged by Arthur Buelow, his repudiated German manager.

Blood-Poison to Keep Hoyt Out Two Weeks

New York, July 1 (A. P.).—Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the Yankees, is suffering from a slight attack of blood poisoning, it was learned today. The infection probably will keep him out of action for two weeks.

Hoyt has not pitched for the Yankees for ten days and has been out of uniform nearly a week. It was first announced that he had a mild case of intestinal influenza.

Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, reported today that his condition was good and he expected the pitcher to be out in about a week.

Braves Win First, 1-1; Cubs Take Second, 6-3

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Chicago split even in a double-header with Boston here today and increased its first-place lead over Pittsburgh to five games. The Cubs lost the opener, 7 to 1, but came back to take the second, 6 to 3. Pittsburgh lost its chance to gain by losing to Philadelphia, 6 to 2.

Socks Seibold kept the Cubs well in check as the Braves won the opener. He allowed only seven hits and kept them well scattered. Charley Root, the Cubs' star pitcher, was nicked for nine hits and five runs in seven innings, and Hal Carlson allowed four hits and two runs in the last two frames. In the second game, the Cubs hit Bob Smith hard in the early innings and Pat Malone protected his five-run lead to chalk up his fifteenth victory of the season. Hack Wilson hit his twenty-ninth home run in the third with two runners on base, and his thirtieth in the seventh with none on.

MANGIN, G. U., BEATEN IN TOURNEY

Faraubarson, Doeg, Hall, Williams Win at Seabright.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31 (A.P.).—A clamorous tennis figure, whose daring racquet carried him to two national championships some fifteen years ago, came smashing through to the semifinals of the Seabright tournament today.

Crushing Julius Seligson in straight sets by scores of 6—4, 6—4, Richard Morris Williams 2d, of Philadelphia, shared with John Doeg, the Californian; Berkeley Bell, the Texan, and Norman Farquharson, the invader from South Africa, the honors of the day.

Farquharson, only surviving foreign contender, subdued Gregory Mangin, of Georgetown University 9—7, 0—6, 6—4, Doeg ended the hopes of J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 7—5, 6—3, and Bell had matters all his own way in overwhelming the Japanese, Sadakazu Onda, 6—2, 6—3. But the achievement of the veteran campaigner, Williams, was in many ways the most impressive of the four.

Williams looked a winner when he broke through Seligson's strong service in the fifth game to lead at 3—2. Gaining confidence, he swept through two more games before Seligson braced, took two and cut Williams' lead to 5—4.

Williams Is There In Pinches.

In the pinch the old Davis Cup hero came through magnificently. With Seligson serving the points went to 30 all, then Williams drove home two clean-cut placements for the game and set. A heart-breaking trap shot which the stocky Seligson could

Betting Coup Planned, Is Belief

Fighters and Training for Titular Match Tomorrow.

CHICAGO, July 31 (A.P.).—Sammy Mandell, who will defend his world lightweight boxing championship against Tony Canzoneri at Chicago Stadium Friday night, was spirited away from his rural camp tonight under police guard as a precaution against possible violence by members of a purported gambling clique.

Mandell was a heavy favorite in the betting, the odds on him having mounted steadily during the past week. According to persons close to the champion, Mandell has been annoyed by anonymous telephone calls and prowlers at his camp during the past 24 hours. These were believed to have been instigated by a syndicate endeavoring to stage a betting coup. As a result the police guard was obtained to accompany him to a hotel, and to remain with him until ring time.

"Funny Stuff" Upsets Champion.

As he left his camp, Mandell said the "funny stuff" had upset him considerably, and while he was not certain that anyone was trying to harm him, had decided to take no chances.

The champion tomorrow was to go to a gymnasium for his final workout. He planned to do six rounds of floorwork, which with the drying-out process, was calculated to remove a pound and a quarter to bring him down to 135 pounds.

Canzoneri was to remain at his camp at the Garden of Allah for his final workout today. He also was to do six rounds of floorwork, merely to retain his edge.

Canzoneri made it another afternoon of boxing at his Garden of Allah camp, before letting down until ring time. He boxed six fast rounds, two apiece with a trio of sparring mates, in his final workout with the gloves. He intends to remain out in the country until Friday morning, presumably to get a little more joy out of life and to escape the heat. He will not break camp until time to come into Chicago for the weighing-in Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile, members of the Illinois State Athletic Commission suspended business temporarily in acting as a clearing house for buying tickets to the championship match for politicians and deserving friends. The commission returned 234 of the original 950 seats obtained from Paddy Harmon, president of the Stadium Corporation, but found itself $2,299.30 short when the accounting was made.

Commission Begins To Check Up.

A representative of the commission immediately began to check up in an attempt to recover the shortage.

Promoter Harmon regards the prospect of a sell-out as rather bright. With a seating capacity of nearly 25,000, the stadium can do about $145,000 worth of business. This, Harmon indicates, is what the fight will draw. The advance sale, according to reports tonight, has exceeded $90,000.

The only jarring note in Harmon's hope of a sell-out is the weather situation. A break in the hot spell is all that is needed, Harmon says, to bring out a capacity attendance.

British Race Classic Is Won by Clear Cash

Goodwood, England, July 31 (A.P.).—Clear Cash won the famous Goodwood Stakes over the long distance course of 2 miles and 3 furlongs today. Troubadour was second by five lengths and Dazzler third.

Mountain Lead, starting at 10-to-1 against, finished a head in front of Clear Cash but was disqualified because of bumping and boring tactics by his jockey.

Clear Cash was at odds of 13 to 8, Troubadour at 100 to 8 and Dazzler at 25 to 1. Fourteen horses ran.

TWO HELENS TO LEAD U. S. NET TEAM

Misses Wills, Jacobs Head Wightman Cup Players.

NEW YORK, July 31 (A.P.).—Definite selection of the two California stars, Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, to occupy the No. 1 and No. 2 positions, respectively, on the United States Wightman Cup Team for the tennis matches with the British women, August 9 and 10, at Forest Hills, was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs each will play two singles matches in the two-day series, comprising seven matches altogether.

The other members of the American Team, including three or four more players, will be selected on the basis of performances in tournaments at Seabright, N. J., now in progress, and later at Easthampton, Long Island.

Edith Cross Heads Other Eligibles.

Those considered eligible for such selection, according to the U. S. L. T. A., include Edith Cross, of San Francisco, No. 3; Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, of New York, No. 4; Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of Santa Monica, No. 5; Miss Marjory Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., No. 6; Miss Marjorie Gladman, of Santa Monica, No. 7; Mrs. L. A. Harper, of San Francisco, No. 8; Miss Sarah Palfrey, of Boston; Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York; Miss Ethel Burkhardt, of San Francisco, and Miss Mary Greef, of Kansas City. The members of the British Team already have arrived here for the matches.

RED SOX PLAY TWO.

The Washington Red Sox go to Quantico on Saturday to meet the Marine Nine. Sunday the Red Hosemen go to Bryantown, Md., for a contest.

Macks Make 9 in Fifth To Chase Tigers, 10-1

Philadelphia, July 31 (A.P.).—The Athletics assaulted Ownie Carroll for nine runs in a big fifth inning today and easily took the second straight game of the series from Detroit, 10 to 1. Rube Walberg pitched superbly, holding the clubbing Tigers to four hits. The victory kept the A's 9½-game lead over the Yankees intact.

Thirteen of the Athletics batted in the fifth after Carroll had limited them to one hit in the first four. Dykes drew two passes, Boley hit a single and double in this frame, and Johnson in the Tiger center field contributed two errors.

Miss Krucoff Wins With Ease

Miss Moorhead Also Advances to Round Before Final.

FRANCES KRUCOFF, defending champion, added another easy victory yesterday to her rapidly growing list in the singles division of the District of Columbia women's tennis championships at Columbia Country Club. Meeting the same fate as did two others in earlier rounds, Jessie Edmondson fell before the potency of the title holder's racquet by a score of 6—1, 6—1. The victory placed Miss Krucoff in the semifinals along with Phoebe Moorhead, who defeated Dorothy Kingsbury, 6—2, 6—3.

In the doubles Miss Krucoff and Josephine Dunham, another strong singles player, survived the first round by disposing of Mary Ryan and Esther Jolley, 6—2, 6—0. Miss Moorhead teamed with Frances Walker and also advanced in this division beating Ivy Jane Wymore and Miss Edmondson, 6—0, 6—1.

Today the singles will be confined to two matches with Ruth Martinez meeting Corinne Frazier and Miss Dunham opposing Miss Walker. The consolation singles also will continue today.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT F. COLLYER

THE fag end.

The offering at Arlington Park bespeaks the fag end of the meeting—the rag tag and bob end of racing material being engaged. In this respect, however, I understand the Bryson coterie is again down hook, line and sinker on SCOTLAND to bring home the bacon in the third. This hide is extra good at present and Morris will be in the pilot house.

BLUSHING MAIDEN is the contender with NELLIE CUSTIS holding the others safe.

In the day's opener it is a pretty tight fit between CHIEF PETTIJOHN and LAGOLCONDRINA. No, dear, do not try to proonunce, but have your megs strung across the board—three ways.

JEAN VALJEAN, the Keene trick, is again on the front end with a five point call over the consistent BEAMING OVER from the Bradley Stable. PRINCE PAT is third.

The clockers get-away special is none other than CZARIST. Lamp the gab appended: "They have been fooling along with the one all during the meeting. Today is the day." Sounds like winning chatter to me.

Down at Saratoga, where big things are in the cards, I am again stringing with the speedy OSMAND. With Garden in the pilothouse, he will be on the Bill Daily end throughout. IRONSIDES is also a very fit horse at present. However, the bet goes as it lays. "Bub" May is slated to put over another in the fifth in PLEASE, a real smart hide. The "rooms" of Pittsburgh and Buffalo report, "Loaded to the guards."

You have the answer in your lily white mitt. There was also quite a gob of commission here in Chicago on which to cop the long end of the third. Personally I look for KAI FENG to show smart improvement.

The closing dash should develop into a real good betting contest between MAYBE, POWERLESS, TAOS and HIGH GLOSS. Powerless is from the Madden Stable, and the master of "Green-Grass-Land" is mighty "high" on this one. More anon.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—YUCATAN, $12.06, $7.04, $4.92; WOODLOT, $67.72, $25.52; ONCORA, $4.40.

YUCATAN, following in closest pursuit of pace, took lead in the stretch when WHISKWIN quit and, under hard riding, held the race safe. WOODLOT finished fast after losing ground entering the stretch. ONCORA was going well at the end. LINDA raced forwardly throughout. PAGAN LADDIE was off poorly and always outrun.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500. For 2-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:29. Winner, Everslade Stable's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DEDICATE, $2.26, $2.10, $2.04; JOHN MACKLER, $2.34, $2.20; HONEY LOCUST, $2.36.

DEDICATE, enjoying a big advantage at the break, took a good early lead and easily held sway throughout. JOHN MACKLER finished well after being taken wide by HONEY LOCUST entering the stretch. The latter raced forwardly all the way and had no mishaps. BILLY CHAMP raced wide and showed a good effort.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs (out the chute.) Purse, $1,600. The North Center. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, handily. Went to post at 3:53. Off at 3:54½. Winner, E. K. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HONEYMAN, $10.74, $5.28, $3.64; CLOG DANCE, $4.78, $3.36; MOLE HILL, $8 40.

HONEYMAN, racing well up during the early stages, closed stoutly through the stretch and, overhauling CLOG DANCE, outfinished the latter in a hard drive. CLOG DANCE, rated in close attendance of the pace, moved into command in stretch when FLAG BEARER quit, but could not stall off the winner. MOLE HILL, off slowly and badly outrun early, saved ground entering the stretch and finished with a rush.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $5,000 added. The Midsummer Claiming Stakes. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:21½. Off at 4:22½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUNMORE, $3.36, $2.96, $2.68; FLATTERY, $5.28, $4.02; LAUNDRYMAN, $3.84.

DUNMORE, reserved far back during the early stages, moved up fast entering the stretch and, coming over sharply to the rail, took command and drew out easily. FLATTERY, racing improved, moved into a brief lead on the inside turning into the stretch, but could not withstand the winner's challenge. LAUNDRYMAN also raced in improved form, raced forwardly throughout and had no mishaps. SISTER ZOE, outrun early, saved ground entering the stretch and finished fast.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:52½. Off at 4:55. Winner, E. K. Bryson's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—AFTERGLOW, $17.22, $7.08, $3.12; CONGO II, $5.16, $3.30; FRANK FULLEN, $2.46.

AFTERGLOW, going in vastly improved form, moved up fast on the inside entering the stretch and, taking command when the leaders spread, gamely held race safe under energetic handling. CONGO II showed good speed in pacemaking, but lost the lead when he made a wide turn into the stretch. FRANK FULLEN raced forwardly throughout and had no mishaps. HIGH STORM finished well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles (inner course.) Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:29. Off at 5:36. Winner, E. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPECTRE, $5.56, $4.60, $3.58; WILL BANK, $16.84, $10.62; HAM, $9.10.

SPECTRE, racing into the lead in first quarter, continued well under steadying restraint and easily held race safe. WILL BANK, racing forwardly on the inside to the stretch, was taken back suddenly and brought to the outside, where he finished well.

NATS BEATEN BY BROWNS, 5 TO 1

Stewart Allows Only 5 Hits; 4 Runs in Fourth Decides.

Thomas to the firing line for the second time in as many days. He was away badly, granting a run as a result of McNeely's single, another suicide by Dondero, who was credited with three during the game, and Ferrell's double. Thereafter Thomas had no trouble until the ninth, when his mates came to his assistance with another double play to help him out of a self-made hole—the result of two bases on balls with a sacrifice separating them.

The only thing to rave over from a Washington standpoint was the play of Buddie Myer around the middle sack. He made two really brilliant stops in the Browns' "big" fourth, in each case racing over behind Judge to make one-hand catches of hard-hit grounders which were labeled "hit." He accepted seven chances without a bobble, started a nifty double play, and stood out head and shoulders above his mates during the drab afternoon.

Ferrell, with a triple and double, led the enemy attack, although he was pressed for the honor by Heinie Manush, "Red" Kress and Earl McNeely, each of whom also were credited with two bingles. McNeely also came through with a great back-hand catch to rob Goslin of a line hit in the sixth.

SEABRIGHT MATCH LOST BY MANGIN

not reach and a zipping, cross-court forehand drive, the second set was much the same story with Williams always holding the balance of power in his flashing net game and his harder-hit, faster-dropping drives.

Farquharson was forced to play his best to win the first set from Mangin. After rolling up a lead of 4—1 and 5—2, he saw his young opponent square it at 5-all then forge ahead on a break through service at love.

Mangin led again at 7—6, but swinging hard and accurately and taking the net whenever possible, Farquharson reeled off three straight games for the set.

Doeg-Hall Match Hard Fought.

The Doeg-Hall match was hard fought until the Californian broke through in the eleventh game and took the opening set on his terrific service. He won the first three games of the second set and Hall's rally came too late to stop him. Bell outclassed his Japanese rival all the way in the other quarter-final match.

Dick Williams later in the day came back into the spotlight with a doubles victory which carried him and his old Davis Cup partner, Watson Washburn, into the semifinals. They trimmed Doeg and his Stanford University teammate, Lawrence Hall, 6—1, 6—4. An added attraction was a mixed doubles exhibition in which Miss Betty Nuthall, English Wightman Cup player, and Bernon S. Prentice, president of the Seabright Club, defeated Mrs. Phoebe Watson, another member of the invading English women's team, and H. G. M. Cooper, Oxford captain, 6—4, 6—4.

Boerner Going Well In South Atlantic

In turning back the Spartanburg Team yesterday in the South Atlantic League, Larry Boerner, former Central High and sandlot mound star, won his eighth triumph of the season. He now boasts a record of eight wins and three losses, and rates third among the Selly loop hurlers. His team won yesterday, 3 to 0.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT AT VIRGINIA POLY

Gustafson Again to Follow Warner's Style of Game.

Lee Frank, Ex-Pitt Captain, Again Will Coach Linemen.

BLACKSBURG, Va., July 31 (A.P.).—Pop Warner's famous system of football, with all its tricky passes, reverse plays, puzzling overhead game and powerful drives off tackle, will enter its fourth season at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in September with Andy Gustafson, head coach of the Gobblers and former Warner pupil at the University of Pittsburgh, in charge.

Gustafson, one of Warner's most famous backs, has developed several noted backs of his own in his three years at V. P. I., including Frank Peake, hailed by sports writers and football officials in all parts of the country as one of the outstanding backfield stars of 1928. Coach Gustafson will be assisted this year by Lee Frank, another Pitt star and captain of the Panthers in 1924, who has served two years as line coach here.

V. P. I. supporters look to Coach Gustafson for probably the most successful year in the Gobblers' history this fall with plenty of good material on hand. With true Gustafsonian ability, it is remembered, the V. P. I. coach took one of the lightest teams in V. P. I. grid annals to the North in 1926, his first year, and forced a great Dartmouth team to keep its varsity squad on the field the full 60 minutes to eke out a victory.

Last fall Gustafson lost but one game in the North and one in the South to pile up an impressive scoring record.

Gustafson is a graduate of West High School, Aurora, Ill., and of the School of Business Administration, University of Pittsburgh. He entered Pittsburgh in 1922 and was graduated in 1926.

The V. P. I. mentor showed promise as a fullback on the Pitt freshman squad of 1922 and the following year he was regular fullback on the last of the famous Warner-coached elevens at Pittsburgh. His last two years under the tutelage of Coach John B. Sutherland, brought country-wide recognition and many mythical team honors.

Those who watch Gustafson demonstrate to his famous "pony express" backfield at V. P. I. some of the gems from the Warner and Sutherland trick-bag can easily sense the terrific power of Pitt's off-tackle smashes with Gustafson toting the pigskin in '23, '24, and '25.

Phils Again Beat Bucs, 6-2; Klein Hits No. 33

Philadelphia, July 31 (A.P.).—Philadelphia again defeated Pittsburgh with home runs here today taking the second game of the series, 6 to 2.

"Chuck" Klein smashed his thirty-third four-bagger of the season in the second inning with the bases empty and Don Hurst got his fifth in the last four games in the fourth with two on.

Brame, Pirate pitcher, did not give a hit in any of the innngs in which the Phils did not score. Koupal was in trouble several times but three fast double plays helped him to get back on firmer ground.

Red Sox and Indians Divide in Double Bill

Boston, July 31 .P.).—The Red Sox took the first game of a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians here today, 4-0, but dropped the second, 6-2. Danny MacFayden kept Cleveland's nine hits well scattered in the opener.

Rhyne's double with the bases full in the seventh inning of the first game drove in three runs and he scored himself on MacFayden's single. L. Sewell, with a double and triple, and Hodapp with a single and double which drove in two runs, helped Cleveland win the second contest. The Red Sox used three pitchers.

Yanks, Led by Gehrig, Trounce Chisox, 16-2

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—The Yankee power house was turned on full blast today and crushed the White Sox, 16 to 2, but without aiding the Yanks in the least to draw closer to the league-leading Athletics, who beat the Tigers.

The Yanks' seventh straight victory since returning to the home grounds deluged Walsh and McKain, young White Sox pitchers, with 17 hits for a total of 23 bases. Gehrig hit his twenty-sixth homer, a double and single and reached first base five times. Wells pitched a strong game for the Yanks, and evaded trouble after the second inning.

Rixey Bests Genewich As Reds Triumph, 2-1

Cincinnati, July 31 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds evened the series with the New York Giants today, taking the second game, 2 to 1, in a tight pitchers' battle between Eppa Rixey, elongated southpaw, and Joe Genewich, Giant right-hander.

Rixey gave the Giants only seven hits and Genewich allowed eight. The Reds scored the winning run in the eighth on Dressen's single, an error by Bill Terry, a wild pitch and Allen's single.

Dodgers and Cards Split Double-Header

St. Louis, July 31 (A.P.).—Brooklyn punched out an 8-to-2 victory in the second game of a double-header with the St. Louis Cardinals to even the count for the day after bowing before the fine pitching of Jess Haines in the opener, 5 to 2.

Haines turned in his second straight four-hit performance in the first contest, but two of the hits were homers by Pitcher Dudley and First Baseman Bel Bissonette. The Cards touched Bill Clark for ten hits in the second game, but could score only in the second inning.

Bill Hallahan mixed ten passes with the eight hits he gave the Robins in the second game and was always in trouble. Four passes, a wild pitch, Frisch's error and one hit Bressler's triple, gave the Robins three hits in the sixth. Frederick hit a homer in the eighth for Brooklyn.

PLAYGROUND HONORS TO CARDOZA

Wins Southern Conference Meet for Colored Teams.

CARDOZA PLAYGROUND won the colored Southern Conference meet yesterday on the Cardoza track as nearly 1,500 spectators looked on. The winners scored 48 points to 42 totaled by the second-place Sixth and L squad. Willow Tree was third with 40 points. Barry Farms scored 1 point.

W. Brown and Black shared high point-scoring honors. Brown was first in the unlimited class 100-yard dash and running broad jump, while Black scored first places in the 100-pound class running broad jump and running high jump.

Yesterday's meet concluded the colored conference games, and now the athletes will concentrate on dual and triangular meets on their own playgrounds. This is the first year that the conference meets have been held for the colored runners, and playground officials have been pleased with the results. The city finals will be held on August 23, when The Post medals and cup will be the prizes.

85-POUND CLASS.

260-YARD R

THE DOUBLE

By EDGAR WALLACE

SYNOPSIS.

Dick Staines, in love with beautiful Mary Dane, a nurse, concludes that the girl has a dangerous double when he mistakes her for a mysterious intruder in Walter Derrick's house. The double, he later discovers, is Mary Devilliers, of Cape Town, Africa; but what she seeks in the house, where one murder has already taken place, remains a mystery. Lordy Brown, who might have told, lies dead. And then one night from his vigil in Tommy Weald's adjoining house a bell, warning him of an intruder, summons Dick. He puts his shoulder against the door. It bursts open, and he is in the room—it is empty! Soon thereafter, as Mary Dane, Tommy and Dick are on the beach, a car approaches them, and from it a bomb is thrown. Dick knocks it aside before it explodes, and later Mary tells him she suspects a Herman Lavinski.

"A little bird told me," said the superintendent. "Anyway, it doesn't matter. I suppose you asked and the reply wasn't satisfactory. We'll leave it at that for the moment. The point is—here's the point."

He turned over the documents and took out a square card covered with thumbprints. The language, Dick saw, was German.

Convicted in Munich, 1911, Lavinski alias Stein, alias Griedlovitz, alias Paul Stammen. Speaks German and Russian with a broken accent; believed to be of English extraction.

Bourke read German as easily as he read English.

"Look at that thumbprint."

Dick hadn't to look twice.

"It's our man," he said. "How did you get it?"

Very fortunately, the police department attached to the German Embassy had a record of a number of English nationals who had been convicted in Germany.

"The other embassies have the same, and I was intelligent enough to send round a memorandum asking if they'd give us particulars of Lavinski. I was hoping to get a photograph. By the way, the German description makes him a much thinner man, but he was very much younger then. It was for the same type of offense that he got time in Germany—shooting up a cashier and getting away with the pay roll. We've got a later description of him, but the fingerprint is the thing. If it hadn't been for the disorganization of the embassy following the war, we'd have had this man. As it is, I've written across to the German minister of justice asking him to let us have a photograph. He may not be in England."

"I think he is, sir," said Dick. "If I were a betting man, that would be the certainty I should back."

"Anyway, we are using the press," said the superintendent. "I've circulated this description."

He pushed the slip of paper across and Dick read from—

"It will be in the last edition of the evening newspapers. I'm expecting that we shall have the usual crowd of reporters down, but nothing is to be said to connect this man with the Slough murder."

When Dick reached Tommy Weald's house he saw two workmen coming through Mr. Derrick's open doorway. He had lost no time in repairing the damage that had been done to his wall, apparently. To his surprise, Derrick himself followed the workmen.

"I am blocking up the secret passages of this fine old medieval castle," he said cheerily. "Either I do that or I shall sell the house."

"And leave the gold for somebody else to find," said Dick.

Derrick smiled.

"I've told you before and I tell you again: The only gold in this house is on the picture frames. Have you been out of town?"

"Yes. I thought you were in Brighton—I saw your car at Lewes. The hostler told me you had gone on there."

Mr. Derrick nodded.

"I stayed the night at Brighton, but the place was terribly full. . . ."

When a Brighton habitue starts to talk about Brighton there is no room for any other subject of conversation.

"The one good thing this business has done," Derrick went on, "is to show me how deuced uncomfortable this house is. I'm having it refurnished from top to bottom. Where are you dining tonight?"

Dick pointed to Tommy Weald's residence.

"At home," he said.

Derrick laughed.

"It must be almost like a home to you by now. Will you dine with me or shall I invite myself to dine with you?"

Dick was glad enough to extend the invitation.

Although he made light of these extraordinary happenings that had so distressed him, it was obvious to Dick that the strain was telling on Derrick. Behind his joviality was a hint of nervousness and apprehension. Over the dinner table he confided the astonishing fact that the one thing which really "rattled" him was the ghost.

"I can't understand that spook Larkin is a very nice fellow but has no imagination at all—he could not have invented it. Are you afraid of ghosts?"

Dick smiled. He might have confessed, but did not, that he had been scared of more substantial things than ghosts in that house.

"Not very, eh? Well, I am," confessed the owner heartily. "I'm so scared that I dare not spend a night there to catch him—Larkin says he comes regularly. And he's more frightened than I am!"

He smiled good-humoredly.

"When I came here this morning I found two detectives inside and chased them out. But if you do hear or see anything, I'll tell Larkin to unfasten the upstairs window and leave the lights on the landing. Oh, by the way"—he took an evening newspaper out of his pocket—"who is this Lavinski? What is he wanted for?"

"Quite a number of offenses, including murder."

Derrick looked at the sheet again and read the paragraph slowly.

"It doesn't say murder. I suppose that's a little dodge of yours? By the way, Larkin says that the 'ghost' always appears from half-past eleven to twelve. So if you want to be thrilled to death you might step in round about then."

He was going to a hotel in Weybridge, a beautiful house in a wooded park, which had the advantage of a private golf course.

Dick spent the evening with a book. He was feeling tired. Once he went up to his own room, stepped onto the balcony, and saw that Mr. Derrick had been as good as his word and that the French windows were fastened by a catch which he could easily open from the outside.

He came downstairs, read a little, cribbled a little, and thought much. He wondered if Mary would call him up. Hitherto he had been suspicious of these long-distance calls, but now—he smiled at his secret thought. By the evening post he had an intimation to the effect that his flat was available for his use, his tenants having decided to spend the rest of the period abroad. Ordinarily he would have been glad to have the news, but now he didn't very much care one way or the other. He had made himself very much at home in Tommy's best room. Poor old Tommy! How would he take it, he wondered? Or would he ever know? Yes, Dick thought he would know and be very pleased. After all, this cheerful man had his moments of doubt concerning Mary. Without confiding as much, he had revealed something of his apprehension unconsciously. There were moments when Mary terrified him. Yes, Tommy would accept the situation in a good spirit.

He looked up at the clock: it was twenty minutes to twelve, and the ghost was due! He really did not take that ghost very seriously. At the same time, many things that he had not taken seriously had proved tragically disturbing.

As he rose to go upstairs the phone bell rang.

"Take this call from Margate," said a voice, and Dick purred inwardly.

He waited an interminable time. Somebody else was talking on the line—a thin, high, woman's voice, speaking at a tremendous rate, as though she realized the value of a three-minute conversation and was anxious to crowd in every syllable. And then:

"Is that you, Dick?"

It was Mary's voice, hard with anxiety.

"Dick, is that you?"

"Yes, my dear."

"You haven't gone into Derrick's house, have you? Dick, I don't want you to go. I want you to promise me . . ."

The gabble of the other woman's voice grew faster and faster, drowning all other sounds but the soft undercurrent of the humming wires.

"Dick—can you hear me, darling?—I don't want you to go into——"

Click! He was cut off. Again he heard the gabble, and that too died as suddenly. He jerked the hook savagely, called the local exchange.

"I was cut off," he said. "Get me through at once."

"What number, sir?"

He did not know the number.

"Hang up your receiver," came the monotonous instruction. "They will call you."

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HOOVER RECEIVES STUDENT SOLDIERS

HONOR GIVEN GRADUATES

President Hoover yesterday afternoon formally received 830 student soldiers of Fort Washington, on the lawn fronting the south portico of the White House in the first event of its kind in the history of the Citizens Military Training Camps.

Disembarking shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon from the U. S. S. General H. D. Rucker at the foot of Twelfth street southwest, the C. M. T. C. battalion, composed entirely of Western Pennsylvanians, swung northward to Pennsylvania avenue and thence to the White House through the east gate.

In brief private exercises, with newspaper men and camera men as the only guests, President Hoover strode out on the lawn, accompanied only by Col. Campbell Hodges, military aide to the chief executive, as the battalion band struck up, "Hail to the Chief," while the President stood with bared head.

Walking forward to the front line of the soldiers at attention, he shook hands in turn with Maj. Alexander M. Patch, commanding officer of the Twelfth Infantry at Fort Washington and titular head of the battalion; Capt. M. J. Conway, post adjutant at Fort Washington, and Maj. H. J. Cunningham, of Wexford, Pa., commanding officer of the C. M. T. C. battalion.

The President then brought the exercises to a close by shaking hands with the eight members of the four companies who this week are completing the four-year C. M. T. C. course as eligible candidates for reserve officer commissions. The group, lined in front of the battalion included Charles H. Bloom, of Altoona, Pa.; Frank F. Funk, of Confluence, Pa.; Hugh McNeill, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Homer C. Roberts, of Swissvale, Pa.; James D. Cooke, of Mt. Lebanon, Pa.; Glenn A. Harvey, of Freeport, Pa.; Charles W. Hall, of Turtle Creek, Pa., and Edward L. Yanchus, of Masontown, Pa.

Marching away in formation, the battalion proceeded to a downtown theater where the men were guests at an afternoon show before they were joined by the C. M. T. C. band of thirty pieces, which went on the air in several numbers from Station WRC.

HOOVER GREETS STUDENT SOLDIER OFFICERS

President Hoover yesterday afternoon greeted 830 Fort Washington C. M. T. C. at the White House by shaking hands with ranking officers of the units and eight members who conclude their four-year courses this week. In this group, from left to right, are Col. Campbell Hodges, military aid to the President; Capt. M. J. Conway, adjutant, and Maj. Alexander M. Patch, commanding officer of Fort Washington; President Hoover and, on the extreme right, Maj. H. J. Cunningham, C. M. T. C. battalion commanding officer.

Robert W. Brown Wins Promotion for Work

Robert W. Brown, 1348 Euclid street northwest, has been named student troop commander at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Myer, Va., it was announced yesterday.

Brown's promotion was the result of his hard work in classes and in the saddle, it was stated. There are 250 young men from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania at Fort Myer learning the basic principles of military science as applied to the Cavalry branch of the service.

Fort Monroe Campers Hear Col. J. E. Bentley

Lieut. Col. James B. Bentley, U. S. A. reserves, who in civil life is superintendent of the Avondale County school, of Laurel, Md., spoke on "Great Americans" yesterday at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Monroe, Va. His talk was one of a series on "Citizenship."

Touching briefly on the lives and achievements of great American statesmen, soldiers, inventors, and humanitarians, Col. Bentley advised the men to be always prepared for whatever emergency might arise to serve their country.

Nine Noncommissioned Officers Are Appointed

The new commissioned officers for the 401st Volunteer Marine Corps Reserves who are now in training at Quantico, Va., were chosen yesterday.

They are: John E. Fondahl, first sergeant; Ross H. Kaylor, gunnery sergeant; Luther H. Gentry and Frank O. Brass, sergeants; Harry W. Warner, Natt L. Hodgden, William V. Christian, George L. Earle and Harry B. Miller, corporals.

The 401st company, which is composed for the most part of policemen from the District of Columbia, is competing with companies from New York, Philadelphia, Toledo, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Roanoke, Va.

Mitchell Wins Honor As "Basic" Candidate

Grable H. Mitchell, the son of Charles L. Mitchell, forecaster for the Weather Bureau, has been chosen as the best "basic" candidate of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Eustis, Va.

Young Mitchell won the title over 1,399 other candidates who are in the basic battalion at Fort Eustis.

More than 1, 200 of the 1,900 boys attending the camp there are students in high schools throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. Ninety-two attend college and 36 military colleges. About 1,300 of the candidates have never received military training before.

Maj. Gen. Fred B. Sladen, commandant of the Third Corps Area of the Army, was a visitor recently at the camp. He was accompanied by Col. Robert Knox, officer in charge of C. M. T. C. affairs in the Third Corps Fred B. Sladen, jr., a recent graduate of West Point.

Funeral Service Held For Drowned Woman

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 31.—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Berryville for Mrs. Lillian May Wingfield, 27, wife of William Wingfield, of Rectortown, Va., who was drowned Sunday while wading in the Shenandoah River near Berry's Ferry, Clarke County. She stepped from shallow water into a hole about 25 feet deep. The body was recovered late that night.

She and her family had come to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shepherd, at Berryville. The drowning occurred within sight of several persons who were unable to save her. Besides her husband, two children and parents, she leaves two brothers, Harry Shepherd, of Washington, and Champ Shepherd, of Berryville, and one sister, Mrs. Harry Brown, Berryville.

VIRGINIA PEACHES MENACED BY PEST

Oriental Moth Is Threat to Harvest, but Optimism Is Expressed.

DEMAND IS EXCELLENT

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 31.—The Oriental peach moth, which has caused alarming depredations in some sections of the country, has made its appearance in this county. One big orchard man said today that he picked 20 bushels of peaches in one of his orchards yesterday and that 16 bushels of the 20 had to be thrown away. It is not thought that the insect has obtained anything like as large a hold as this throughout the orchards in general, but it is felt that it will cause a great reduction in the season's yield. In spite of the moth, predictions are decidedly optimistic.

Albemarle County fruit growers now predict a $500,000 peach crop—the greatest that the county has ever had. It is estimated that more than 600 cars will be shipped from the county. About 400 cars will go from the Crozet section, at the foot of the Blue Ridge; 150 from the vicinity of Charlottesville, and 75 from Greenwood. The season will begin in earnest about August 5.

It is said that the market is excellent, and that the demand for good peaches is strong. An estimate of $3.50 per crate or better has been made. Most of the shipments will go to New York and Boston. The leading varieties will be Elbertas and Hales, with Champions, Belle of Georgia, and Common in the minority.

One prominent fruit man stated today that the prospects for apple prices are the best in years. Good Winesaps will range from $4 to $5.50 per barrel, and good Pippins will probably run from $5 to $6.50.

Peach growers have been told to pull the fruit affected by the Oriental moth and bury it. A warning has also been issued against leaving culled peaches lying on the ground during the rush of the coming season. The pest spreads rapidly.

Church Will Become Undertaker's Parlor

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., July 31.—John B. Cornwell, undertaker, has purchased from the trustees of the Methodist Church the frame church building and lot adjoining, which he will convert into an undertaking parlor.

Mr. Cornwell paid $2,000 for the property. He will take possession September 1, when the new $40,000 stone church, which has been erected by the Methodist congregation, will be ready for occupancy.

Storm Hits Woodville; Crops Are Damaged

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 31.—A storm struck the town of Woodville late Monday evening. Much damage was done to standing crops in the vicinity and one cow was killed by lightning. All streams in that section were high for some time after the storm.

Woodville was practically destroyed several months ago by a tornado which killed one boy and injured many other persons.

Cambridge Youth Is Killed by Auto

Martin Schnoor, Jr., Hurt Fatally Trying to Pass Truck.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cambridge, Md., July 31.—While riding a bicycle on the Cambridge-East New Market road last evening, Martin Schnoor, jr., 20, was hurt fatally when he attempted to pass a large truck. He was struck by a passing car driven by Arthur Fleming, of Akron, Ohio. He was brought to the Cambridge (Md.) Hospital by Russell Hollowell, of Federalsburg, where it was found he had sustained a fractured skull. He died later. After a coroner's jury was impaneled this morning Fleming was absolved of all blame.

Schnoor is survived by his parents, three sisters and four brothers and half-brothers, and two half-sisters. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Immanuel Evangelical Church, with the Rev. John Kehoe in charge. Interment will be in Greenlawn Cemetery.

Forest Fire Prompts Warning by Officials

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 31.—A forest fire, thought to have been started by berry pickers, raged last night on Wills Mountain in sight of the city, causing much damage before it was checked today by forest wardens with gangs of men.

The woods are very dry as the result of the continued drought and the State forestry officials warn that the danger from forest fire at this time is very great. County constables, deputy sheriffs, fire and game wardens and State police are on special lookout for persons in any manner starting fires ni the wods. Special watch is being placed on berry pickers and picnic parties.

PASTORS TO WEIGH CHURCH PROBLEMS

Discussion to Feature Meeting of Piedmont District Disciples Ministers.

COMMITTEE TO REPORT

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 31.—Problems vital to the Piedmont District work of the Disciples of Christ will be discussed tomorrow and Friday at the thirty-second annual session of the assembly, now in session at the tabernacle grounds near Gordonsville.

Following the roll call of the 33 churches in the district and the reports of committees, there will be an address by the Rev. J. A. Tant, of Richmond, at 11 o'clock. "Evangelizing the Piedmont District" will be the theme of the Rev. H. D. Coffey, of Buckner, at the opening of the afternoon session. Another speaker on the program is Dr. J. T. T. Hundley, of Lynchburg. The evening sermon will be by the Rev. Edwin S. Sweeney, pastor of the Christian Church, this city.

District committees will make their reports at the 10 o'clock session Friday morning, following which there will be a sermon by the Rev. H. D. Coffey. A memorial service will be held at 11:30 o'clock. The night sermon will be preached by the Rev. C. M. Ford, of Pendleton.

Sermons will be delivered Saturday by the Rev. Hadden Knibb, of Cardwell, and John Mills Turner, jr., of Richmond.

The assembly will close on Sunday, when two sermons will be delivered by Dr. B. H. Melton, pastor of Ninth Street Christian Church, Washington, D. C.; one at 11 a. m. and the other at 3 p. m. The final sermon at 8 o'clock will be preached by the Rev. A. E. Simerly, of East Radford.

The churches of the Piedmont District are Bells Cross Roads, Bethany, Bethpage, Beech Grove, Charlottesville, Clifton Forge, Covington, Elpis, Edgewood, Enon, Evergren, Forest Grove, Gilboa, Gordonsville, Ground Squirrel, Holly Grove, Louisa, Macedonia, Maple Grove, Mountaintop, Mizpah, Piedmont, Salem, Sharon, Somerset, Springfield, Union Chapel, Union Grove, Unionville, Waynesboro, White Rock, Wintergreen and Zion.

HIGH SCHOOL PAPER AWARDS ANNOUNCED

Lane Wins for Third Time in Class B and Keeps Trophy.

DANVILLE VICTOR IN A

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 31.—Annual awards for high school newspapers entered in the contest of the Virginia High School Literary and Athletic League were announced today by Charles H. Kauffman, executive secretary of the league.

In the Class A contest, first prize was awarded to the Chatterbox, of the George Washington High School, Danville; second prize to the High Times of the E. C. Glass High School, of Lynchburg, and third prize to the Monocle, of the John Marshall High School, of Richmond.

In Class B the first prize was awarded to the Midway Student, of the Lane High School, Charlottesville; second prize to the Kaleidoscope, of the Hopewell High School, and third prize to the Mountaineer, of the Clifton Forge High School.

Class C awards were: First prize, to The Blare of the Blair Junior High School, Norfolk; second prize to the High Stepper of the Buchanan High School, and third prize to the Pioneer, of the Norview High School.

In the preparatory school class there was only one entry, but the judges gave a high rating to this paper. It was the Meteor of the Virginia Episcopal School, Lynchburg.

The Lane High School, of Charlottesville, was awarded first prize for the publication of the Midway Student for the third year. Consequently this school will retain permanent possession of the Class B trophy.

Judges in this contest were Nathaniel P. Lawrence, instructor in English, and William H. Wranek, jr., of the University News.

Pioneer's Descendants Attend Annual Reunion

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 31.—Descendants of James Gano, a pioneer in this State and one of the first to cross the Blue Ridge Mountains, gathered to the number of 111 at Spruce Pine Hollow, west of here, Sunday for their fifth annual reunion. Approximately 150 persons were present.

The descendants are children and grandchildren of the pioneer's two sons, Daniel and Joseph. The pioneer crossed the Blue Ridge from Baltimore to Romney, W. Va., in a merchant wagon in the early 1780's. On one of his trips he and his six-horse team and wagon mysteriously disappeared, and it is believed he either was killed by robbers or drowned in crossing the Potomac.

S. J. Lowell to Talk At Farmers' Meeting

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 31.—Samuel J. Lowell, of the United States Tariff Board, is announced as one of the speakers at the combined Berkeley-Jefferson counties farmers' picnic and Jersey Cattle Breeders Association meeting at Morgan's Grove fair grounds, Shepherdstown, tomorrow. Mr. Lowell is also a past master of the National Grange. Dr. H. O. Henderson, head of the dairy department, West Virginia College of Agriculture, is also on the program. Mr. Lowell is expected to deal with farm relief and the recent farm aid law.

C. J. Powell Head Of Firemen's Body

West Virginia Volunteers Hold Annual Meeting at Romney.

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., July 31.—C. J. Powell, of Romney, was elected president of the West Virginia Volunteer Firemen's Association at its first annual meeting here today.

Vice presidents named were H. M. Brown, Ridgley, first; H. G. Poland, Piedmont, second; H. W. Wolfe, Keyser, third; T. F. Vernon, Keyser, was named secretary; W. W. Long, Keyser, treasurer; J. W. Nau, Piedmont, sergeant at arms; James F. Octen, Piedmont, chaplain; J. H. Simmons, Ridgley, attorney. Terra Alta was named for the 1930 convention, the date to be selected later.

The convention will continue here two days. Today was given over to business, a baseball game, competitive drills and a square dance tonight. The parade will be held tomorrow, which has been declared a holiday by the mayor in honor of the meeting. Approximately 200 delegates were present for the meeting.

County Agent Sought In Farmers' Petition

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., July 31—A petition bearing 172 names of farmers of Jefferson County has been submitted to County Court here asking appointment of a county agent. The petition replaces a previous one in which the names of 30 of the signers were questioned as being bona fide farmers.

Friends of the movement declare favorable action by the court is mandatory if as many as 150 farmers sign. Part of the county agent's salary is paid by the State and Federal Governments.

Right of Way Battle May Result Fatally

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 31.—Jacob Bennett, 50, Buckhannon merchant is in a critical condition in a hospital there with a fractured skull, while Charles Tenney, 38, former Wesleyan College football star and graduate of that college, is under bond on a charge of attempted murder.

The men quarreled over the alleged crowding of Tenney from a road by Ralph Bennett, son of Jacob, and came to blows, one of which knocked the elder man to the sidewalk, breaking his skull on the curb.

James I. Crawford Dies Suddenly.

Luke, Md., July 31 (Special).—Death came suddenly to James Isadore Crawford, 53, for 29 years an employe of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., while he was sitting in a swing on his front porch yesterday. He had been suffering from heart leakage. His wife and three children survive. Mr. Crawford was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church.

BROWN WILL MAKE TWO TALKS TODAY

DANVILLE TO HEAR BYRD

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 31.—William Mosely Brown, coalition candidate for governor of Virginia in the November election, will make two addresses in this vicinity tomorrow, but they will not involve important campaign utterances, it is learned. The announcement of Brown's political activity is timed with the arrival here tomorrow night of Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, who is to make an address on fraternalism at a Red Men's celebration.

William Smith Chatham, attorney who is heading Independent Democratic activities in Pittsylvania County, stated that Mr. Brown is "getting acquainted" in various parts of Virginia and consented to make short addresses tomorrow afternoon at Dan River High School in Kentucky and at night in Brosville, where there is a well-established Junior Order. Smith further said that Brown is going to Portsmouth for a conference, but is reserving most of his campaign fire until he knows the identity of his Democratic antagonist.

Other significant happenings came to light in the county today. J. A. Conway and Hugh Robertson, of Blairs, announced their candidacies for the two seats in the House of Delegates as anti-Smith men, and will oppose Letcher Bryant and Hugh Shepherd, who are uncontested in next Tuesday's primary. They were recently waited on by a committee appointed at an anti-Smith meeting and their consent to run secured.

Theft of House Is Aired in Court

Man Dragging It Off With Tractor Must Return It or Pay $150.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 31.—Ben Edwards must move J. A. Meadows' house back to its original foundations in Back Creek Valley or pay Meadows $150.

This was the decision of Justice Fred H. Baker in a civil hearing yesterday afternoon on charges brought by Meadows that Edwards stole his house by hitching a tractor to it and moving it to another location. The evidence indicated Edwards had contracted to build a house for himself on Meadows' land and pay for land and lumber with labor. Edwards built and occupied the house for some months, but paid nothing. Meadows ordered him to leave, and he did—dragging the house by tractor from the Meadows land to a site on land which, it developed at the hearing, had been seized by the State for failure to pay taxes and which, consequently, belonged to neither Meadows nor Edwards. Meadows brought suit to get money or house.

Edwards at the hearing countered with $300 claims for an engine which he said he had sold Meadows and which had not been paid. The items did not affect the house issue, the court ruled.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., July 31.—The body of Elliot Buck, 75, was brought to Front Royal Tuesday evening for burial. He died at the Charlottesville, Va., Hospital following an operation. He had made his home at Waynesboro, Va., for a number of years, but was a native of Front Royal, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Buck.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, Courtney Buck, of Baltimore, Md.; Jack Buck, of Blackstone, Va., and Aubrey Buck, of Florida; one brother, Walter W. Buck, two sisters, Miss Mary Buck and Mrs. Ettie E. Smith, all of Baltimore, Md. Burial was in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Petersburg's Zoning Held Constitutional

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 31.—The Hustings Court, Judge E. P. Cox presiding, today heard further argument in the case of the Woods Seward Co., realtors, this city, against L. B. Dutrow, director of public safety, who, under the city zoning ordinance, had refused to grant a permit to the real estate company to erect a store at Sycamore and Filmore streets in front of a fashionable residential section.

A suit was brought by the petitioners to test the validity of the zoning ordinance of the city, which was partly heard a month ago by Judge Cox. The petitioners, the city of Petersburg and citizens who oppose granting the petition are represented by counsel. Judge Cox, after giving the arguments careful consideration, held that the zoning ordinance was constitutional.

Visiting Odd Fellows At Cumberland Rally

Special to The Washington Post

Cumberland, Md., July 31.—Chapel Hill Lodge, No 76, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held a rally attended by a large delegation from Queen's Point Lodge, No. 76, Keyser, W. Va., and by Odd Fellows from Brunswick, Md., and Chosen Friends Lodge, of this city. More than 100 were present. George H. McCracken presided over the entertainment program. The speakers included Luke McDowell, of Keyser, superintendent of schools of Mineral County; Harry L. Smith, grand guardian of the Grand Lodge of Maryland; Dr. C. B. Shoemaker, T. B. Cessna, grand warden of the grand encampment of Maryland; the Rev. Chauncey R. Botsford, County Commissioner Nelson W. Russler and Saul Praeger, past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Maryland.

Maryland Man Victim Of Rare Malta Fever

Hagerstown, Md., July 31.—A case of Malta fever, believed to be the only one in Maryland, has been discovered here. It was made known by officials of the Washington County Hospital, where the patient, Roy Delauter, tenant farmer of Smithsburg is believed recovering.

Delauter contracted the disease from milk taken from a cow suffering with abortive fever, the attending physician announced. Delauter was taken ill about six weeks ago.

A Man of Great Wealth OR A Group of Such Men Who Can See Six, Ten Years Ahead

Will Understand The Opportunity Presented In The Offer For Sale Of A Tract Of Over 66,000 Acres—More Than 104 Square Miles—Of Woodland, Fertile Farms, Lakes and Beach On The South Carolina Coast in The Heart Of The Rapidly Growing South.

The tract offered for sale lies almost in the center of a curve in the South Carolina coast—between Wilmington and Charleston. It has a twelve mile frontage of broad unsurpassed beach on the ocean. It is midway between New York and Palm Beach.

The chief significance of this location is its magnificent year round climate. It is equable, invigorating all year. Gulf stream breezes from the ocean and Southern temperature maintain a uniform climate.

There are nine fresh water, woodland lakes stocked with fish within a thousand feet of the ocean.

On the beach a new million dollar hotel is just being completed. All rooms have baths, both salt and fresh water. It is less than 200 feet from high tide yet is 30 feet above high tide.

Two other hotels are on the property; a two mile boardwalk; an unusually good 18-hole golf course, with grass greens and nine additional holes under construction, and a country club with 40 rooms; tennis courts, bridle paths.

There are two rapidly growing communities, 3 miles apart, of home owners, churches, schools, playgrounds, a nutrition clinic of note, apartment houses, modern stores of all kinds, a telegraph office and post office, miles of paved streets, boulevards and sidewalks. A new highway is being developed through the property by the County Authorities which will be a link in the main highway from New York to Florida—known as The Kings Highway over which Washington traveled in 1791.

A large water system, electricity and a sewer system are in operation.

A considerable acreage of rich farmland is under cultivation. Three crops are grown a year—potatoes, corn, hay in rotation. The vegetables have a high iodine content. And the growers enjoy the benefit of an early market feature.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad has built a broad guage line to the property. The short unfinished gap in the Inland Waterway from Boston to Florida has been surveyed through it and recommended to Congress. An airport with hangar, of the approved government type, is already built.

These are a few of the facts about the property for sale. The foundation is laid for a year-round resort-city, greater than any other on the Atlantic Coast. No other tract of such size with so many advantages of climate, soil and beach can be found on the Eastern seaboard.

With our modern transportation facilities—the airplane, the motor highway, the express train, the fast steamship service, this property is easily accessible to the centers of population. By train it is a day from Chicago, seventeen hours from New York and New Orleans, thirteen from Washington and fifteen from Palm Beach.

Nothing has been said about the beauty of the property. Perhaps it is best to simply quote from the letter of one of our foremost architects. . . "It is a place that no one can see without getting a thrill . . . a virgin forest over a rolling country coming down to a perfect beach that stretches away as far as the eye can reach in either direction. It seemed impossible that I had left New York at six o'clock on a Friday night, was back at my office at half-past ten Monday morning, and had spent from Saturday noon until late Sunday afternoon in such a place."

To a man of great wealth or a group of such men, the building of this property into the greatest all-year resort-city on the Atlantic Coast is an undertaking that will appeal to both imagination and sound judgment. The possibilities for profit are incalculable.
